WOMEN PRESENT DRYS' PROTESTS IN BEER HEARING

Threaten and Cajole Against Bill.

Cermak Orders Drive

Mayor Cermak yesterday ordered police captains to drive out drinking and gambling resorts in preparation for the return of legal beer. The mayor also pressed his program for a new ordinance requiring the licensing of dispensers of malt beverages now permitted by law. Details on page 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—A feminine army representing the W. C. T. U., the woman's national committee for law enforcement, and other professional allied dry groups swamped the house ways and means committee today with a deluge of oratorical opposition to the legalization of beer and light wines.

Experienced public speakers, with a practical knowledge of handling committees gained during more than a decade of Anti-Saloon league domination of congress, the woman's contingent alternately pleaded with and cracked the whip over the twenty-three members of the once friendly but now hostile committee.

Present Varied Arguments.

For the most part members of the revenue raising committee listened with stony-faced silence as one after another the women speakers presented the emotional side of the dry argument, entered denials that legalization of beer and light wines would add to federal revenues and assailed the brewers as the potential debauchers of the nation's youth.

They told the committee that beer was responsible for 90 per cent of pre-prohibition drunkenness. They asserted that modification of the Volstead act was the entering wedge for the return of the open saloon.

Then they warned that if Red revolution and riots followed the passage of beer legislation the responsibility would be laid at the committee's door.

Assail Tax on Beer.

Proposals that the government balance the budget through a tax on beer met with indignation from the women drys. One asserted that it would be far better for the government to place a tax on bread rather than one on beer. Another demanded to know why the committee did not place a federal tax on prostitution and gambling in the District of Columbia if the treasury was so hard up for money the government must place a tax on beer.

Icy streets and a cold misting rain failed to dampen the ardor of dry supporters and they flocked to the committee room in droves to applaud the remarks of their spokesmen until sharply admonished by Acting Chairman Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.]

Mrs. Peabody Is Field Marshal.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of New York, general chairman of the woman's national committee, acted as field marshal, delivering three speeches herself during the proceedings. In appealing to the emotions of a committee composed almost exclusively of married men, one witness used articles of food as exhibits and another toys and babies' shoes and clothes.

Committee members were told by Mrs. Leigh Colvin of the woman's national committee for law enforcement that there will be no Santa Claus for the children this year if daddy gets his promised bottle of 4 per cent beer by Christmas.

It was the exception rather than the rule when a committee member stopped the procession of witnesses or interrupted to ask a question. For the most part they allowed the flow of oratory to go on unheeded.

Heated Clash Over Davis.

There was one heated interchange late in the afternoon when Mrs. Ella B. Black, Pennsylvania chairman of the W. C. T. U., denounced a statement she said was made by Senator James J. Davis during the recent campaign that "a home that has a loaf of bread and a bit of cheese and a mug of beer on the table is the happy home."

She went on to say that conditions in the coal fields and industrial communities of Pennsylvania are bad enough without adding the liquor problem to the list. Reverting to the statement she attributed to Davis, Mrs. Black said conditions would be much better "if the same gentleman while secretary of labor had given more attention to the condition of

J. B.: "I CAN'T PAY, SAM, I HAVEN'T GOT THE JACK!"

ID THE WINNER; EGO IS BUSTED; ERIC IS BERSERK

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Eric Moythaler normally is a peaceful man. He does not know he ever had an id, that mysterious thing hidden deep down in mankind's innermost parts which—little imp that it is—strives forever to make a Mr. Hyde, the monster, out of a Dr. Jekyll, the gentleman.

Nor does Moythaler know that he also contained a super-ego; the thin veneer of civilization which, superimposed over the id, constantly battles with the latter for the good of man. He did not know that only his super-ego restrained him from batting papa over the head with a sledge-hammer or dropping baby down the well.

Mr. Moythaler was content to do his best as a wholesale grocery salesman, a job which necessitates much calling over the telephones.

Many, many times he got "phone's busy," "wrong number," or "your time is up; deposit another nickel, please."

Some days ago Mr. Moythaler's super-ego wore thin. One more "line's busy" and the id burst through, destructive as Vesuvius.

Mr. Moythaler snatched the wires off the telephone and threw them out of the booth.

"Oi! Oi!" shouted the id. "I'm free and loose and its my night to howl."

Since that time Mr. Moythaler has occupied himself with sneaking into drug stores and subway stations to snip off the wires of the public booth phones. He wrecked 301 phones in the midtown section.

Police caught him today and Mr. Moythaler will have four months in a quiet cell that his super-ego may have a chance to squelch and subdue his id.

URGES STOCKING BANK TO FOIL PURSE SNATCHER

Reports to police by half a dozen women that they had been victims of purse snatchers yesterday in various parts of the city caused Chief of Detectives Schoemaker to suggest that women who find it necessary to carry large sums of money on the street revive an old institution, the stocking bank.

"Don't carry any large amount of money if you can help it," advised Chief Schoemaker. "If you must do so, conceal it in your stocking or pin it inside your dress. If you have money in your purse, don't carry it by the strap in your hand, or under your arm. It is easy for a purse snatcher to get it then. Clutch your purse against your body."

Asks U. S. to Pay Mexico $30,000 for Youths' Deaths

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Payment of $30,000 to Mexico as "an act of grace" for the killing of Emilio Cortez Rubio, relative of former President Rubio, and Manuel Gomez, near Ardmore, Okla., last year by two deputy sheriffs was proposed in a resolution today by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee.

Cunningham, Ad Executive, Kills Himself

Howard J. Cunningham, president and owner of the Green-Fulton-Cunningham company, an advertising agency at 360 North Michigan avenue, shot and fatally wounded himself in his offices last evening. He was taken to the Henrotin Memorial hospital, where he died two hours later.

Although no direct motive for Mr. Cunningham's act was found by police, it was believed by his associates that ill health was responsible. His financial affairs, both business and personal, were sound, it was said.

Chats with Employé.

Mr. Cunningham appeared at his offices shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, wrapped and addressed some packages and went outside to mail them. On his return he chatted a few minutes with John Jenkins, publicity director, and then retired to his private office. A few other employés were about, but most of the staff of thirty men and women were gone.

After a few minutes Mr. Cunningham left his suite and went into a large conference room. He shot himself there. He was found unconscious, a bullet wound in the back of his head near the right ear. A pistol was at his feet and under a telephone was a brief note directing that J. V. McCarthy, a friend, be notified and that McCarthy in turn notify Mr. Cunningham's wife, Inez, at their home at 1426 North State parkway. This was done. Mrs. Cunningham reached the hospital just before her husband died.

Head of Company Since 1929.

Mr. Cunningham was 41 years old and a native of Washington, Ia. He was educated at Lake Forest academy and the University of Chicago. He became president of his company in 1929, after a number of years of service as secretary and treasurer. He was a member of the Tavern, Opera, and Sky Line clubs in Chicago and the Detroit Athletic club.

LETUP IN COLD WAVE DUE TODAY, SAYS FORECAST

A reaction from the unexpected cold wave which whipped down upon Chicago early yesterday is predicted for today. While the temperature probably will fall to between zero and 5 above this morning, according to the official forecast, the mercury is due to rise after that, and the weather man predicted that today's maximum would be about 20 degrees. Cloudy skies were predicted, with a probability of snow.

Yesterday's low was 2.4 degrees above zero and the high of the daylight hours, reached in the late afternoon, 8 degrees. It was the coldest Dec. 12 on record in the city and was the third coldest day since Jan. 26, 1920.

Virtually the entire United States outside the winter resort belt was snow covered and shivered in cold far below normal when the forecast was made yesterday. San Francisco had its coldest December day, with the thermometer reading near freezing.

The northwest and the Rocky mountain sections experienced temperatures even lower than those of the last week. At Elko, Nev., it was 37 below zero. Pipestone, Minn., registered 20 below; Philip and Aberdeen, S. D., had a minimum of 26 below, and Sioux Falls of 22 below. Webster City, Ia., reported 26 below.

Downstate Illinois had temperatures that made those of Chicago appear relatively mild. At Kewanee, 8 below was recorded. Ottawa had 1 below, Quincy 3 below, Galesburg 4 below, and Pana zero.

WILL PROVIDES A $20,000 TRUST FOR DOG AND CAT

Red, a shaggy shepherd dog whose great-grandfather was an Irish setter, and Peanuts, a cat, yesterday became the beneficiaries of a $20,000 trust fund which will provide bones and milk for the pair for the rest of their lives. The fund was left by Mrs. Alice Hunter, a widow, whose will creating the trust was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge.

Mrs. Hunter, who died on Sept. 23, left an estate which her attorney, H. H. Schultz, estimates at approximately $50,000. Under her will she left half of her property to Miss Marie Angeris Hunter, 19 years old, her adopted daughter, who resided with her at 1524 East 62d street. Other relatives were given small bequests of money and jewelry which totaled $5,000.

The remainder of the estate is left in trust "for Red, my dog, and Peanuts, my cat, to provide for their care and board during the rest of their lives. The will ordered the trust to end after the death of both pets. At that time the principal will be distributed equally among the Anti-Cruelty society, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin's dog refuge, Orphans of the Storm, and the Home for Destitute and Crippled Children.

WOMAN GAGGED BY BANDITS DIES OF SUFFOCATION

Two Berwyn Police Shot to Death.

A series of crimes of violence were reported from various parts of Chicago and Berwyn last night with a death toll of seven. Two policemen were shot and killed in Berwyn by an enraged householder. A Chicago policeman was shot and killed in a north side speakeasy. Policemen killed a fleeing automobile thief. A former pugilist was shot to death. A druggist and a watchman shot and killed a robber.

A woman was killed by suffocation from a robber's gag.

WOMAN KILLED BY GAG

The latest of the crime victims was Miss Gertrude Frish, 49 years old, of 2509 South Kedzie avenue. She suffocated from a thick gag which was stuck into her mouth by two torture bandits, who secured but $3 loot.

Miss Frish and her father, Fred Frish, 75 years old, were in their candy store at the Kedzie avenue address, which they had operated for thirty-three years, when the two robbers entered. Without ado, they slugged the aged merchant and dragged him into the rear room living quarters. They tied him hand and foot with picture wire and threw him on the floor. Then they seized the daughter, who fought them desperately, but was overpowered. They tied her hands behind her back, secured her feet, and let her fall to the floor. They then gagged her.

That was about 9 o'clock. For the next three hours they ransacked the place, evidently believing that Frish had hoarded a small fortune somewhere. Every few minutes the bandits would hit the helpless man on the head, call him a miser and demand that he tell where his money was hidden. He pleaded he had none. At midnight they departed with the $3. Frish freed himself, and untied his daughter. She did not move. Police were called and pronounced her dead, a victim of the gag.

2 POLICEMEN KILLED

The two Berwyn policemen slain, Frank Svec, 44 years old, and Edgar Chatterton, 33 years old, were shot down on the rear porch of the home of Arthur Lavac, 1535 Elmwood avenue, Berwyn. Lavac fired the shots that killed them through the glass of his kitchen door. They had gone to the house to serve him with a warrant charging him with failure to send his two children to school since October.

Lavac, surrounded in his home soon after the shooting by an overwhelming force of policemen, surrendered.

According to Lavac, he shot at the two men because he believed they were robbers come to raid his home.

Lavac's wife, Rose, said her husband had been in fear of enemies for some time. She was not able to tell coherently any basis for the fears. Among his preparations to receive unwelcome visitors was a huge bear trap set in a bedroom under a window.

Svec, a veteran of the Berwyn police force, lived at 2415 Euclid avenue, Berwyn, and Chatterton at 3508 Euclid avenue.

SLAIN BY GANGSTER

The Chicago policeman slain was Albert G. Magoon, 35 years old. He was shot and killed early last evening in the soft drink parlor of Jerry Maas, on the second floor at 2908 North Halsted street. The shots which killed him were fired by one of three men who had represented themselves to Maas as agents of the alcohol syndicate.

Magoon had left the Shefield avenue police station, to which he was attached as a member of the automobile detail, about half an hour before the shooting. He had stopped to visit Maas before going on to his home at 5364 Normandy avenue.

In the flat he found two of the supposed agents, who were cursing Maas for not using their product.

"I told them I couldn't use a gallon a week," Maas told the police. "Then Magoon, who was in civilian clothes, stepped in and said: 'Get on out with your talk about syndicates. The mayor said there's no more syndicates.' One of the fellows went outside and came back with the third man, a big fellow. That was the one who shot Magoon. He fired before Al could get his pistol out."

Late last night investigators arrested five men, all said to be connected

HOW AND WHY U. S. LOANED TEN BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—How were the war debts, out of which have been spun reams of international publicity and diplomatic correspondence, contracted and why?

Inquiries from the "man in the street" show that in the decade since the United States loosed its purse to Europe original facts have been buried, to the lay mind, under discussion of repayment.

In all, the United States handed out in cash and supplies, before and after the armistice, $10,338,058,351.

Most of this, $9,598,236,575, was raised by the Liberty Loan drives in this country and loaned to the allies for war supplies.

Their own cash was being spent at home for the same purposes. Victory depended on more production and more cash. Only the United States could supply these, and it did.

Purchases Made on Credit.

In 1918, the war over, the United States had surplus supplies in Europe. Congress authorized their sale. The debtor nations bought $593,869,010 worth, on credit.

Eighteen months later many nations suffered from food shortages. Congress created a 100 million dollar revolving fund to furnish food, and soon after it authorized the U. S. Grain corporation to sell 5,000,000 barrels of flour to the suffering countries. European nations purchased $140,952,766 worth of relief supplies.

Before the armistice Great Britain and Cuba repaid a total of $140,010,680.

With repayments made after the armistice six nations, Belgium, Cuba, France, Great Britain, Italy, and Jugo-Slavia, repaid $281,564,445 before the debts were funded.

Nothing Paid on Supplies.

Nothing was paid on account of the surplus war supplies and relief credits. The grand total was further reduced $1,932,923 by a credit to Finland for a cargo sunk by a mine.

Congress originally provided that the first loans should bear interest not less than the highest paid on Liberty bonds, and 3½ per cent was fixed.

But the secretary of the treasury decided that the billions borrowed from the American people were costing the government five per cent. All borrowers agreed to the increase and after May 15, 1918, all loans bore that rate.

Some of the allies were not able to pay back interest. When the funding agreements were made back interest was added to the total, making the funded debt $11,522,354,000. The interest rate was scaled down in those agreements to an average less than three per cent.

Interest Over 10 Billions.

This made the total interest to be received eventually $10,621,185,993 and the grand total of all the war debt to be paid over a long period of years $22,143,539,993.

The idea held by some that the United States has canceled or remitted part of the war debts, is not correct as to principal, but the cut in interest rates slashed approximately 11 billion dollars off the grand total that would have been collectable if the original rates had remained.

Down to date, including the early payments set forth above, the foreign nations have repaid a total of $2,627,580,897. This has reduced the principal of the debts $443,310,743. A total

DON'T QUIBBLE, PAY AS AGREED, BRITAIN TOLD

Expect French Default

Feeling ran high in France yesterday in favor of repudiation of the war debt installment due the United States next Thursday. Premier Herriot, in a speech before the chamber of deputies, assailed the Hoover moratorium as the cause of all Europe's debt troubles, but he pleaded for France not to repudiate its signature to the debt funding agreement with the United States. Political observers predicted that the chamber will vote to repudiate and overthrow the Herriot government today.

Indications from London were that the British government will make its Dec. 15 payment with the stipulation that it is the last until the United States consents to a new agreement.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Unless Great Britain backs down at the eleventh hour, she may be compelled to make her Dec. 15 payment on her war debt to the United States unconditionally or default outright, it was learned tonight.

An influential element in congress, and also in the administration, it transpires, is in favor of refusing to accept the British payment of $95,550,000 unless it be made without qualification and in strict accord with the debt funding agreement between the two countries.

Refusal to accept the payment with such strings tied to it as the British government suggested in the note of yesterday would leave Great Britain in default in discharge of a financial obligation for the first time in her history and would seriously impair her credit in the civilized world. Inasmuch as the consequences of default would be serious and would include a further decline in the value of the pound sterling, most officials believe Britain cannot afford to default.

Hoover Urged to Refuse.

President Hoover is being strongly urged by congressional leaders to reject the payment if made with the reservation announced in the British note that it should be credited on the amount to which the debt is reduced by subsequent negotiation.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's reply to the British note did not indicate that the administration contemplated going so far as to refuse if tendered on the condition named. It indicated that the conditions would be rejected, but the money accepted.

"It should be understood," said the Stimson answer, "that acceptance by the secretary of the treasury of funds tendered in payment of the Dec. 15 installment cannot constitute approval of or agreement to any condition or declaration of policy inconsistent with the terms of the agreement. The sum so received must be credited to principal and interest as provided therein."

Maneuver for Cancellation.

The British admission of ability to make the Dec. 15 payment and to make it in gold was widely construed in official circles as a giveaway of Britain's maneuvers which are now seen to be aimed at cancellation of the debts. By professing inability to pay, asking a suspension of the payment and finally proposing to pay conditionally the British government, according to the prevailing opinion here, was endeavoring to involve the United States in a commitment to reopen the debt settlements for revision downward.

In some quarters it was thought that Britain, upon realizing that she had laid herself open to the accusation of welshing, would avail herself of the loophole offered in the Stimson note to withdraw the conditions of payment. Mr. Stimson said he preferred to believe that the British proposal was not a condition but a statement of views the British government would urge subsequently to unconditional payment.

Discussed in House.

Congressional opinion that the President should reject the payment unless made without qualification was voiced by Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.] in a speech in the house today called forth by the British American correspondence of yesterday.

"Today we have an excellent illustration of the old adage, 'It takes two to make a bargain,'" said Mr. Treadway.

"The note received by the state department yesterday from Great Britain relative to the war debt payment due on Dec. 15 has interesting features. The payment as proposed therein might be described as a package containing $95,550,000 tied with indestructible bindings so that it cannot be opened. These bindings consist of conditions being made by Great Britain which are unacceptable to this country and entirely beyond the scope of Great Britain's own action in signing the original debt funding agreement which was duly enacted into law by congress. It becomes quite important that in agreeing to make the payment on Dec. 15 the largest debtor nation designates definite conditions without the slightest consideration of whether or not they will be approved by congress.

"These conditions are so contrary to the original debt funding agreement that I, as one member of congress and a member of the committee that would have jurisdiction over suggested legislation, would today vote to decline to receive the payment provided acceptance carried with it agreement with the conditions made by Great Britain.

"Enter No Conditions."

"I believe it is the part of congress to take no action in connection with these conditions. If this procedure is followed and unconditional payment is made Dec. 15, I feel that the request of Great Britain for a fairly prompt conference should be granted. It would only be the part of courtesy to a sister nation to accede to such a request without binding this country as to the final position it might take."

Mr. Treadway, who is ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, which has jurisdiction of the debt question, added, however, that even unconditional payment would not obligate the United States to yield to the British plea for a reopening of the settlement.

On every side one heard the opinion expressed that the British have greatly injured their case for revision by the revealed disingenuousness of their course. At least one Britisher of prominence also hinted his fear that the MacDonald ministry had blundered.

Lithuania Asks Revision.

Lithuania joined the other debtors today in asking revision of her six million dollar debt and suspension of the December installment.

The United States Chamber of Commerce submitted to its membership a referendum on recommendations that debt payments be temporarily postponed in the case of debtors incapable of paying and that the settlements be modified in consideration of trade concessions and reduction of armament expenditures by the debtors. Complete cancellation is opposed.

VATICAN MAKES CHARITY APPEAL TO U. S. ON DEBTS

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—An appeal to America for "international charity" was made today by the newspaper Osservatore Romano in pointing out the contention between revision of debts and peace. The publication recalled that the United States, after the war, had reminded the victorious nations that charity can not be separated from justice—a statement the paper said was similar to one made by Pope Pius.

"America conducted herself toward conquered nations in a manner not different from that of the vicar of Christ," the newspaper asserted. "Now there are nations conquered economically. The voice of generosity cannot be silent today as it was not silent yesterday for the conquered in the war."

Peace, disarmament, and peaceful reconstruction of economic life were said to be connected with the sacrifice Europe is now asking of the United States. The Osservatore cited three points: Germany's inability to pay, the allies' request for revision of debts, and America's request for disarmament. Regarding arms, the article declares: "Even as reparations can not be disjoined from debts, so reparations and debts can not be disjoined from disarmaments."

SIR JAMES BARRIE SPEAKS OF DEBT AS XMAS GIFT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The question of Great Britain's debts to the United States was touched upon by Sir James Barrie, playwright and author, during his speech at the Authors' club banquet here tonight. Sir James, alluding to payment in gold bars, said:

"I think our friends across the sea discovered that we intended to make them a Christmas gift and they, like all nice people who get Christmas gifts, were afraid we might not send them the right thing, so they sent us a suggestion. Let us pray that efforts of our representatives and their representatives be conducted so wisely that the United States and we may still remain stanch friends.

"Our last wish: May our countries as so often in the past go on giving to each other, they to us and we to them, the three best things either of us have—our love, our ladies, and our literature."

Herriot Blames Hoover for Europe's Troubles.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Facing the chamber of deputies in the long delayed session to ask for an appropriation with which to pay the $19,261,493 war debt installment to the United States on Thursday, Premier Herriot today won a 24 hour stay of execution for the French cabinet. He interrupted himself after a two hour exposé of the debt situation to demand that debate be adjourned until 3 o'clock tomorrow.

There was little doubt tonight, however, that his fate is sealed. As certainly as anything can be predicted in this world, Herriot will be overthrown in the chamber tomorrow by an immense majority and France will without a doubt default on its payment But that is tomorrow's story.

Blames Hoover Moratorium.

Today, Herriot first blamed President Hoover and his '931 moratorium for the present trouble over debts and then thundered that unconditional payment is out of the question. This awakened a whirlwind of applause. Repudiation of France's signature is equally unthinkable, he added.

"Payment with reservations—there is the government's solution," the premier proclaimed.

Then in the midst of silence which changed to an indignant uproar, Herriot said he could say no more in public debate today.

So despite the protests of a large body of the chamber it was decided to adjourn. Thereupon Herriot rushed back to the Quai d'Orsay and telephoned Prime Minister MacDonald in London to find out how the British are going to meet the crisis. Herriot then held a brief council of war with his cabinet before returning to the chamber to reveal in the semi-secrecy of the finance and foreign affairs committee the confidential reasons which motivated his decision to fight for payment of the debt.

Halt March on Chamber.

The chamber debate took place in an atmosphere that was electric. Down in the plush carpeted semi-circle the nation's electors abandoned their usual informal attitudes and listened with attention that no premier has had since the heroic days of Raymond Poincare. The galleries were packed.

Outside of the chamber a ring of helmeted guards and police were mobilized as if for a revolution and were busy frustrating the rainsoaked efforts of war veterans and royalist students to stage a march on the chamber to protest against paying the United States.

At one time the formidable police lines were almost broken by the students' charge and the mounted "garde republicaine" were called out to disperse a mob near the Place de la Concorde. Over 300 arrests were made and a number of minor injuries were inflicted on both the police and demonstrators. In the fashionable Passy quarter a heavy police force guarded the American embassy and the war memorial to the United States against an attack by former French soldiers.

Makes Poor Fight.

When Herriot appeared before the parliamentary committees at 7 o'clock tonight he made a sad impression. The premier's appearance alone was enough to defeat him. Worn out by the suspense of the last few days and by lack of sleep, Herriot spoke listlessly and with the anticipated stoicism of defeat.

He exhibited a message sent from Washington by Ambassador Paul Claudel analyzing the attitude of the American congress and presumably showing the hopelessness of making any serious reservations to payment. Regarding the nature of the reservations, he intended to make, all Herriot could say was that the new turn of developments, meaning Secretary of State Stimson's note rejecting any conditional payments, did not affect them in any way. As a trump card he had nothing left to play but an appeal to preserve the Franco-British solidarity, which it seems is beginning to become a little threadbare from over use.

As Herriot emerged from the committee rooms, a newspaperman asked him whether he would again accept the premiership after his defeat tomorrow. He said emphatically that he would not, but that he might be induced to remain as foreign minister if some one else took over the helm of the government.

Blames Hoover Moratorium.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Premier Herriot today told the chamber of deputies that the debts holiday which President Hoover declared last year was the cause of all the troubles in which America's debtors are now involved.

"That is my interpretation of the Hoover moratorium," he declared. "If the United States did not want to concern itself with the problem of reparations, Mr. Hoover should not have become involved in it. He should have allowed Germany to ask for the moratorium provided for in the Young plan."

But, he insisted, America did become involved in the reparations issue when it allowed Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young to frame the reparations plans under which the German payments were carried out up to the time of the Lausanne conference a few months ago.

Reviews Post-War Relations.

He went over the post-war relations between France and America in some detail, criticizing several phases of American foreign policy, beginning with the refusal of the American congress to approve the league of nations as sponsored by President Wilson.

"At this time, when there is talk of a link between debts and disarmament," he said, "I have the right to recall these things to the attention of all the American people who have lofty and just ideals."

He spoke of the cooperation by American experts in the establishment of the Young plan, and declared that "no one can deny that this plan, evolved by an American, created a link between reparations and other international debts. Many members of this chamber of deputies look upon the bank for international settlements as a clearing house to assure constant co-relation between debts and reparations."

Traces Misunderstandings.

Since the armistice, he said, misunderstandings have arisen between France and the United States, principally as a result of the fact that the pact of guarantee which was arranged to complete the Versailles treaty and was to have been signed by the United States and Great Britain "has become null and void."

"Moreover," he said, "we did not have the pleasure of receiving the United States into the league of nations. I am telling you now about some of the early difficulties which influenced succeeding events."

There was a burst of applause as he said:

"It was the intervention of President Hoover which destroyed every thing and reopened everything.

"The Hoover moratorium cost France more than the $82,000,000 in cash actually involved. It cost us our title in the reparations.

"I would like to make understood abroad, especially in the United States, the disappointment of France which having listened to advice that she collaborate in international reconstruction, on the day when she asks even temporary benefit from her collaboration is met by doctrines exactly contrary to those on which the appeal for her help was made."

Disregards Interruption.

While the deputies applauded one of the members rose in his place.

"Then the conclusion is," he called, "that we must not pay."

The premier disregarded the interruption and went on to talk about the Hoover-Laval conference in Washington last summer which, he said, constituted a new appeal for an end to the chaos in Europe.

"Germany especially heard that appeal," he said, "and asked for a meeting of the consultative committee which the Young plan provides for. Those experts met and recommended measures for the restoration of confidence to cover a period longer than the crisis itself."

"For me, payment is the best means. If we do not honor our signature I do not see how to continue negotiations. With the payment honored, one can continue them."

He insisted that respect for contracts was vital, saying that France had insisted on this in respect to Germany.

Calls for Order and Peace.

"The morality of contracts—on that we must base our hopes of international order and peace," he declared.

"The present period is terrible, but in this chaos, in this disorder, the future is to those peoples, to those men, who will not permit any inroads upon their sense of justice, their respect for reason.

"That is why I cannot permit to lapse the signature of France, of which I am the guardian."

"There is a terrible misunderstanding between the United States and us," he said at another point. "There is everywhere a hideous propaganda which seeks to aggravate this misunderstanding which we ought to dissipate."

He warned against reaction in the United States if France refused to pay, declaring that in the United States there is a "cynical press" and there are men who would carry on a shameful campaign against France.

"We cannot let contracts be torn unilaterally," the premier said at another part of his speech. "Some one has spoken of Germany. All our defense against her has consisted in basing ourselves on contracts."

He emphasized the refusal of England to accept separate treatment. The premier also mentioned a debt contracted by Napoleon with the United States.

"A hundred years ago the same problem presented itself," he said. "The Americans claimed payment from France. The Duc de Broglie was in favor of paying. I ought to add that he was overthrown, but I ought to add also that he was recalled the following year because the chamber had reflected and desired to ratify."

British Insist Debt Payment to U. S. Hinges on Revision

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—In spite of the refusal of the United States to accept Great Britain's war debt payment of the $95,550,000 next Thursday if accompanied by conditions considered by Washington, D. C., as tantamount to repudiation of the debt funding agreement, this nation will pay. So far as the British public is concerned, the installment is considered a payment on capital account pending a new debt settlement.

The British government is expected to phrase a new note to America at a cabinet meeting tomorrow. The note is expected to say that Britain quite appreciates the legal situation which makes it impossible for the United States to recognize her claim now. London will add that the government is content to leave the entire debt issue to future discussion, as invited by President Hoover in reply to the first British plea to scale down the debts.

(Secretary of State Stimson in his quick reply yesterday said that the secretary of the treasury has no authority to accept payment except as provided under the terms of the funding agreement. He also pointed out that the ultimate decision in respect of the funding or amendment of intergovernmental debts is up to the American congress.)

Reveals British Attitude.

A hint as to the contents of the proposed note was found in a speech made by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, at Birmingham tonight.

"I do not think we need to quarrel with the reply of Mr. Stimson to our note," he said. "We do not ask that our proposal should be accepted at this stage, but we have reserved our right to put it forward when discussions begin. If these discussions are treated in the same friendly spirit which has hitherto characterized the actions of both governments I believe from them it may be found possible to arrive at a conclusion which will be satisfactory to both these great nations.

"There is no question at the present time of our asking for any payment from those who owe debts to us, but that does not mean those debts are remitted, they are merely held in suspense. If it should be found impossible to ratify the Lausanne reparations agreements because the signatories are unable to make a satisfactory settlement with the United States, then we come back to the position which existed before the Hoover moratorium and our claims upon our debtors will revive in full force.

Appreciate Readiness of U. S.

"We appreciate all the more the readiness of the American government to enter the discussions because we fully realise the difficulties with which they are faced at home. We can easily understand that the connections between these difficulties and payments of these intergovernmental obligations is not so obvious to them as it seems to us who are near the seat of trouble."

Chamberlain added that his government is withdrawing from its reserves in the Bank of England the equivalent of $95,550,000 in gold for Thursday's payment.

Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, in the house of commons this afternoon announced that at the request of George Lansbury, Labor leader, he had arranged to set aside all day Wednesday for debate on the debt due the United States.

Prime Minister MacDonald returned to London this afternoon from the Geneva disarmament conference. He stopped at Paris this morning for a brief chat with Premier Herriot on the new debt situation.

EXPECT FURTHER GOLD IMPORTS; EXCHANGE DIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—Although banks have announced no further receipts of gold from abroad over the week end, the position of exchange rates today led to the belief that further imports, due in part to December payments of war debts, will take place in the early future.

The dollar in Paris was quoted as high as 25.265 francs, at which figure gold shipments to this country would be profitable. Total gold exports from France recently reached $20,000,000.

In the local market, however, both francs and sterling opened above the close on Saturday, although sterling later declined substantially. The opening rate was $3.27¾, but by noon or shortly thereafter transactions at as low a rate as $3.25½ were reported. Francs, however, held their position firmly. The opening quotation was .0390¾, as compared with .0390¼ at the closing on Saturday. In the early afternoon .0390 7-16 was quoted.

GOLD BALANCES IN U. S. ENOUGH TO MEET DEC. 15 PAYMENTS

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—British and French gold balances in the United States are believed to be sufficient to meet Dec. 15 war debt payments, banking circles reported.

In the case of France it was said with certainty that the balances are sufficient, and even though England may not have the exact amount required here, she is believed to be in easy striking distance of it.

The statement contained in the British note that she is "making arrangements to effect this payment in gold" is not to be taken literally, bankers explained.

What was meant, it was said, is merely that the payment will be made in dollars convertible into gold.

BOY BANDSMEN TO BE QUIZZED FOR KILLING CLEW

Slaying of Their Leader Baffles Police.

From a maze of little clews investigators yesterday were still striving to piece together a plausible theory to account for the murder of Edwin O. Schildhauer, handsome young bandmaster-composer who was kidnaped late Saturday night and whose body was found soon afterward in Cicero.

A strict investigation into his past life having shown no discreditable intervals, Sergts. Frank Donohue and Charles Reynolds of Coroner Walsh's staff yesterday began to lean to hypothesis that an excess of zeal for righteousness on his part, directed either at bootleggers in the vicinity of the Austin high school, whose band he directed, or at hoodlum elements among students and former students may have furnished the motive for the killing.

To Quiz Band Members.

With this idea in view, the investigators plan today to question all the members of the high school band. They are to be asked:

1. Whether Schildhauer ever, as has been gossiped, reported the existence of speakeasies in the neighborhood of the school and caused them to be raided.

2. Whether he had ever caused an investigation to be made of a rumored beating administered to some of his bandsmen by young hoodlums who were jealous of the acclaim awarded the young musicians.

3. Whether they had known of any troubles that Schildhauer might have had with other union musicians objecting to his band's appearances.

Killing in Gangland Manner.

The circumstances of the kidnaping and murder were typical of gangland methods. Schildhauer was seized by the slayers near his home at 3435 Fulton street while his wife looked on from a window. When the body was found it was apparent he had been shot down unexpectedly, possibly while riding in the car of the kidnapers.

Schildhauer was tall and handsome, 28 years old and of powerful physique. Had he been given an opportunity, it was reasoned, he could have given a good account of himself in a fight. It appeared certain to the investigators that he was not given an opportunity to defend himself.

Hear Story of a Raid.

"We have heard that a drinking place near the school was raided at his request," said Sergt. Donohue. "But we have found no record of such a raid by the police and none by prohibition agents. We learned that some time ago two members of his band were seized and beaten by hoodlums who were formerly students at the school. One of those mentioned as being with the hoodlums was Paul Mangano, a son of Dago Lawrence Mangano, the old time Capone lieutenant on the west side. If either of these things had anything to do with the killing the boys might know about it."

Sergt. Reynolds dug up certain facts about the musical career of the bandmaster. He learned that Schildhauer had once been a member of the civil service board passing on bandmasters for small parks. Whether he made enemies in that capacity who would have wished to kill him is worth looking into, the police believe. Schildhauer, himself an artist who played and interpreted the classics, was said to be impatient of shoddy musical work and to have angered some of those who failed to pass.

Boys' Threats Revealed.

It was disclosed by Supervising Police Captain John Stege that he had received information, in a roundabout way, that some youths barred from playing in the school band had threatened, in a boyish way, to get even. Here again, it was felt, the testimony of the band members would be important.

Schildhauer was an occasional visitor at a night club, the Knickerbocker, at 3121 West Madison street. He had been there only about half a dozen times in the last year, according to the management and was accompanied on each occasion by his wife.

The coroner's inquest, opened yesterday afternoon in the county morgue, did not bring out any additional information. Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, young widow of the slain man, was the first witness called. After she had told of witnessing the kidnaping, and of his apparent resistance to his abductors, she was asked if she had quarreled with Schildhauer. She said she had not and that he was "a model husband."

She added that he had many women friends. His relations with all, so far as could be learned, were innocent. The testimony of the widow was interrupted by Chief Deputy Coroner Kolanowski, who announced that important information had been received and that the inquest would be continued.

Resigns as Assistant to Attorney General of U. S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—John Lord O'Brian of Buffalo, N. Y., resigned today as assistant to the attorney general in charge of anti-trust matters. Effective Dec. 20, the resignation was accepted by President Hoover. The President informally expressed his regret at the decision of the 58 year old lawyer. O'Brian said he wishes to return at the earliest possible moment to private law practice in his home city.

MEXICO BARS RE-ENTRY OF EDNA FERBER FOR CRITICIZING COUNTRY

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The department of immigration announced today that orders have been telegraphed to the frontier not to permit Edna Ferber, American writer, ever to reënter Mexico because of statements she made in an American magazine article.

EDNA FERBER.

"Miss Ferber was given every class of facilities when she came to Mexico last spring," said Rafael Perez Taylor, chief administration official of the department of the interior. "Despite the fact that she was treated courteously and well, she wrote that Mexico was a dirty country of dogs and fleas, without good hotels or restaurants."

The Hotel Men's association called the immigration department's attention to the article and requested that punitive action be taken against Miss Ferber. Miss Ferber visited Mexico last February with Marc Connelly, American dramatist, and his wife. She was received by former President Ortiz Rubio at the same time that Mr. and Mrs. Newton D. Baker and his wife were received at Chapultepec castle.

AGREE TO DELAY SMALL ELECTIONS TO SAVE $750,000

A proposal to postpone elections in the numerous small governmental units in Cook county until the June 5 judicial election was agreed to yesterday at a meeting in the office of the board of election commissioners. By holding municipal, township, and park districts elections concurrently with the judicial election, a saving of $750,000 in election costs can be made, those attending the conference were told.

Attending the meeting were attorneys who represented some of the small local governments and the committee on election consolidations which is headed by former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, attorney for the board of election commissioners. Subcommittees were appointed to draft bills for submission to the legislature which would effect the election postponements and eliminate the necessity for registrations before the Chicago aldermanic election, which also would be postponed, and the country town elections.

IRELAND PLANS TO CREATE OWN UNIT OF MONEY

LONDON, Dec., 13.—[Tuesday.]—Creation of an independent Irish Free State currency with an Irish dollar as the unit is being secretly arranged in Dublin, according to the Daily Mirror. The scheme, it is said, involves withdrawal of £6,000,000 in gold [$29,220,000] from the Bank of England, and further security is likely to be Irish land.

Irish currency is now on a sterling basis, with coins and notes of the same denomination as the British.

KILLS SELF WITH GUN.

SUPREME COURT SENDS MRS. JUDD TO THE GALLOWS

Appeal Denied; To Hang Feb. 17.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Winnie Ruth Judd, who killed her two best friends, dismembered their bodies and shipped them in a trunk to Los Angeles, must die upon the gallows Friday, Feb. 17, the Arizona Supreme court decided today. The court upheld the sentence of the Maricopa County Superior court.

Sentenced 9 Months Ago.

The death sentence was imposed nine months ago, a jury finding her guilty of the murder of Agnes Anne le Roi. She also confessed the slaying of Miss Hedvig Samuelson. Mrs. Judd's lawyers sought a new trial in their appeal to the Supreme court, contending that the question of self-defense had been ignored.

The three justices who heard the appeal held that inasmuch as the slayer did not take the witness stand in her own behalf, no evidence of self-defense had been given.

The copper haired Mrs. Judd is confined in the women's cell block of the state penitentiary at Florence, where she has been a quiet—even placid—prisoner since her conviction.

Second Woman to Hang.

If she is executed she will be the second woman hanged in Arizona. Eva Dugan, who died upon the gallows several years ago, was lodged in the same cell block which now houses Mrs. Judd.

The dual murders were committed on the night of Oct. 16, last year. The three women quarreled in a bungalow occupied by those who were slain, Mrs. Judd confessed. She claimed she shot them—first Miss Samuelson, then Miss le Roi—in self-defense. Two days later she dismembered their bodies and shipped them to Los Angeles, where she surrendered five days later.

Only two avenues remain by which Mrs. Judd could escape the noose 67 days hence. The warden of the prison, whose identity will not be known until a new state administration takes office in January, could ask for a sanity trial in the county courts. The state board of pardons and paroles, acting through the governor, could commute her sentence. Neither is considered likely.

C. B. HAZLEWOOD, BANK EXECUTIVE, IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Craig B. Hazlewood, 49 years old, widely known Chicago banker, was reported in a serious condition yesterday in the Evanston hospital following a collapse on Saturday morning in his home at 16 Canterbury court, Wilmette. Although his right side is paralyzed, physicians said yesterday that Mr. Hazlewood's conditions had shown improvement. He regained consciousness after a 36 hour coma and was able to recognize his friends.

Business associates expressed the belief that Mr. Hazlewood brought on the collapse by overwork. He is a member of the local committee of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee which is working out a quarter million dollar bond issue of the American Bond and Mortgage company. Mr. Hazlewood is chairman of the board of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank and a vice president of the First National bank.

GOES TO WHITE HOUSE IN TAXI AND BOARDS STREET CAR FOR HOME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—She taxied to the White House at midnight, but it was only to wait for a street car.

That was Hilda Knopf's story to police who halted her, and she stuck to it, but they just couldn't understand. She spoke in German.

Finally she flourished a passport and a street address. Some quick telephoning and interpretation showed she had been lost, and headed for the presidential doorstep only to get her bearings.

She knew how to catch a street car from there to the Netherlands legation, where she is employed.

TWO DAYS' TAX PAYMENTS REACH $554,223 TOTAL

Taxpayers on Saturday and yesterday paid County Treasurer McDonough a total of $554,223 in delinquent 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes. This is one of the largest two day collections since the penalty date for 1930 taxes last June. Among the taxpayers were many receivers and trustees whose objections before County Judge Jarecki have been overruled during the recent campaign to collect the $200,000,000 tied up in County court objections.

Among 300 small taxpayers who appeared in the County court yesterday to have rulings upon their objections were attorneys for the Riverside-Plaza corporation, owners of the Pure Oil building. They said that they already have paid $175,000 on their delinquent bill, and they promised to pay more on the $400,000 balance remaining. Attorneys for the Chicago Beach hotel obtained a continuance until Dec. 27, for a hearing on a technical legal question involving their objections to the 1928 taxes.

Emil and Karl Eitel paid $44,600 on the $300,000 delinquent tax bill owed for the Eitel block, 171 West Randolph street, yesterday. A payment of $22,938 in 1929 and 1930 taxes was made for the Lake Shore Drive Building corporation at 410 North Michigan avenue. The trustee of the Lambert Tree estate, 138 North La Salle street, paid $21,244, and Noble Brandon Judah, 134 South La Salle street, paid $4,997 in 1928 taxes.

MOVE TO RAISE JARECKI TO U. S. BENCH RUMORED

Democrats Here Refuse to Treat with G. O. P.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's name will be submitted by Democratic leaders to President Elect Roosevelt for elevation to the federal district bench after March 4, it was rumored yesterday in political circles.

It was also reported that at a recent meeting in New York, Cook county chieftains decided to reject all olive branches offered by the Republicans and that they will proceed to acquire all available federal posts in this district except one as quickly as possible after the spring inauguration. The one Republican officeholder who would not be molested, it was said, is United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, whose nomination had not yet been confirmed by the senate.

Would End Johnson's Term.

If this reported decision becomes a definite policy the nomination as a district judge of George E. Q. Johnson, former federal prosecutor, would not be confirmed and his tenure in the court, where he is now sitting by virtue of a recess appointment from President Hoover, would terminate with the end of the Hoover administration.

With Judge Johnson's appointment unconfirmed, the Democrats would have two places to fill on the district bench and one in the Circuit Court of Appeals. District Judge James H. Wilkerson was nominated for that post during the last session of congress, but asked the President not to resubmit his name to the senate at the short session.

Judge Jarecki is proposed for one of the vacancies on the district bench. One of the judgeships created by the last session of congress has not been filled. Judge Johnson was appointed to the other.

Former Assistant Prosecutor.

By agreeing to Mr. Green's confirmation, the Democrats would not be aligning themselves with any local Republican faction, for Green's was not considered a political appointment in the first place. Formerly one of the chief assistants to Judge Johnson when the latter was United States attorney, Green had an important part in the prosecution of the successful income tax evasion cases against Al Capone and other gangsters and politicians.

When Judge Johnson was placed on the bench, United States Senator Glenn submitted Green's name to President Hoover on the basis of merit alone. Green had no political affiliations, having been solicitor of the bureau of internal revenue before joining Johnson's staff.

Lueder's Term Over.

Action on a successor to Postmaster Lueder is expected immediately after the inauguration. Mr. Lueder's term has expired, but no name was presented to the President either by Senator Deneen, before his defeat in 1930, or by Senator Glenn.

It was reported yesterday that efforts will be made to place Democrats in appointive federal posts already held by Republicans. These would include the offices of collector of internal revenue, now held by Gregory T. Van Meter; United States marshall, held by H. C. W. Laubenheimer, and collector of customs, held by Anthony Czarnecki. Senator Glenn presented Van Meter's name for the revenue collector position at the suggestion of George F. Harding. Both Laubenheimer and Czarnecki are Deneen partisans.

Officially Name Lindy's Son Jon Morrow Lindbergh

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The four months old son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh has been officially named Jon Morrow Lindbergh. The child's name is to be duly entered tomorrow by affidavit made out and signed by Col. Lindbergh in the records of the health department of New York.

TO WED JUDGE

LILLIAN ROTH.

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—With the comment that "what's good enough for millions is good enough for me," Lillian Roth, singer and screen actress, announced today that she will retire from her professional career to marry Municipal Court Justice Benjamin Shalleck. The wedding will take place some time next month.

Miss Roth was formerly the wife of William C. Scott of Pittsburgh, an aviator. They were divorced in Mexico City last May.

Shalleck began his career running errands for Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy. In 1929, sixteen years later, Justice Levy swore him in as a magistrate.

TRUCK TO CARRY APPLICANT WHO ASKS CITIZENSHIP

A motor truck will be used to transport a prospective citizen to the federal building this morning so that he may get his final naturalization papers. He is Harry Itskovitz, 51 years old, of 1862 South Lawndale avenue, a hair goods manufacturer specializing in wigs.

Itskovitz weighs almost 500 pounds. He has been paralyzed from the waist down for the last 20 years. Because of his weight and infirmity he is unable to use orthodox means of transportation, and the use of the truck was therefore decided on. Itskovitz will arrive at the Adams street tunnel of the federal building at 8:15 o'clock this morning. He will be met there by his attorney, Samuel S. Siegel, who procured a special pass to use the tunnel.

Attorney Siegel said that Itskovitz's greatest desire is to become an American citizen. Two years ago, when the temperature was nearly 100 degrees, Itskovitz propelled himself in a wheel chair from his home to the federal building and got his first papers.

EDUCATOR WARNS MORTON HIGH TO SAVE STANDARDS

A letter read before a meeting of the board of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero last night said that "The standards of the school are very shaky." The warning was written by George A. Works, a secretary of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and was sent to Supt. Harry V. Church.

About 500 taxpayers and teachers attended the session and booed the board and also Mr. Church on two occasions.

At the outset a committee of the United Taxpayers of the Western Suburbs asked that the board request State's Attorney Courtney to make an inquiry into the recent troubles at the school. To this request John J. Sherlock, a board member, replied that "the state's attorney hasn't time to bother about such small matters." The crowd booed.

Later Supt. Church said he needed two more teachers to fill vacancies. When he was asked if he did not have a list of home talent for those positions he answered that the home talent was not quite qualified. Again the crowd booed and several men cried out: "Get rid of Church."

ARRAIGN ROBBER SUSPECTS; POLICE BEATING CHARGED

Nine men who were arrested with floor plans indicating that they intended to rob a building and loan association were arraigned in Felony court yesterday and their cases were continued two weeks to give the police an opportunity for further investigation. They had a floor plan of the Archer Avenue Building and Loan association, 3517 Archer avenue, and are suspected of being implicated in robberies actually committed. Joseph Clementi, one of those arrested, claimed to have been beaten by the police. State's Attorney Courtney told Clementi's lawyer to complain to the police commissioner if he had any evidence of brutality. Two women, Martha Mitchell and Marie Wilson, were among those arrested by the police in the raid on the alleged gang hideout at 2931 West Adams street.

SCHOOLS MUST CUT SALARIES, TRUSTEE SAYS

Demands 19 Million Slash in 1933 Expenditures.

A graphic picture of the financial bog into which the school board has sunk was painted yesterday by School Trustee William D. McJunkin. He asserted that salaries and other expenditures must be reduced by 19 million dollars in the 1933 budget or the Chicago schools will close — "an unthinkable situation."

WM. D. McJUNKIN.

Mr. McJunkin pointed out that the school board is confronted with 151 million dollars of unpaid liabilities at present, contrasted with 134 millions at budget making time last year.

Of these obligations 102 million dollars is the amount required for the redemtpion of tax anticipation warrants and bonds, 8 millions for unpaid interest and 41 millions in unpaid vouchers, pay rolls, and pension liabilities.

Cites Uncollected Taxes.

"It is not enough to say that the board has sufficient assets to pay those liabilities," said Mr. McJunkin, "for the great bulk of these assets is in uncollected taxes. Perhaps some persons can pay their taxes who haven't, but the great majority do not have the money with which to pay.

"Taxes in Cook county have been boosted so high that the more there are levied, the less there are collected. We have reached a point of diminishing returns."

Despite this dark outlook, Mr. McJunkin continued, there are forces who would add to the school board's indebtedness. Measures proposed, such as issuing bonds or obtaining loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation would "rob Peter to pay Paul" and mortgage the future more heavily, he said.

"Either plan is speculating with the taxpayers' money," said Mr. McJunkin. "The only safe course is to adhere to the decision to trim school expenditures. The only alternative is to turn the children out in the streets. I am unalterably opposed to that."

The board voted last week to limit its 1933 school tax levies, exclusive of the bond redemption levy, to 43 million dollars. This action, in keeping with the recommendation of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, pledges the board to a budget of approximately $61,000,000. The tentative 1933 budget previously proposed was more than $80,000,000.

The tentative budget is based on the salaries of school employés for 1932. A majority of the school board members have expressed their opinions, publicly and privately, that substantial reductions in the basic salary schedules must be made if the board is to stay within its anticipated revenue for the coming year.

Employés' Salaries Shown.

Amounts of salaries paid to school employés depend upon automatic increases, given for added years and experience in the system. The basic salary schedules, showing the lowest and highest paid to the various classes of employés, are given in the following table:

Class of employé—	Highest salary.	Lowest salary.
Principals—
High school	$5,700	$4,300
Junior high school	5,400	3,600
Elementary school	4,800	3,000
Teachers—
High school	3,300	1,800
Junior high school	3,300	1,800
Elementary school	2,500	1,500
Playground instructors	2,630	1,800
Engineer-custodians	5,640	3,600
Firemen—
Class A	*2,700	.....
Class B	*2,220	.....
Clerks—
Junior	2,000	1,500
Senior	2,480	2,120
Principal	2,960	2,600
Head	3,440	3,080
Chief	6,000	3,440

*The pay of firemen is on a fixed rate basis.

The salary of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, is $15,000 a year. Five assistant superintendents have salaries of $10,000 each, and fifteen district superintendents, $6,500 each. The basic salary for Howard P. Savage, the business manager, is $12,000 a year, and for Thomas V. Sullivan, school attorney, $12,000. Two examiners are paid $8,500 each. The salaries of supervisors and directors of special bureaus range from $4,000 to $5,500.

Various methods of reducing the pay roll, such as shortening the term by 19 days and dispensing with bonuses, were employed to cut the 1932 school budget. The basic salary schedules, however, were left untouched.

Mr. Savage and School Attorney Sullivan will confer with relief authorities today on a plan to offer loans of $50 to teachers and other school employés. The loans would be repaid from the back salaries.

Cermak Orders Police to War on Beer Joints

ROUT GAMBLING AND BEER FLATS, CERMAK ORDERS

Outlines License Drive to Police Captains.

Mayor Cermak yesterday assembled all the Chicago police captains in Commissioner Allman's office and gave them strict orders to close all beer flats, gambling houses and every form of hoodlum hangout. He also outlined his plan for licensing legitimate places when beer may legally be sold.

"You are going to help me carry out this job," declared the mayor. "If I can't carry it out I'll resign, and I think you should, too."

Informed less than two hours after the close of the conference that Policeman Albert G. Magoon had been shot and killed in a beer flat at 2908 North Halsted street, Mayor Cermak said:

"That proves what I say. Beer flats furnish a refuge for the worst element of Chicago's criminals. That's why they must and will be closed."

Unlocked Doors, No Hoodlums.

The police drive, it was emphasized by Commissioner Allman, is to be concentrated against beer flats and all other establishments which sell malt beverages, whatever the alcoholic content, without a city soft drink license.

"Licensed places must be run with their doors unlocked," said Commissioner Allman. "They cannot be run or frequented by hoodlums. No place can run without a license. Second floor beer flats are out."

Mayor Cermak instructed Corporation Counsel Sexton to assign one of his assistants, familiar with malt beverage licenses, to confer with the mayor on the proposed new license ordinance.

Prepares for Legal Beer.

"We are going to get rid of beer flats for good," said Mayor Cermak, "because we will be on trial when legal beer comes back. If there are violations of whatever regulations are set up for beer it will be difficult to repeal the 18th amendment. We are beginning to prepare ourselves and to have our house cleaned up when beer is legalized.

"The manner in which it will be dispensed will have to be worked out later, and can't be worked out definitely until we know what powers congress delegates to the states, and what Illinois delegates to the city of Chicago. But an improvement can be made now by driving hoodlums out of the beer business and driving out places that cater to thieves and gangsters. I'm opposed to licenses for second floor places unless they are reputable restaurants, and I'm opposed to 15 dispensaries in one block, as there were in the days of the saloon."

No Licenses for Residences.

The proposed new ordinance to license retail sellers of malt beverages, Mayor Cermak indicated, will provide for issuance of licenses only to persons of good character, with restrictions on second floor places and upon the number of licenses in a single neighborhood, and a ban on licenses for any place in a residential building, which would automatically disqualify most beer flats.

"As regards gambling," said Mayor Cermak, "I want the public to write me letters and tell me where it exists. There will be no gambling with cards or wheels. We're not going to make Chicago a hick town, because Chicagoans don't want that. We are going to drive out hoodlum joints of every description."

SENATOR J. J. DAVIS' LOTTERY TRIAL IS SET TO BEGIN ON JAN. 9

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Retrial of United States Senator James J. Davis on federal lottery and conspiracy charges today was set for Jan. 9. Similar trials against the Western Union Telegraph company and three others were set on the same day.

Co-defendants with Senator Davis, who is director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, are Theodore G. Miller, Bernard C. McGuire, and Raymond Walsh. McGuire and Walsh also are defendants, along with M. J. Revise, in the case against the Western Union Telegraph company.

McGuire was convicted and Walsh was acquitted on similar charges last week which involved the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City chamber of commerce, and Frank E. Hering, editor of the Eagles' Magazine, also were convicted in this case.

Postponement of the Moose and Mystic Shrine cases today was by agreement of counsel.

None of the defendants was in court.

COP WALKS IN ON HOLDUP; FORCED TO GIVE UP GUN

Traffic Policeman John W. Johnson was robbed of his pistol late yesterday when he interrupted a holdup of the Washington Shirt company store at 153 West Washington street after he left his post at Madison and La Salle streets to warm himself in the store. Johnson entered as the bandit was leaving and was forced to turn over his revolver.

"Don't worry about your gun," the bandit said. "I'll leave it with the newsboy at the corner. After the bandit left Johnson ran to the corner and found a bewildered newsboy holding the pistol. The bandit disappeared in the throng of workers leaving offices for their homes. In the store the bandit took $47 of the shirt company's money from William Conway, 3938 North Monticello avenue, manager.

END $10,000 SUIT FOR KILLING VINE WITH $750 CHECK

J. W. Burden, an official of the Hartford Fire Insurance company, had a fine ivy vine blanketing the wall of his home at 629 Williams street, River Forest. He also had an oil burning furnace in his basement.

On May 6, 1931, the Sinclair Refining company delivered a consignment of oil for the furnace. Shortly afterward the ivy vine pined and died, leaving its skeleton of branches bare on the wall. Burden investigated and discovered that the oil deliverymen had spilled part of their cargo where it seeped down about the roots of the ivy and killed it.

He started suit for $10,000 yesterday before Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court, announcing that when the trial began he would have an imposing array of horticulturists to testify to the worth of his ivy vine. Later in the day his attorneys agreed to take a $750 settlement from the oil company.

Bandit Warns Hotel Clerk Gun Will Shoot; Gets $45

A hair-trigger bandit held up A. L. Long, 4149 Broadway, clerk in the Carlton Plaza apartment hotel at 612 Gary place, last night, and stole $45. As he pressed the revolver against Long's side he pulled back the hammer and reminded Long that the weapon would shoot very easily. Only a week ago Long was held up in the hotel by another bandit who got $50.

INJURED IN STOVE EXPLOSION.

Carl L. Eicholz, 53 years old, suffered a fracture of the right leg last evening when a combination stove and water heater exploded in the living quarters in the rear of his hardware store at 5945 Fullerton avenue.

with the alcohol racket on the north side. One of them is Paul Nelson, 913 Dakin street, who is said to be head of a liquor ring. Police said that he was known to have quarreled with Maas recently.

AUTO THIEF KILLED

Joseph Seidel, 20 years old, 1358 West Ohio street, was the automobile thief slain. Accompanied by his brother, Frank, 18 years old, and riding in a stolen car, Seidel was sighted by Sergt. William McCarthy and his detective bureau squad at North and Irving avenues.

A four mile chase followed. The brothers refused to halt and the police hailed bullets upon them. At Milwaukee avenue and Paulina street the chase ended. A bullet struck Joseph Seidel in the head. The steering wheel slipped from his hands and the car was wrecked on the sidewalk. Frank Seidel surrendered. The elder brother died at the Bridewell hospital.

It was learned, when records at the detective bureau were scanned, that Joseph Seidel had recently been convicted of automobile thievery and placed on probation.

BOXER FOUND KILLED

Fifth of the shooting victims was Frank Schaeffer, 30 years old, 3858 Ellis avenue, a boxer who was once a contender for the lightweight championship of the world. The Advance tailor shop at 3749 Cottage Grove avenue, in which his body was found, is known to the police as a speakeasy and a hangout of hoodlums.

A woman called to the police to report that a shooting had occurred in the place. A squad broke in the front door. Schaeffer's body was lying near a partition. His coat and vest hung on a nail nearby. Apparently he had been shot down in the midst of a drinking party.

In his pockets were found several cards. There was also a receipt showing that he had paid his dues in the sheet metal workers' union. The police are seeking Fred Rowan, colored, owner of the tailor shop, in the hope that he will be able to tell how the ex-pugilist came to his death, and why.

SLAY STORE BANDIT

The last shooting affray occurred in the Marquette Park pharmacy at 2824 West Marquette road when two gunmen entered. In the store were the proprietor, Walter Krop; a watchman, Steve Kirincic; a clerk, Robert Bauer, and three customers, all men.

When the command of "Hands up" came from the robbers Bauer and the customers complied. One of the banditi took his station at the front door while the other, with pistol drawn, herded the captives back to the rear.

Behind a counter, unseen by the intruders but prepared for the emergency, were Krop and Kirincic. They stepped out and began shooting. More than a dozen shots were exchanged. The sentinel at the door fled, but his companion, a small, dapper man, shot Kirincic twice in each leg and fired a bullet into one of Krop's ankles.

However, four of the store defenders' bullets struck his chest. Two more struck him in the arms. A seventh struck his head. He died on the way to the Bridewell hospital. The only mark of identification was a receipted laundry bill to "A. Allen," issued by the Mid-West laundry at 2149 Sheffield avenue. At the bureau of identificaton it was found that when the bandit was arrested on Feb. 14, this year, he gave his name at Albert White, 29 years old, no address. He had no criminal record.

Krop explained that his store had been held up five times in a year and a half and that he had determined to be ready for the next incursion.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 61; recovered, 67; stripped, 25 [from police records for the 24 hour period ending at midnight Sunday].

Automobile case defendants yesterday: William R. Watson, held to the grand jury for the larceny of an automobile. Howard Mohanon, sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell for tampering with an automobile. Both cases before Judge Harold P. O'Connell.

DISMISSES PLEA IN $300,000 SUIT AGAINST HARRIS

Following his action last week, in which he termed the suit a badger game, Circuit Judge John R. Caverly yesterday signed an order dismissing the plea of James G. Clark of Mount Kisco, N. Y., for damages of $300,000 from Norman W. Harris, whose father is head of the Harris Trust and Savings bank. Attorney Lloyd Whitman, representing Clark, was granted 60 days to prepare a bill of exceptions.

CITIZENS' GROUP OFFERS FINANCE PROGRAM TODAY

Said to Propose Refunding Paper for Bondholders.

Letters from the citizens' committee on public expenditures, outlining the basis on which Chicago banks are willing to assist the city and school board in avoiding default on their bond maturities at the first of the year, and to provide funds for city, school and other pay rolls, are to be delivered to the heads of various local governments today.

Any help is to be contingent upon the various governments taking formal action to limit their 1933 tax levies to the figures proposed by the citizens' committee, whose chairman, Fred W. Sargent, has been authorized to speak for the banks in the matters of bond payments and pay rolls.

Mayor Cermak, it was learned, will present a resolution to the city council tomorrow, pledging the city to keep its 1933 tax levies for all purposes other than bond and interest payments within $50,000,000. The school board took the pledge last week, limiting its levies for such purposes to 48 millions.

Guaranties to Win Banks' Aid.

If the governments agree to abide by the Sargent committee's proposals regarding tax levies, pay roll funds will be forthcoming and the banks will lend their services in an attempt to avoid the bond defaults, it was said.

These services are not to be the direct purchase of tax warrants to provide cash for payment to the bondholders, but negotiations for the refunding of the bond issues.

A very large proportion of the bonds which mature on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1 were sold in large blocks and are held by banks, insurance companies and in large trust estates. The banks, it was said, will send some of their officers to the holders of these bonds and offer them, in place of cash payments, 6 per cent refunding bonds to run for a comparatively short period, probably five years.

Expected to Buy Some Warrants.

There is a relatively small volume of the bonds held in small amounts. If it is impossible to reach these small bondholders and get their consent to a refunding arrangement, the banks are prepared, it is understood, to buy tax warrants to give cash for retiring these bonds. However, it is understood, that if any considerable percentage of the bondholders refuse the refunding offer, the banks will make no cash advances at all to meet bond maturities.

The city and school board must find funds of their own to meet the interest payments, which total $3,952,690. This money will probably have to come from the city's aggregate of funds. That contains about 12 millions now. It will receive several millions in miscellaneous revenue after the first of the year, and is getting small amounts of tax collections not required to retire tax warrants from time to time at present.

The school board, which must pay $4,200,000 in bond principal on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1, has no authority to issue refunding bonds. An arrangement is now being sought under which the city will be able to act, legally, as an intermediary in refunding these school obligations.

Letters to Go to Other Units.

While the bond refunding arrangement concerns only the city and school board, the citizens' committee is sending letters to some of the other large local governments, it was reported.

The county, forest preserve, sanitary district and west park board have already suffered defaults on their bond issues and may suffer further defaults during 1933. It was pointed out, however, that while they may be able to do nothing to avoid the bond defaults the heads of these governments are anxious to sell tax warrants in order to meet pay rolls and, if possible to complete such sales before Christmas.

That desire on their part is expected to be used as a lever in moving them to accept the Sargent committee proposals as to the limits on their 1933 tax levies. These were set at 12 millions for the county and forest preserve, 4 millions for the sanitary district, and 6 millions altogether for the three large park boards.

Nagged About His Bridge Game, He Obtains Divorce

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Judge Brown Harris today in Circuit court granted a default divorce to S. George Kelly from Mrs. Mildred Kelly, now living in Los Angeles. Kelly testified his wife nagged him and subjected him to "intense humiliation" over trivial matters in a bridge game. He said that on one occasion when he had been set at the home of friends she kicked over the bridge table, called him "utterly brainless" and went home in a huff.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Three queens were out doing their Christmas shopping in London today—Queen Mary, Queen Maud of Norway and Queen Alexandrine of Denmark.

The three queens joined throngs of shoppers in the crowded stores.

VOTE TAX BOOST TO PAY COUNTY'S OLD BOND DEBTS

Would Add 3c to Levy on $100.

The county board yesterday authorized the drawing of resolutions to include in the 1931 tax levy the deficiencies of the 1928 and 1929 tax collections for bond and interest purposes. The authorization is the first step toward the collection of shortages between bond charges and the amounts collected for these purposes in 1928 and 1929 tax bills.

The commissioners realized that the immediate effect of passage of the resolutions would be to assess those property owners who had paid their tax bills for the amounts which should have been paid by those who did not. They expressed sympathy for the owner who had paid his bills regularly, but declared they had no other means of reestablishing the county credit, jeopardized by bond defaults.

In time, the commissioners said, when all delinquent taxes have been paid, a future county board will rebate the deficiency levy by reducing a levy in its term of office. The most optimistic commissioner fixed this date at "years ahead."

Total Deficiency $1,127,401.

The total deficiency is $1,127,401. Of this $292,566 was not collected in 1928 and $834,835 was not collected in 1929. Failure of the county to receive its full share of tax money forced it to default on bond principal and interest charges.

If the resolutions are adopted the county 1931 tax levy will be raised 3 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation, Deputy Controller Michael O'Connor said. The increase will place the county levy at 50 cents on every $100. Items in the levy are 28 cents for corporate purposes, 5 cents for highways and, with the 3 cent increase, 17 cents for bond purposes.

Precedent for the action of the county board was given by the south park commissioners in 1929. The park board levided for a $360,689 shortage in 1927 tax collections. The levy was attacked in the Superior court in a taxpayer's suit, which was dismissed. In an appeal to the Illinois Supreme court the action of the lower court was upheld.

Commissioner Sears Opposed.

Commissioner Amelia Sears alone voted against preparation of the resolutions yesterday. Commissioners George A. Miller and Marie Plumb pasesd their votes. A final vote will be taken when the resolutions are submitted for adoption.

"It is an outrage that property owners who have paid their taxes should be saddled, during a depression, with the burden of those who have not," Miss Sears said. "I believe the board will be severely criticized."

"It is extremely unfortunate," Commissioner William Busse said in voicing the majority opinion. "There is nothing else we can do to restore the county's credit. As it is no one will buy our bonds. I have paid my share as a taxpayer and shall have to pay again."

A resolution of Commissioner Walter LaBuy calling upon Attorneys Henry M. Ashton and Edward M. Winston to report to the finance committee on their tax cases was adopted by the board. The attorneys were employed under contract to force payment of taxes from property owners against whom forfeitures were entered. The report was asked because the attorneys were reported to have brought actions in cases where forfeitures were not involved.

CIVIC SPEAKERS BACK DRIVERS' LICENSE BILL

Passage of the automobile drivers' license law embodied in senate bill No. 1 and house bill No. 36 by the next general assembly was urged yesterday at a meeting in the City club, 315 Plymouth court, of a group representing the major civic organizations of Chicago.

The proposed measures have provisions for examination of license applicants, qualifications, revocation and suspension of licenses, and enforcement. The minimum age limit for drivers of private vehicles is set at 14 years and for public conveyances at 18 years. The proposed license fee is 25 cents.

With the exception of the Chicago Motor club, represented by Attorney P. J. Martin, who objected to the examination provision, support for the proposed law was promised by all present. They included Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor; Sidney J. Williams, director, public safety division, national safety council; Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer.

A MUSICAL EAR COMES IN HANDY WITH POLICEMEN

Mrs. Vivian Krents of 2552 North Mansfield avenue called Sergt. Ray Giiso of the Cragin station last night to report that what might be a bomb lay on the front porch of her home.

Policeman Paul Balswick and Christ Brown went to the scene in double quick time. Balswick studied the package. It bore no address. He lifted it from the porch. A discordant sound came from the package. He set it down. There was another growl.

"Sounds like an accordion," said Balswick.

It was.

5 BILLS DRAFTED TO INSURE TAXING OF PERSONALTY

Jacobs Reveals Teeth for Assessment Laws.

Five proposed laws to give the county assessors in Illinois the power to make a thorough assessment of all personalty, were disclosed yesterday by Assessor J. L. Jacobs in a letter to J. Soule Warterfield, president of the Chicago Real Estate board. The proposed laws may be presented at the next meeting of the general assembly early in January.

The laws, if enacted, Assessor Jacobs asserted, would enable the assessor to obtain evidence of personal property by going to records to which he now has no access. He pointed out that the laws would correct the alleged underassessment of personal property in the county against which Warterfield had protested in an earlier letter to Assessor Jacobs.

Could Require Access to Records.

Rough drafts of these five laws, as prepared by Assessor Jacobs, are as follows:

1. The assessor should be able to require the production of inventories, balance sheets, profit and loss statements, stock and bond transfers, lists of ownership of corporate stock, lists as to the ownership of warehouse property, lists as to goods on consignment, and similar items.

2. The secretary of state should send each assessor a copy of the license application for automobiles, such application giving not only the name, make, year, date, type, condition of the car, but also the name, address, and signature of the applicant.

3. All warehousemen should furnish the assessor with a list of the property stored in their premises, with the names and addresses of the owners.

Lists of Property on Consignment.

4. All persons dealing on consignment in Illinois, as a condition precedent to engaging in this type of business, to furnish the assessor with a list of all property placed on consignment, with a statement of the value.

5. All parties selling goods on consignment should file a statement of the name and address of the owner, with the amount and value of the property on consignment as a condition precedent to escaping liability thereon themselves. In case taxes are not collected from consignors or in case of refusal or failure of consignors to file returns, provision should be made for the collection of the tax from the consignee, with the authorization that the consignee be allowed to deduct the tax from any remittances to the consignor.

Assessor Jacobs yesterday announced that 1,361 residents of Winnetka, Kenilworth, Wilmette, and Glencoe who escaped assessments against their personal property have been placed on the 1931 tax rolls and a 50 per cent penalty placed against them.

MAYOR ORDERS POSTPONING OF SUBWAY SUITS

Litigation Is Delayed for Conferences.

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that the prosecution of special assessment cases for the State street subway project would be postponed while efforts are being made in conferences to dispose of technical and engineering objections that have been raised by property owners who would be assessed for a portion of the cost of subway construction.

In a statement issued after a conference with Corporation Counsel Sexton and James Simpson, chairman of the boards of three large operating utilities, the mayor also affirmed the city administration's intention of building the subway as soon as general business and financial conditions permit, and to finance a part of the cost by special assessments against benefiting property if that can be legally done.

Mayor Cermak's Statement.

"There are a number of technical and engineering objections that do not affect the fundamentals and that can be removed now if they ought to be removed," said the mayor's statement. "The wise and constructive thing to do is to see what can be done to dispose of these objections by friendly conferences between the property owners and the city, provided both sides are open minded and want to do the constructive thing.

"While these conferences are going on, the court proceedings should be postponed and expenses on both sides should be cut to the minimum. The city has important interests that require the closest attention both in the subway matter and in the proceedings by which the new company will acquire the surface and elevated lines and will accept the traction ordinance, but it can and should avoid spending any money on unnecessary litigation.

"The court will be asked to strike off the pending motion to set the subway cases for trial, with the right of the city to renew that motion at any time reserved."

Winston Favors Parleys.

B. M. Winston, chairman of the property owners' committee on subway assessments, which represents property tentatively assessed at more than $16,000,000 for subway construction, expressed a willingness to confer with city representatives on changes in the engineering plans.

"No such opportunity was accorded to the committee during the formulation of the plans by the board of local improvements of a former administration," read a statement issued for the property owners' committee.

"Since the commencement of the special assessment suit, this committee has become convinced that alterations in the plans can and should be made whereby large sums of construction cost can be saved."

Chinese Snake Flesh Death Raises Problem for Nation

CANTON, China, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The sudden and mysterious death of a retired diplomatic official today raised a problem for the government, restaurant keepers, and those Chinese who have faith in the efficacy of longevity formulas.

The official, Chu Chao-hsin, inspector general of foreign affairs in the Canton government, died yesterday of poisoning from eating snake flesh, doctors said.

He had attended a banquet at naval headquarters where the Cantonese delicacy was served, but today the announcement was made that Chu had previously attended another dinner where snake was served.

Navy Department Blamed.

The exact cause of his death was not completely determined, but officials in other departments of the Canton government were said to have expressed strong disapproval of the navy department's action in serving food of questionable palatability.

Cantonese restaurateurs have pointed out that, since the snake season is now at its height, Chu's death might result in a sharp decline in the consumption of snakes, with great losses to themselves.

Chu, who was 53 years old, was widely known here as a believer in a secret formula which supposedly would insure his living to be 100 years. Chu always declined to divulge the nature of the secret.

Think Venom Caused Death.

Doctors believed that the official's death probably was due to eating a portion of snake containing venom which chefs either at the navy dinner or at the previous function had failed to remove.

An autopsy, they said, only could reveal the exact cause of death, but Chu's family will not permit this.

Chu was a graduate of Columbia university and was at one time Chinese consul general in San Francisco. Since 1913 when he returned to China from America he held several diplomatic and other posts and was twice decorated by the government.

CONGRESS BALKS AT PLAN TO CUT BY REORGANIZING

Democratic Strategy Is to Let Roosevelt Do It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—In the face of a proposal, however limited, to reorganize government bureaus and thereby try to win a small share of economy, congress again is proving balky.

A resolution disapproving the entire reorganization plan submitted by President Hoover was offered in the senate today by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah].

The resolution was Democratic strategy. They argue that reorganization can well wait until after March 4 when Gov. Roosevelt would get credit for it. If postponement is the final solution, however, there are not many sanguine enough to predict that reorganization will take place; too many job hungry Democrats are clamoring for places on the pay roll.

Doubt If There'll Be Action.

Speaker John N. Garner declared today that congress ought either to "put aside all the transfers and eliminations or let them all become effective." But he doubted that any committee in 60 days "could study all the things in the President's program." And his final word was:

"It can be changed after March 4, anyhow."

Meanwhile a fight developed in the house over the proposals of President Hoover for further reducing the salaries of government employés. In connection with the treasury-postoffice department appropriation bill Representative John H. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], asked whether the bill provided for the new 11 per cent cut recommended by the President in his annual message.

Chairman Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the appropriations commitee, told him that the treasury-postoffice bill did not include the new cut because the committee had not had opportunity to conduct hearings on the plan.

La Guardia Assails Pay Cut.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rad., N. Y.] used Mr. Bankhead's query as an opening to deliver a bitter attack against the reduction of federal salaries which, he said, "is breaking down the entire labor wage system that has been our boast for 60 years."

"The morale of federal employés," he said, "is shot to pieces through the economy act which was forced upon us by those in charge of the finances of the country, who offered no solution but to continue to demand that we slash salaries."

Wood Warns U. S. Jobholders.

But Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.], veteran member of the appropriations committee, thought differently about the morale of federal employés.

"We have an army of 75,000 federal employés in this town," said Mr. Wood, "who devote more time to getting their salaries raised and in blocking attempts to reduce them than they do in performing their duties. I say to these employés that they had better accept with good grace the reductions already made or they will be back soon begging for jobs. The government has been most generous to its employés. It is time that you gave consideration to the tax burdened people who must pay the federal salaries."

REPEAL BEATEN BY LAME DUCKS, RAINEY WRITES

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Congressman Henry T. Rainey, in a letter to V. Y. Dallman, editor of the Illinois State Register, attributes the defeat of the prohibition repeal resolution in the house to "four lame duck Republicans and one lame duck Democrat."

The house majority leader said the defeat "simply showed" that those who have been fighting "lame duck sessions of congress for so many years were absolutely right."

"These five members three or four months ago voted wet on the Beck-Linthicum resolution," Mr. Rainey wrote. "I checked every one of them as voting wet this time on my resolution. All four Republicans were beaten by wet Democrats and the one lone Democrat who went wrong was beaten in his primary by a wet Democrat. Therefore, all five of them completely switched and voted dry this time."

WETS LOSE TILT TO SLASH FUNDS OF RUM CHASERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The first effort by house wets to cut off funds for prohibition enforcement failed today with the defeat of two proposed amendments to the treasury supply bill designed to slash nine million dollars from the 1934 appropriation for the coast guard.

Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], offered the first of the amendments with the statement that he could see no reason to provide for enforcement of a law which, he said, "will be repealed by congress early next April."

The house defeated his proposal by a voice vote.

A second attempt failed a few minutes later, when a similar amendment by Representative John J. Boylan [Dem., N. Y.] was also defeated.

It was Representative Byron B. Harlan [Dem., O.] who first suggested knocking out that portion of the coast guard fund which would be used to enforce the liquor laws.

Receive Awards

The winners in the poster contest conducted by the women's division of the Salvation Army in search for a cover for the program to be used at the Old Time Yankee circus, were given their awards of merit yesterday. Herbert Thiele, of the Englewood Junior High school, and Dorothy Wendt, of the Kelly Junior High school, the winners, were given tickets in a guest box for the Saturday afternoon performance. The circus is to be held on Friday and Saturday, both afternoon and evening, in the Chicago Stadium. The proceeds will go to the Emergency Relief Welfare fund.

R. F. C. LENDS 2½ MILLIONS MORE TO CALIFORNIA

Loans for Various Projects Now Total $104,350,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Nearly $3,500,000 of federal money today joined the 102 millions which the Reconstruction Finance corporation has loaned to self-liquidating construction projects in California.

The latest grant was made by the corporation to the city of San Diego, in the exact amount of $2,350,000 to be advanced through the corporation's purchase of 5 per cent municipal bonds. The corporation's first self-liquating project loan was one of 40 millions to the Southern California metropolitan water district for construction of the Los Angeles-Boulder dam aqueduct.

Later, the federal agency advanced another 62 millions to the state for construction of the San Francisco bay bridge. The total thus far granted to California, therefore, is $104,350,000, or nearly three-fourth of all the self-liquidating funds loaned by the corporation to date.

Chicago Appeals for Help.

While the directors were announcing the San Diego loan and four others of smaller size, representing a total of $2,827,000, representatives of the Chicago department of public works conferred with engineers of the corporation in connection with an application for federal financial aid in the construction of a new water pumping station in Chicago.

Leran D. Gayton, acting city engineer, and C. A. Schneider of the firm of Ford, Bacon & Davis, consulting engineers, discussed the proposed Chicago application with various officials of the federal agency. They stated that no formal request has yet been made and that the amount involved had not yet been determined upon. Officials of the corporation stated, however, that the sum to be sought is approximately three million dollars.

Both Mr. Gayton and Mr. Schneider declined to discuss the nature of the project for which they are seeking the federal loan. Negotiations are now at a critical initial stage and they preferred, they said, to withhold information until the discussions take "definite form."

Self-Liquidating Loans.

Beside the San Diego loan, the corporation today announced advances for the following self-liquidating projects:

One hundred and eighty thousand dollars at 5½ per cent interest for construction of a sewage disposal system in Winston-Salem, N. C.; $175,000 at 5½ per cent for construction of two student dormitories at Arkansas State Agricultural college in Jonesboro, Ark.; $100,000 at 6 per cent to the city of Tyler, Tex., for a sewage disposal plant, and $22,000 to the Tybee water works of Savannah Beach, Ga., for development of the municipal water system.

The corporation estimated that 848 men will find direct employment on the five construction projects financed today, for periods ranging from a year on the San Diego undertaking to four months on the project at Savannah Beach.

Pipe Line Mail Fraud Case Set to Go to Trial Feb. 20

Frank P. Parish, who became known as the "boy wizard," as a result of his financing of the Missouri-Kanas Pipe Line company, and three other officials of the corporation will go on trial Feb. 20 in the United States District court on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward after setting the trial date continued a motion for a bill of particulars until tomorrow.

SENATE NAMES GROUP TO SIFT RESOLUTIONS CALLING FOR REPEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The fate of repeal legislation in the senate at this session will depend in large measure on a subcommittee appointed today by the senat judiciary committee.

Meeting in executive session the judiciary committee voted to reappoint last session's subcommittee and to charge it with consideration of all repeal resolutions and other measures similarly directed against the prohibition amendment.

The subcommittee will be headed by Senator John J. Blaine, Wisconsin radical, and outspoken wet. Equally wet will be Senator Felix Hebert Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Ida.] die-hard dry, also is a member and the two Democratic members are Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and C. C. Dill of Washington, both former drys who recanted during the campaign and promised to abide by their national platform.

Some 20 repeal resolutions and other wet measures are pending before the committee. Included on the list are the Glass resolution which carries into effect the Republican pledge for repeal with federal protection of dry states and outlawry of the saloon and the Wagner resolution for outright repeal.

Chairman Blaine announced that he would call the subcommittee together tomorrow morning to map a course of action. During the last session the drys succeeded in bottling up the legislation before them by refusing to attend meetings.

With former Democratic drys now pledged to keep their party promise, the wets hope the same thing will not happen again. Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska radical, chairman of the judiciary committee, though also a dry, has promised that he will not oppose consideration of a repeal resolution.

labor and less to the organizing of Moose."

Representative Harry A. Estep [Rep., Pa.] professed surprise at Mrs. Black's attack on Davis.

"When he was secretary of labor he made a speech at Westminster college in which he said he was not only in favor of the 18th amendment but that if he had his way he would enact more legislation to enforce it, Estep said.

"That's true," Mrs. Black replied, "but he had a conference with a man named Vare in Pennsylvania and Mr. Vare said, 'You're wet,' and Mr. Davis said, 'I'm wet.'"

Cites Roosevelt in Argument.

There was a mild flurry when Mrs. Colvin declared that President Elect Roosevelt in a letter to Dr. C. F. Reisner of New York had "absolved Democratic members of congress from support of the platform." She offered the committee a photostatic copy of the letter and on demand of Representative Chindblom [Rep., Ill.] it was read into the record.

The letter was as follows:

"I am always glad to hear from you. I believe that my talks so far on the prohibition plank of the Democratic platform outline my views on the subject. Regarding the last question I might say that Democratic senators and representatives are bound to vote in accordance with the views of their constituents, regardless of their personal opinions.

"I would suggest that you read my speech made at Sea Girt, N. J., on Aug. 27, copy of which I am enclosing."

Nineteen Women Witnesses.

Of the nineteen women witnesses, a majority came from the woman's national committee. Among the witnesses were Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, representing the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement league; Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, representing the Illinois conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment; and Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Iowa, spokesman for the W. C. T. U. of that state.

Three congressmen and Dr. Leigh Colvin of New York, heading the prohibition national committee, also spoke. Dr. Colvin aroused some members of the committee by refusing to state how beer should be controlled if it is legalized.

When Dr. Colvin refused to discuss beer distribution and asserted he would continue to fight any modification move, Representative Hearstill Ragon [Dem., Ark.] declared that "in this next congress you people will have just about as much chance as a paper shirt in a prairie fire."

Garner Expects Early Action.

While the hearing was in progress today, Speaker Garner told newspapermen he understood the beer bill will be reported out by the end of this week and promised almost immediate action on the measure in the house.

Tomorrow the committee will hear some of the veteran protagonists of prohibition including Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league; Deets Pickett, representing the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church; Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National W. C. T. U.; Canon William Sheafe Chase of the international reform bureau, and Dr. A. J. Barton of the Southern Baptist convention.

That will conclude the hearings as now scheduled, save for the appearance Wednesday of Secretary of the Treasury Mills whose exposition of the administration's views on beer may determine whether or not this beverage will be legalized by the present congress.

HEAD OF BRITISH IDLE ARMY GETS 2 YEARS IN PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Sid Elias, chairman of the National Unemployed Workers' movement, a communist subsidiary, was sentenced to two years in prison by a Criminal court today for inciting leaders in recent dole marches to acts of sedition. After the arrest of W. A. L. Hannington, leader of the dole march on London, on a charge of seeking to incite police to mutiny during the Trafalgar square riot recently, authorities raided the movement's headquarters.

VARECHA BEGINS FIGHT TO ESCAPE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Boy Killer Snarls and Mutters in Court.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Samuel Johnson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; John Louis, malicious mischief, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Melvin Kline, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Harry A. Lewis.

The effort of James "Iggy" Varecha, 17 year old bandit, killer and rapist, to save himself from the electric chair was begun yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. Eleven persons who had been held up or assaulted by the surly youth pointed accusing fingers at him during the day.

Through his attorney, Joseph Nosek, the youth pleaded guilty last week to the murder of Frank H. Jordan during a holdup on the night of Nov. 16. The hearing is to determine whether "Iggy" should be electrocuted as a menace to society, as the state contends, or imprisoned for a lengthy terms, as his attorney insists.

There was a suspicion among the alienists present in court that the eccentric attitude adopted by the youth at the hearing was partly play acting. At times he smiled, again he muttered. At one point in the proceedings he rose to snarl at a witness: "You lie like a rat!"

Bailiffs Are Watchful.

The two bailiffs guarding him were constantly watchful lest the youth make a sudden lunge at Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler who is demanding the death penalty. Varecha has threatened to "get" the prosecutor.

The state completed its presentation of evidence yesterday and the defense was begun with a picturization of Iggy's home life. An attempt was made by the defense to show that the youth always had been depraved and, although legally sane, is a mental defective who is not responsible for his crimes.

Miss Emma Dahnke, comely young stenographer, Jordan's companion on the night of his murder, was the first important witness for the state. She described the murder.

"Frank and I were driving around, trying to decide what movie to go to," she said. "We parked at 64th and Lincoln streets to talk it over. A man came up, jerked open the door of the car and said: 'This is a stickup.'

"Frank said: 'O, no, it isn't' and opened the door at his side and started to get out. The man pushed his gun past me and shot Frank in the chest. Then he ran away."

Killer Yawns at Testimony.

Varecha yawned and appeared bored at this simple recital.

Jordan got out of the car, staggered to the rear and collapsed, Miss Dahnke said. He died almost instantly. The bullet had pierced both lungs and the heart, taking a diagonal course through the body.

The story was taken up by James Guisinger, 22 years old. He and Miss Lillian Henry were Varecha's next victims that night. They were parked at 57th and Lincoln streets, seven blocks away from the murder, when Varecha appeared and repeated his warning. "This is a stickup."

There was no resistance this time and the youth with the pistol climbed into the small car and forced Guisinger to drive. Varecha, Guisinger testified, directed him to a prairie at 56th street and Western avenue, remarking: "I just shot a guy in the throat for resisting me."

Victim Unable to Testify.

In the prairie, Varecha bound Guisinger and put him in the rumble seat, the latter testified. The killer then attacked Miss Henry twice. She still is under the care of a physician because of her experiences and was unable to testify. Her uncle, First Deputy Police Commissioner Alcock, was in court.

It was a seemingly unimportant remark by Guisinger from the stand that aroused Varecha's wrath. The witness said that, while in the rumble seat, he heard what appeared to be a piece of metal tapping on the glass window.

"You lie like a rat!" growled the defendant, jumping to his feet.

Bailiffs forced him back into his chair. Iggy's pale eyes glared at the witness. Judge Prystalski warned Attorney Nosek that he should instruct his client not to make any outburst.

Miss Helen Braviak, 5317 South Hockwell street, then testified that on Aug. 31, she and Chester Kucharsky had been held up by Varecha. They were forced to drive to 49th and Leavitt streets where there were empty box cars on a railroad siding. Kucharsky was tied up and Varecha attacked Miss Braviak twice, she declared. She told the sordid story in a flat, emotionless voice.

Scornful of Witnesses.

A procession of other witnesses told of various holdups committed by the young killer in the last two months. Each one pointed out Varecha as the holdup man. The defendant again was bored as they testified. He regarded his many victims scornfully. Included among these witnesses was Miss Sophie Dobson, whose escort, James P. McElligott, was shot and badly wounded by Varecha, and Glen Ramsey, 6341 South Western avenue, who was knocked down twice with a pistol by the youth when he showed signs of resistance.

The state rested after presenting the report of Dr. Harry Hoffman of the behavior clinic, who had examined Varecha and found him legally sane but incorrigible.

Attorney Nosek called for Mrs. Anna Varecha, the youth's mother. She came forward reluctantly, a bent, old world figure, her gray hair hidden by a black hood, a handkerchief pressed to her trembling lips. She whispered to the lawyer and he explained to the judge that she had requested not to be made to testify.

Brother Placed on Stand.

Charles Varecha, older brother of the young murderer, was then summoned and the defense effort was begun to prove that environment and heritage made Iggy the vicious criminal that the state's evidence had shown him to be.

The brother said that Iggy was born 17 years ago in crowded three room apartment at 34th street and Ogden avenue, already occupied by seven persons. The father was continually intoxicated, his son testified. In this squalor the boy was reared and by the time that he was 12 years old he had the other members of the family in mortal terror of him, the brother testified.

"He was mean and wanted to fight all the time," said Charles. "He kicked and punched the other children. He wouldn't be bossed by me and when I gave him a beating, he would be good for only a short time.

"He went only to the third grade in school and then ran away. He was 11 years old then. When he was 14 years old, I got him a job in the florist's shop where I worked, but he soon was fired. He liked to smash flower pots and he wouldn't work."

Escaped from Institution.

Finally, the youth was sent to the institution for mental defectives at Dixon, Ill., and the Varecha family breathed easier, the oldest son said. But "Iggy" soon escaped.

The defendant evinced enmity toward his brother as the latter testified. He growled and twisted in his seat while the bailiffs held his arms.

Miss Marie Hoffman, 6147 Rhodes avenue, "Iggy's" third grade teacher, told of the unruly nature of the defendant in school. He talked when he pleased, walked around the room, climbed up on the chalk rails, and was openly defiant of her, she said.

The hearing will be resumed at 1:30 p. m. today.

Woman Secretary Shot by South Side Robber

Miss Gertrude Brus, 30 years old, a secretary in the Chicago office of the J. B. Ford company, 3958 Calumet avenue, was shot in the left leg yesterday by a Negro bandit in front of the office. Angered by her refusal to hand over her purse, the Negro fired, seized the purse, which contained $25 and $35 in money orders, and fled.

VICTIM OF YACHT SLAYING GOES TO OCEAN GRAVE

Wanderwell Rites Aboard Ship in Which He Died.

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The body of the slain Walter Wanderwell, traveler of the world's long trails, went to an ocean grave today under a brooding storm.

Cold rain fell, thick fog was wraithlike over the harbor, chill wind furrowed the waters as the little schooner yacht, on which the adventurer was mysteriously shot in the back just a week ago, put out to a sullen sea.

Detectives Attend.

Aboard the ship a little band of wanderers huddled about the widow, Aloha Wanderwell. Beside the yacht as it drifted ghostlike through the mist a water taxi carrying newspaper men chugged fretfully. Reporters were not permitted aboard the Carma, but police detectives were there "to see that all the witnesses come back."

James Farris, the Carma's navigator, fulfilled the master's office in reading the burial service. He read to the grinding of a motion picture camera. The cameraman explained he was there as the agent of an independent motion picture company, with which Mrs. Wanderwell was associated. Among those present was Edward Montagu, second son of the duke of Manchester.

Murder Writ to Issue Today.

Completing a personal investigation which brought him here from Los Angeles, District Attorney Buron Fitts announced tonight a murder complaint will be filed tomorrow against William James Guy, youthful adventurer, for the killing of Capt. Wanderwell.

Edward De Larm, Indian aviator at whose Glendale home Guy lived before the shooting of Wanderwell, and De Larm's mechanic, Ralph Dunlap, were held as material witnesses.

Investigators said they found discrepancies in their stories as to Guy's whereabouts at the time Wanderwell was killed in his cabin by a mysterious "man in gray."

EX-EMPLOYE KILLS EDISON OFFICIAL AND SELF IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A fancied grievance of eight years' standing against a public utility caused Karl Tatosian, 40, police said, to shoot and kill S. C. Haver, the power company's personnel manager, and then commit suicide today.

Two detectives, C. P. Torres and E. J. Romero, who investigated, said Tatosian was injured Sept. 24, 1924, while working on a construction project for the company. Company officials said they paid Tatosian in full for his injuries in 1926, but that he continued calling at the office demanding more.

Haver, authorities said, had often aided Tatosian to obtain employment with other concerns.

TROTZKY BACK TO HIS EXILE ON TURKISH ISLE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Europe's elaborate police guards were replaced by a modest escort of three Turkish "plain clothes" men when Leon Trotzky, Russian bolshevik, returned today to his home in exile on Prinkipo island.

A howling storm raged as Trotzky and his wife made the voyage in a little Turkish steamer to the Asiatic island in the Sea of Marmora. Their first journey away from their home of the last four years, which took them through France to Copenhagen, where Trotzky delivered a university lecture, was at an end.

A few straggling fishermen friends waved to their Russian neighbor from the rain lashed shore of the island, but he did not return their salute.

SETTLE LAWSUIT AGAINST FORMER CITY OFFICIALS

The seven year old suit of the now bankrupt Severinghaus-Kushi Printing company against a former Republican mayor and three of his former cabinet members, William H. (Doc) Reid, George F. Harding, and Eugene Pike, has been settled for $28,000, attorneys for the litigants informed Judge Joseph B. David yesterday in the Superior court.

The company, headed by Milton Severinghaus, a nephew of Albert H. Severinghaus, former vice president of the school board, got many large printing contracts from the former city administration, but went into involuntary bankruptcy in 1930. The suit closed yesterday was for printing campaign literature in a former mayoralty campaign, for which the company originally made a claim of $178,457.

Separate suits were filed against the four defendants. A jury assessed damages of $151,855 against Reid in 1932, but the verdict was set aside by Judge David when a juror confessed that he had been bribed. The suit against Reid will be dismissed, attorneys told the judge yesterday.

The other three defendants will pay the $33,000, of which half will go to creditors of the printing company, $8,000 to Attorney Chester Cleveland, and $8,500 to Attorney Salmon O. Levinson. The two attorneys represented the printing company in the litigation.

WILL JAPAN AND U. S. GO TO WAR? CHANCES REMOTE

Analysis Shows Nippon Anxious for Peace.

This is the sixth of a series of articles by Mr. Kinsley on Japan.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 25.—[By Mail.]—Will there be war between the United States and Japan? The "noble silence of the wise" seems the only way to answer that question at present.

To say yes would be to ignore all the reasonable economic grounds for peace, all progress toward international concord, idealism in America, realism here.

To say no would be to ignore all the imponderables of politics, to deny rivalry and planning in self-defense, to erase pride, bitterness over old wrongs and fear—especially fear—and the chance of a spark in "the tinder box of Asia."

Japanese Don't Want War.

Such a war is highly improbable. It is not wanted and will not be sought by the Japanese, who recognize it as futile and probably suicidal, but there are dangerous elements in the situation which should be examined and eliminated.

The first is the widespread conviction here that America is preparing against Japan, that she is blocking Japan's legitimate extension of national security. There is suspicion and nervousness about America.

A few weeks ago the people thought that war was just around the corner. They accepted it philosophically. They were ready for the sacrifice. Such a fundamental attitude does not change in a few weeks. They have supreme faith in their army and navy, especially the navy, and are vastly ignorant of American resources.

"Stuff and Nonsense."

"What about all this war talk?" a leading Japanese editor was asked.

"Stuff and nonsense," he said.

"What is behind it?"

"The discovery that it pays to write it."

"Why are the army and navy officers talking about war?"

"Because they get more money for their reserves."

He continued: "No high officer of the army or navy considers war with the United States. They cannot take America and America cannot take Japan. They would sink a few ships, and that is all. The people do not want war. The business men and workers would lose their best customer."

Calls It "Blowing Off Steam."

Another editor of great influence said:

"Every reasoning person in Japan is against the idea of a war with the United States. Yet, there is danger in a situation where two people, each afraid of the other's intentions, go on arming and getting ready for a mythical enemy. There is danger of a wrong move, a spark, somewhere.

"The military got away without the sanction of the government or the people in Manchuria. It might happen again. When Japan gets ready to go to war, however, we do not talk about it. All this talk of the last few months is a sort of blowing off of steam, a venting of grievances. It has the good aspect of dissolving in air. We did not talk about war with Russia; we just struck."

People Are United.

What has happened since the Manchurian military surprise, the reaction in Japan, and its present attitude, is a good illustration of its action in any similar emergency. It unifies the people as nothing else could. Talk of political revolution at home is forgotten. The economic realities are buried. The people are willing to suffer for Japan.

The propaganda machine of the government gets into the air, thunders in all the newspapers and magazines, welds the people into one thought, rationalizes the conduct of the army as right, even divine, rallies around the divine person of the emperor, is willing to die for "the right." It is the old story of the "world made safe for democracy." Manchuria is now "Japan's security." Her way has been right. Her task has been God given. She has acted only in self-defense.

Death Before Retreat.

"Rather let Japan be reduced to ashes," says the foreign minister in answer to talk of retreat or change of policy.

"A final and grim determination to establish international justice, by repulsing any interference and pressure that may be brought upon us," was the wording of an All Political Parties federation resolution.

No one dared speak out openly against this policy, or criticize it. The patriots might drive him out of the country, as they have done in one or two notable instances, or call with bombs or sword. Government officials, university men, politicians, newspapers, and magazines took the ground that Japan's military actions and recognition of Manchukuo "are just and upright measures calculated to safeguard Japan's special position in Manchuria and also to build up lasting peace in the far east and that any opposition or interference, either from the league of nations or the United States of America, should be resolutely repulsed."

In Walks Stimson.

It was into this hornet's nest, the excitable state of Japanese opinion, absolutely unified, that Secretary of State Stimson sought to interfere. The people thought the American fleet was on the way. Why had it been kept in the Pacific all this time? Budget time was approaching and the military made the most of it, getting about double in appropriations what they had in 1932, the great proportion of it marked for improvement in armaments.

The people discovered finally that the American fleet was far away, that Mr. Stimson was not speaking for the American people, who were not even interested, and the excitement died down.

The war psychology was there and remains there. It may be whipped up at any time out of the old deposit of fears and irritations, beginning with the racial discrimination and California's attitude.

Less Morals Needed.

Withdrawal of the fleet to the Atlantic would be a good thing. Amendment of the immigration laws to avoid hurting the Japanese feelings would be another good thing. Patience and a recognition of Japan's great provocation in Manchuria, her economic and population needs, and a little less of the high moral tone from a nation that had a "bandit" problem in Nicaragua and a "puppet" government in the Caribbean, would, from the Japanese standpoint, be an excellent move. Also a little less of sentimentality toward China and a little more realism toward the Japanese position as the only stable government of force in the Pacific.

Japan and America are friends and co-partners in the social drama of the world, although they may not realize it. Evidence is here on every side. Underneath the errors of diplomats, the rivalries and professional pride, arrogance, and narrow outlook of the military, the great forces of trade, economic interdependence, steadily lock the nations together.

Balance Against War.

Welded to the desire of the people to achieve their aims in peace and the growth of international commitments toward this end, the balance is against war. Beneath all the bluster against the league of nations and the United States in the Manchurian "interference," the Japanese people are feeling rather lonely and isolated. They want friends, are even reaching out toward soviet Russia, while at the same time sending Japanese communists to life terms in prison. They have been driven into this military adventure by forces apparently beyond the control of the people, but that does not mean that they will not hesitate more and more before incurring again the cold shoulder of the family of nations.

The Japanese are adopting American ways, even bad ways, almost as whole heartedly as the Australians. Americans here find as much friendliness as anywhere in the world. Personal relations are always polite and pleasant. The Japanese have a healthy respect for America, its scientific and material achievements.

Baseball the National Game.

They have taken everything, from machinery and city building, to chorus girls and dance halls, and molded it to their own culture. Department stores, roads, railways, theaters, cafés, bars, soda fountains, drug stores, newspapers, magazines, take their character and atmosphere more and more on the American pattern. Styles come from America, not Paris.

Science takes the same practical turn in agriculture and industry. Baseball is the national game. Political graft is common. The movies show the manners of crime and the dive and the drawing room. Dress becomes free and western. Even the excessive bowing and the sibilant indrawing of the breath is disappearing. It is a society of individualists, seeking riches and pleasure on a familiar pattern, its face set against the communist scheme, stumbling along toward a more coherent and intelligent democracy, just as America is groping.

A Hopeful Outlook on Life.

There is a hopeful, creative outlook on life here, akin to youth and new beginnings. Its symbol is the rising sun. Back of it is the weight and wisdom of the ancestral hand, and an awareness of other and deeper values, horizons of the spirit which open to a new consciousness where the oriental philosophy of the passing nature of material things may blend with western practicality. Not the spirit alone, as in India, not art and manners and forms as in China, but the spiritual expressed in a finer social order, may be Japan's contribution.

In considering the prospects of war and peace one is led to the conclusion that Japan is now in a position where she is heading into a financial burden as the result of military expenditure which may cause a decided popular reaction against its continuance, and certainly against any increase which a new action would make necessary. Dr. S. Washio, a financial expert, has analyzed the new budget to show that the total military expenditure for the current fiscal year will be nine hundred million yen [$189,000,000 at current rate of exchange], and for next year above a billion yen [$210,000,000]. This is nearly half of the total national expenditure, exceeding the tax revenue by more than two hundred million yen [$42,000,000].

More Taxes, Is Prospect.

More bonds, more interest, more taxes. This is the prospect. A conservative view of the Manchurian investment is that it will take five or six years, perhaps a decade, before Japan has things in order there. In other words, her hands are now full, but if a new danger should arise this would not stop a fresh outpouring of the national energy in men and money. Economic consequences would go out of the window.

This same view would apply to the point which American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew made recently in an address at Osaka. Taking at his keynote the phrase "Good will follows good business," he said:

"Fourteen American companies have invested nearly one hundred million yen [$21,000,000] in factory equipment in your country. These factories, although established by Americans, have a substantial Japanese participation in both capital and management. Furthermore, they use Japanese labor exclusively and purchase a large part of their raw materials here. They represent a combination of the assets of each country which are so merged that the purchasing public receives a high quality product at the lowest possible price.

Applies Also to U. S.

"These remarks may be interpreted as applying only to industrialists familiar with international trade relationships. I would add, therefore, that they apply equally well to the American public as a whole, since it has invested savings of approximately nine hundred million yen [$189,000,000] in the securities of your industries, cities and government."

These are weights in the scale for peace, which, it is reiterated, is the plain desire of the people of Japan. There is never a suggestion of an offensive move against America, but only self-defense against the threat of America reaching out to control the Pacific. America coming to China's aid with ships and troops and airplanes.

There seems very little interest in the Philippines, although, of course, the navy men have tentative plans made for taking that country in the event of hostilities, just as the American navy men have plans for defending Hawaii. Both sides are acting in self-defense.

Japan Holds Unique View.

But Japan may take a unique view of self-defense, as in Manchuria. A boycott, for instance, might mean a move against the Philippines, and certainly when that country becomes politically independent Japan will stand no nonsense about business or immigration restrictions, and no uprooting of her Davao colony.

Japan is having her will now in Manchuria. No one will stop her except by force. In the old wooden buildings that house the war office Japanese army officials sit around little charcoal fires and study the latest maps of Manchuria. This is war. Many Japanese farm boys will die there this winter.

China may act in a military way instead of complaining to the league or trying to get the United States to pull her out of trouble. The Japanese are realists. Their contemptuous references to China are made with the knowledge of her disunity and her military unpreparedness.

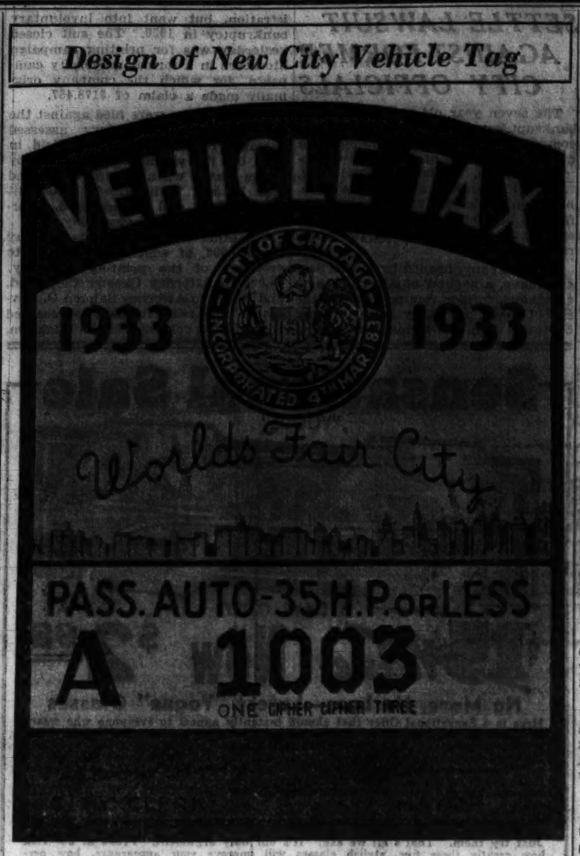
Respect U. S. and Russia.

Much of Japan's respect for the United States is based on the opposite sort of knowledge. There is also respect for Russia's army. With two antagonistic social groups facing each other across the same field, that would appear the next danger spot for Japan, rather than far away America. And so it is regarded.

The Japanese are profoundly thankful for the passing of Mr. Stimson and the coming of a new Roosevelt, whom they link, in hope at least, with the late President and his friendly gestures toward Japan, his willingness to let Japan control the peace of the far east and the trust that Japan would maintain the open door of commerce. This they have promised and when they can do it they probably will keep this promise.

With a little enlightenment on both sides of the ocean war between Japan and America may be forgotten.

Design of New City Vehicle Tag



Reproduction of 1933 city vehicle sticker which has been placed on sale. The theme of the tag is the Century of Progress.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Placed on Sale

City Clerk Peter J. Brady yesterday placed 1933 vehicle tax stickers on sale. Legally, all motorists must have the stickers on their windshields after Jan. 1, but actually police usually defer their drive on delinquent motorists until March 15, or later.

The new stickers are an advertisement for the 1933 World's Fair. Against a silhouette of the Michigan avenue skyline appear the Chicago city seal and the words, "World's Fair City."

Vehicle tax collections for 1932, now completed, amounted to $5,042,724, a decrease from the $5,304,134 taken in in 1931. Mr. Brady has ordered 552,770 stickers for 1933, as compared with the 545,170 ordered for this year. His office found that more duplicate stickers were needed than had been anticipated last January.

EX-KAISER SAVED FROM ASSASSIN AT DOORN EXILE

THE HAGUE, Dec. 12.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II. was the intended victim of a German who was seized with a big dagger and pistol today in a tower of the castle at Doorn.

The man, whose name is withheld, climbed the high wall of the estate and made his way to the tower. Servants discovered him crouching there. A house guard delivered him to police, who found the weapons. The prisoner refused to answer questions.

The ex-kaiser, who has been in closely guarded exile at Doorn since 1918, did not come in the path of the would-be assassin. The ex-monarch's only recent excursion from Doorn was to the seaside village of Zandtvoort last summer.

How to Escape FLU and Grippe

1 Avoid as far as possible the places where germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air but avoid drafts or chilling.

3 Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.

4 Try particularly to avoid catching colds. Colds lower your resistance to disease germs. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin dissolved in water at the first touch of sore throat, as this relieves the soreness and usually reduces the inflammation.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

Rheumatic Sufferers

Here's Good News—New Internal Medicine Drives Out Dangerous Poisons That Cause Rheumatism

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

If you suffer from crippling rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, Lumbago, lame, knotted muscles, swollen, inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the irritating poisons that cause rheumatism, which every year makes thousands helpless.

What you need right now is RU-MA, the new internal medicine that acts on the blood, liver and kidneys, and helps expel these dangerous poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination. Only an internal medicine can do this—that is why external treatments only give temporary relief.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU-MA eases pain first day, and so quickly and safely frees rheumatic sufferers from their stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain of rheumatism that it is recommended by Walgreen's everywhere.

We urge every sufferer to get a $1.00 bottle of RU-MA today, and will return the purchase price to any dissatisfied user.

Make $1 do the work of $3 and prevent "pesky" winter colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THIS is no time to waste money! It's no time to neglect health! You do neither when you fight colds with Pepsodent Antiseptic as millions are doing. It's just simple arithmetic that makes them change to Pepsodent.

$1 does the work of $3

Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics . . . hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money and gives you extra protection against colds and throat irritations. For protection against germs associated with common ills, remember there are really only two leading kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. In the one group is the mouth antiseptic that must be used full strength to be effective. In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe even if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds!

Don't fool yourself

It is bad enough to have germs in your mouth before you gargle . . . it's worse to have germs in your mouth after you gargle . . . so choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when it is diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic.

IMPURE BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times as powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs!

START PARLEYS ON 200 MILLION IN RAIL WAGES

9 Operators Face 1,250 Union Chieftains.

In the grand ballroom of the Palmer house, negotiations were opened yesterday between a railroad management committee of nine and a railroad labor committee of 1,250 on a wage question, the settlement of which may profoundly affect the economic future of the country.

The question is whether the basic wage scale, which was cut 10 per cent for a stipulated one year period last Jan. 31, shall be restored to the old level next Jan. 31, be continued indefinitely at the present reduced rate, or be cut another 10 per cent. The sum at stake amounts to about $200,000,000 yearly.

Nine Represent Investor Host.

The railroad management committee of nine sat on a dais, facing 21 labor chiefs across a table and the host of lesser labor leaders who filled the floor. Dwarfed numerically, the nine had as invisible supporters the thousands of railroad stockholders, and the hundreds of banks, insurance companies, and investment houses who, as holders of 70 per cent of all American railroad bonds, say the issue is either wage cuts or a crisis for the carriers.

Behind the union delegates are some 1,200,000 railroad workers of the country, men whose leaders have drilled them in the theory that to meet a depression by wage cuts and layoffs will "bleed white the purchasing power of the masses" and lead to economic chaos.

Dozen Sergeants on Guard.

Six sergeants-at-arms guarded the portals of the ballroom, scrutinizing the credentials of the accredited engineers, conductors, firemen and snapmen, as well as of the operators' committee. Other guards patroled the ballroom balcony, ready to collar eavesdroppers. Still others lounged in the conference suites upstairs, suspicious of dictaphone snooping.

There was all the secrecy and finesse of an international arms conference. In a departure from previous practice, however, each side issued press communiques at the close of a session, publicizing their positions as well as enlightening the public.

Operators Under Handicap.

The committee of nine entered yesterday's contest under a handicap of three months' standing. After a survey in the summer, the committee had announced as early as last Sept. 9 that a 20 per cent basic wage cut was necessary for financial stability and had recommended that the carriers enter negotiations immediately, so that the cut might become effective immediately on expiration of the 10 per cent temporary cut the following Jan. 31.

The unions declined to enter such negotiations. Under the railroad labor act, the operators might then have appealed to the United States board of mediation, but again they were forestalled. A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, appealed to his former associate, Secretary of Labor Doak, who, in turn appealed to President Hoover. On Sept. 21, the President announced through Secretary Doak that he had urged postponement of all railroad labor parleys until after Jan. 1.

Bar Further Cut from Agenda.

Reluctantly, the operators acceded, and thus dropped into the hole where they found themselves yesterday. The union chiefs were fully aware that the committee of nine would come here primed to get the 20 per cent basic cut they had recommended in September. This, the union chiefs forestalled by announcing last Saturday that their membership had empowered them to negotiate only on the question of continuing or suspending the temporary 10 per cent cut, not on further cuts.

The union chiefs were also aware that unless the operators secured some action on the temporary cut before next Jan. 31, the higher basic scale would automatically be restored for them on the following day. They knew, moreover, that while the operators might appeal to the federal mediation board for a lower scale after Feb. 1, the successive processes of conciliation, mediation and arbitration provided by federal law would require many months, during which the men would continue to draw the old scale, regardless of the ultimate outcome.

Operators State Case.

Hence, their strategy was to sit tight and let the opposition lead when the committee of nine walked into the hotel ballroom yesterday morning. W. F. Thiehoff, general manager of the Burlington route and chairman of the nine, professed to accept the situation.

"This conference, as I understood it, is for the purpose of negotiating a continuance of the 10 per cent deduction from the pay of railroad employés, which expires by its own terms on Jan. 31, 1933, for such period, and under such terms as may be agreed upon," he stated. Thus he and his associates professed to accept the union dogma that the negotiations could be on the 10 per cent cut and nothing else. But in his next remarks, the union chiefs thought they saw unmistakable evidence that the operators were still fishing for the 20 per cent cut.

"It has seemed to us that the interests of the railroad industry, its employés, and the general public can best be served in this emergency by continuing in effect this 10 per cent deduction," Mr. Thiehoff went on, "but subject to future change, pursuant to the provisions of the railway labor act, and that further changes in wages, as necessity may require, should be made through the orderly processes of law. It is simply not in the picture for the railroads, after Jan. 31, to be burdened with an automatic increase in wages."

Cite Loss During Negotiations.

Acceptance of this proposal would mean that the roads, instead of paying the old scale which would automatically be restored to the workers on Feb. 1, would continue under the 10 per cent cut while the federal board proceeded, the union chiefs pointed out. So they continued to sit tight. The meeting broke up within an hour.

Mr. Thiehoff and his committee retired to their conference rooms. They returned to the ballroom at 2:30 p. m. with a specific statement that the continuance of the 10 per cent cut must be indefinite. The burden of their argument was that if the situation justified a 10 per cent cut a year ago, it was double justified now.

The committee was "surprised," Mr. Thiehoff said, that in view of the dire plight of the carriers, the unions should request any explanation of a continuance of the cut.

"The situation today is far worse than a year ago when this deduction was made," he asserted. "At the present rate of decline, freight business for 1932 will be lower than any year in the last quarter century. In the first eight months of this year the roads fell short of earning fixed charges by $173,800,000. This situation has never existed before.

"It has been necessary to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to pay interest on funded debt, taxes, and even past due vouchers for wages and supplies. Up to Oct. 31, 1932, the railroads have borrowed more than $290,000,000 from the R. F. C., and more than $84,000,000 from the Railroad Credit corporation. The roads must pay these loans and interest, and in addition have large maturities to meet."

He reiterated the existence of an "emergency" and proposed anew that "the deadline date of Jan. 31 be wiped out by mutual agreement and that any further wage change be made according to orderly process of law, after calm deliberation, instead of having action forced by virtue of a fixed expiration date."

The union chiefs appeared unimpressed. They adjourned, promising to produce an analysis of the operators' figures and answer at 10 o'clock this morning. The trend that answer will take was indicated by Mr. Whitney in an interview following the adjournment. If an emergency exists it is the fault of the operators themselves, he insisted.

"Mythical statements on the condition of the railroads do not alter our position," he said. "The operators are responsible for dismissal of millions of workers and reducing wages below a cultural level. Last January we told them that pay roll reductions would not help their situation. The appalling downward spiral of depression has demonstrated we were right."

ROOSEVELT NEAR CLASH ON POLICY WITH TAMMANY

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt's plans to start a ball rolling for a real cleanup of the New York City government seemed to have struck snags today, and the governor, in pugnacious attitude, prepared to put up a battle.

As the special session of the legislature, which was called mainly for the purpose of passing emergency bills to aid New York City financing, went into its second session tonight, Gov. Roosevelt learned that the legislative leaders were scheming to put aside the other purpose which the governor had injected into the session.

Study to Reorganize New York.

This purpose, included by the governor in his message to the legislature, is for the passage of a bill providing for a comprehensive study of plans whereby the governmental structure of New York City may be changed to eliminate the present "wasteful and extravagant" systems.

The plan is strongly supported by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and by Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is also the governor elect, but the Tammany leaders, whose power might be clipped by changes in the government structure of their city, have given the governor to understand they would prefer to pass the bills demanded by the New York bankers before the bankers advance further credit to the city, and then adjourn.

Won't Abandon Plan.

But Mr. Roosevelt is determined, he let it be known, to have a bill introduced for the governmental study plan, and by the attitude he assumed in discussing the question with intimates it was plain that he will be of a mind to regard legislators who oppose the bill in a test vote as disloyal to him.

He has not indicated that he would withhold federal privileges or patronage from the forces thus opposing him, but an adverse vote by the Tammany legislators might hasten what is generally regarded in the state as an inevitable break between Roosevelt as President and the Tammany chieftains.

The governor spoke with about the same emphasis concerning another proposal he has set before this special session, which seek the adoption of a law authorizing the governor of the state to appoint a receiver to oversee the fiscal affairs of any municipality in the state which defaults on its obligations."

How I Lost 62 Pounds Ugly Fat Without Harmful Dieting or Drugs

By MARGARET GEORGE

218 Lbs. 148 Lbs.

Above are my photographs taken before and after I drank Germania Herb Tea. I used to be so tired and weak I could hardly stand on my feet. I am now giving free demonstrations in the leading department stores of America. I am 50 years old, work 14 hours a day, am on my feet all the time and never felt so good before in my life. I would love to have you come and meet me.

Simply Drank Delicious Germania Herb Tea—Lost 5 Pounds a Week

SIXTY-TWO pounds of fat in three months was the welcome loss in weight I registered without taking any harmful drugs or salts—without violent exercising and without going hungry for a single minute. Drinking three cupfuls a day of delicious Germania Herb Tea, obtainable at food, department and drug stores, I hold entirely responsible for the loss of all my ugly fat and the return to me of a youth-like strength and energy I had not possessed in years. I ate whatever I wanted, except much fatty meats and starches. Delicious, I found it, and many women and men write and tell me the same.

Marine Officer Loses 30 Pounds in 8 Weeks

LEHAVRE, FRANCE, October 10, 1932.—"Sometime ago a friend of mine told me of the new method of reducing by drinking Germania Tea, and advised me to try it," writes Griff B. Cutrell, Chief Officer, Steamship Pipestone County. "I have been drinking the tea for about eight weeks now, and the result that I have obtained is nothing short of remarkable—have reduced my weight thirty pounds, and actually feel like a new man."

Made of herbs grown in the sunny slopes of hills and mountains in Germany, Germania Herb Tea is strictly a vegetable product containing no harmful drugs. It tastes just like ordinary orange pekoe tea. It is made the same way and you can drink it, either hot or served as iced tea, with lemon, cream or sugar.

Will You Make This Test?

Will you test Germania Herb Tea without risking a single cent? Then, go to your nearest food, drug or department store today and get a package of the original and genuine Germania Herb Tea. A $1.50 package makes 50 cups of tea. Costs only 9c a day. Do not risk a penny. Test Germania Tea under our positive guarantee that it must make you lose from two to five pounds a week, that you must be delighted with the wonderful results or we will pay back your money and no questions will be asked. Lose pounds of ugly fat. Go to your nearest food, drug or department store today and get a package of Germania Tea, or write Germania Tea Co., 608—1st Ave., N., Minneapolis, Minn.

RUSSIA MENDS CHINESE BREAK; FLIRTS WITH U. S.

Holds Recognition Is Vital to World Peace.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 12.—Soviet Russia made a direct bid for recognition by the United States at Geneva today. Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign foreign commissar, made it in a statement with which he embellished the dramatic pronouncement that China and Russia are resuming diplomatic relations, which were ruptured in 1927. This break was mended within 24 hours of Litvinov's arrival from Moscow in a parley with Dr. W. W. Yen of China.

The soviet foreign commissar made his bid for recognition in the guise of pointing a moral.

"It is only when all states maintain relations with one another," he said, "that we will be able to speak seriously of international cooperation in the cause of peace, international observance of peace pacts and agreements, and the creation of universally recognized and authoritative international organizations."

Seen as Setting a Price.

This is interpreted as an intimation that Russian cooperation in settling the Manchurian dispute may be conditioned on American recognition of the soviets. At the same time it is taken as a veiled hint that Russia, if it is treated as it wishes, would consider entering the league of nations to collaborate in strengthening the peace pacts.

Litvinov carefully chose the time and place for his statements. The place is the peace city where Japan stands defiant before all attempts to judge her, where Russia and the United States soon are to be asked to sit on a league committee to settle the Manchurian row, and where American interests soon are to be involved, since Secretary of State Stimson, out on a limb with his nonrecognition policy, appears to be waiting for the league to rescue him.

For the time he chose the very afternoon when the assembly's committee of nineteen, floundering, passed the settlement buck, like the council to the assembly before, to a drafting committee of five.

Cites Danger to Peace.

"The reestablishment of relations with China," said Litvinov, "needs no explanation. What does require an explanation is the rupture of relations between states and the refusal of relations—phenomena which are the infringement of normal international life and which sometimes constitute a danger to peace.

"It is beyond doubt that the commencement of the present troubles in the far east was in no small degree due to the fact that not all of the states situated on the shores of the Pacific ocean have been maintaining diplomatic relations with each other."

The wily commissar, however, was careful to add that "the soviet union has its hands unfettered by any secret political combinations or agreements. Consequently improvement of its relations with one country does not mean its relations are worse with another."

This statement was obviously intended to reassure Japan.

The commissar came here in the Russian equivalent of a horse trading fever, and Geneva abounds with rumors that Washington has promised early recognition. But, so far as is known, Norman H. Davis, American representative, has no horse to trade for soviet help in bringing Japan to time any more than he has for league support to Stimson's Manchurian policy.

Japan Registers Protest.

TOKIO, Dec. 13.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—A government spokesman declared today that resumption of diplomatic relations between Russia and China was most unwelcome to Japan.

"The elements most disturbing to the peace of the world now have joined hands and Japan stands squarely against these forces," the spokesman said. "The question for the powers is whether to allow the forces of destruction to rule in the orient or the forces of consolidation. The resumption of Russo-Chinese relations poses this issue squarely. Beside it the future of Manchuria is comparatively insignificant."

SOVIET ENSLAVES 160 MILLION, SAYS KIN OF TOLSTOY

Warns U.S. Recognition Would Be Mistake.

A discussion by Scrutator of what has happened in soviet Russia under the five year plan, based on a brochure of the American Vigilant Intelligence federation, will be found in the financial section.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of the late Count Leo Tolstoy, Russian novelist and dramatist, told a crowd that packed Sinai temple last night that soviet Russia is in the bonds of slavery with conditions among the masses "worse than they ever were." She declared that the recognition of soviet Russia by the United States "would be an enormous mistake."

For more than an hour Countess Tolstoy described the wretchedness of the people, giving her reasons why she believed the soviet plan to be a failure. Much of her talk, she said, was based upon what she had seen herself. Frequently she read extracts of "orders" from soviet newspapers.

Collectivism of Farms "Worst."

"When Lenin and his followers seized their power during the world war, the people, tired of fighting, went home from war from tyranny to slavery," she said. "It is dreadful to say it, but in this 20th century the 160 million people in Russia are slaves. The fact that two and a half million prisoners, most of whom are peasants, are working at forced labor is not the worst form of slavery. The worst is the collectivism of farms.

"A man or woman found stealing his own grain is given capital punishment. I know of cases where women who sewed bags in their petticoats to steal wheat at the harvest were condemned to death when discovered.

Heavy Sacrifice for Machinery.

"In 1931 91 per cent of the national income went to the government. The stores in Siberia in September sold two and a half pounds of rye bread for the equivalent of $1.25 in American money, while slippers in Moscow sold for $125 in American money. Why is this so? Why is Russia, with so much grain, starving? Everything is sent for exports. The Russian government needs foreign currency to buy machinery. That is why the Russian people are starving.

"Do you know that in Russia today a young man is told he may join the communist party only if he wishes, but when he wants to go to the university he isn't admitted if he isn't a communist? Or if one doesn't take part in the trade union demonstrations on the anniversary of the revolutions he is excluded from the trade and will lose his job?

"It is better to have no education at all than the kind they have in Russia. The 1931 program was based on anti-religious propaganda. Children are grouped by classes and the children of the deprived taught to deny and curse their families publicly."

Break 25 Machines

Twenty-five slot machines seized in police raids in the Shakespeare avenue district were destroyed yesterday in the Municipal court of Judge Frederick W. Elliott. Policemen, armed with sledge hammers, carried the machines to the court room and battered them to pieces.

POLICE HUNT 3 KIDNAP BANDITS; ONE IS A GIRL

The police yesterday sought a girl bandit and two men who kidnaped a man and woman on Sunday night, robbed and beat their victims and then looted the man's room. The victims, Edgar Field, 30 years old, 3417 Monroe street, and Mrs. Eleanor Burnett, 38, of 4152 Adams street, were seized as they walked in West Monroe street.

A young woman and a man drew revolvers and forced Field and Mrs. Burnett to the curb, where an automobile was parked with a second man at the wheel. One robber kicked Field as they got into the car. Mrs. Burnett objected and was slapped by the woman bandit.

Field was compelled to hand over the keys to his room. The bandits drove there, took a camera, several suits of clothing and a revolver.

The bandits then drove about the neighborhood for 20 minutes. They slapped their victims repeatedly for no apparent reason. They took $9 and a watch from Field and pushed him and Mrs. Burnett out of the car.

OPEN 400 FREE HOSPITAL BEDS FOR CITY'S POOR

13 Institutions to Receive County's Overflow.

Four hundred free beds in private hospitals were made available yesterday for those of the city's poor denied admission to the overcrowded county hospital. Thirteen private hospitals placed beds at the disposal of the county's welfare organizations.

The cost of the hospitalization of penniless sick persons is to be borne by the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook county. Hospitalization of an individual is not to exceed $3.75 a day. Applicants for attention will be received on recommendation of the county department of public welfare or any recognized social agency, said Dr. Frank D. Loomis, secretary of the fund.

These Institutions Offer Beds.

The institutions which offered beds are Augustana, Grant, Chicago Lying-In, Lutheran Deaconess, Michael Reese, Mount Sinai, Passavant, the Presbyterian, Provident, St. Elizabeth's, St. Luke's, St. Mary of Nazareth, and the Women's and Children's hospitals. Other hospitals are expected to join the movement.

News of the offer reached the County hospital as a committee met to consider methods of meeting the increased demands on the insitution. It was received with joy by Dr. N. S. Davis, president of the Cook County School of Nursing; Dr. Frederick Tice, chief of the hospital's medical staff, County Commissioners Peter Kelly and Mary Plumb, Warden Michael Zimmer, and Dr. Karl Meyer, assistant warden.

Transfers for Convalescence.

The committee called a meeting of all internes and physicians on the staff for tonight. At the meeting members of the staff will be asked to make a survey of the cases under their care to determine which of them may be sent to the private institutions. Only those well on the way to recovery will be transferred to make room for more serious cases.

The staff will also be asked to recommend other convalescing patients for transfer to Oak Forest. At Oak Forest 125 beds are being made available for such patients. These beds will be given to persons cured, but in need of rest and minor treatment.

Committee to Arrange Details.

Details of the hospitalization of the needy in private hospitals are to be worked out by the committee. It is the hope of the committee that the cost will be kept well below the $3.75 a day maximum and that the majority of cases will be accepted at $2.50 or $2.75 a day.

The movement to provide beds in private institutions in order to relieve the county hospital was begun by Dr. Davis, Dr. Tice, and Dr. George W. Hall, member of the staff of St. Luke's hospital. At present the county hospital is housing approximately 2,900 patients. Its normal capacity is 2,500.

FREE HOSPITAL BEDS INCREASE FINANCIAL BURDEN OF CHARITIES

Free hospitalization of the needy ill by the Emergency Welfare fund of Cook county will greatly increase expenditures on health service of the organization, Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign to raise $7,500,000 for private relief organizations, announced yesterday.

"Last year the total health expenditure was $214,000," Mr. Gardner said. "This year $650,000 will be spent on providing beds in private hospitals for patients unable to get into the county hospital. Total funds set aside for health service at present are $1,100,000. This includes $275,000 to pay for free visits to 12 clinics, which was not allocated last year. If our subscription goal is reached the health service total will be raised, if necessary."

Yesterday's gifts brought the drive total to $3,690,222. Among the new subscriptions were:

An army of 1,000 women invaded the smaller stores in the loop and the outlying districts yesterday to enroll subscribers to the welfare fund. They were led by Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, head of the women's division.

SEIZED AS HEAD OF SOUTH SIDE TERRORIST 'MOB'

Martin Quirk, 29 years old, alleged head of a new terrorist mob of beer hoodlums on the south side, and three of his men were arrested last night by Sergt. James Keeley and his detective bureau squad in a room at the New Bedford hotel at 7130 Cyril avenue. A revolver was seized.

Police said that Quirk has organized a new beer syndicate operating south of 60th street in the Grand Crossing, East Side, Woodlawn, and South Chicago police districts. It is known as a terrorist outfit, detectives asserted, because the hoodlums force restaurant owners and other business people to buy alcohol and beer.

The three men arrested with Quirk were Thomas Hyland, 28 years old, who recently was released from Pontiac after serving a seven year term for robbery; Robert Brown, 32 years old, and Fred Farley, 28 years old.

INJUNCTION SUIT AGAINST JANITOR UNION DROPPED

Attorney John M. Allen, resident manager of the Audrey Court apartments, 1133-57 Grace street, appeared yesterday in the federal court of Judge James H. Wilkerson and withdrew an injunction suit against the Chicago Flat Janitors' union.

In the bill, filed last week, Allen charged that the union had used terroristic tactics in an effort to oust a janitor from the building. He asked that the union be restrained from damaging the building, molesting the tenants, and from canceling the union card of the janitor, Peter Van Haeken. The union charged, according to the bill, that Van Haeken had done some concrete work in violation of the union rules.

After withdrawing the suit, Attorney Allen said yesterday that the union had withdrawn objections to Van Haeken. Union officials said that investigation had shown that the janitor did not do the concrete work in question, the attorney said.

An Appropriate CHRISTMAS GIFT for $1.50

If you have out-of-town friends or relatives who are interested in antiques or interior decorations, an ideal Christmas gift for them would be a subscription to the Saturday edition of The Sun containing the Antiques and Interior Decorations Pages.

These Pages will be a weekly reminder of your greetings and will bring pleasure and enjoyment many times in the new year. They are edited by Charles Messer Stow, the nationally-known antiquarian. In addition to his own weekly writings they contain valuable contributions from other authorities on furniture, glass, silver, textiles, etc. They contain several regular feature columns such as: The Quester, giving interesting and amusing sidelights on rare things and old customs; Questions and Answers, where puzzled collectors may have their questions answered; Next Week's Auctions, telling when and where the auction sales will take place.

Further, the Saturday Sun has many other special features and pages on such subjects as music, art, books, stamps, the theater, radio, television and finance, each of which is edited by an authority on his respective subject.

A subscription to the Saturday Sun is a tasteful gift, one that will be appreciated by cultured people. It costs only $1.50 a year and is therefore an economical gift as well as a valuable one.

LETTERS MAKE CHICAGO'S SANTA GRAVE THIS YEAR

Letters Request Clothing for Parents.

Assistant Postmaster John T. McGrath busied himself yesterday sorting 1,000 letters to Santa Claus. Known for years as the official Santa Claus of Chicago, McGrath's blue eyes and rosy cheeks are in character with his title.

"I used to get a great many chuckles out of these letters," he said, "but the laughs are few this year. The kids used to ask for toys and dolls and candy. This year they ask for food and clothing for their parents and themselves."

Many Written by Mothers.

He invited Chicagoans with a desire to pinch hit for Santa Claus to go to the federal building and pick out the letter they like best. Many of the letters this year, McGrath said, come from the mothers of families, not deluded by a belief in Santa, who have written in hope that some one will read the letter and be moved to aid them.

He pointed to the letter of a 10 year old girl as characteristic of the changed demands on Santa Claus. Written on a piece of grade school paper, the letter said:

"Dear Santa Claus:

"Will you Please bring my mother a dress and my father a tie and my brother a new automobile and me a doll and buggi and a blackboard. You would be a good Santa Claus. Your friend, LORRAINE."

Another letter from a 12 year old girl said that "Father has been out of work for two years," and asked a basket of food for a family of six children.

Little Girl Asks for Food.

"I am a little girl nine years old and I have a brother 12 years old, and my father has been out of work a long time," another letter said. "We are getting help from the charities but my mother says we won't be able to get anything from Santa Claus this year. Pleas could you send some food. Please Santa Claus don't forget us again this year. SHIRLEY."

A letter from a mother, asking a Christmas basket for a family of eight.

$6,000 INSURANCE LEFT TO WOMAN NOW ON CHARITY

Thomas Cooper, a railroad mechanic, arrived in Chicago from Halleyville, Okla., yesterday, and proceeded directly to the South State street police building. There he met Sergt. Joseph Starshak, in charge of the missing persons bureau.

"I came here to find a Mrs. Thomas Mahorey," he explained. "She used to live with her husband in Halleyville. He was my boss. Some time ago they separated, and Mrs. Mahorey came to Chicago with their 6 year old son. Several days ago Mahorey was accidentally killed. He left a $6,000 insurance policy in his wife's name. That's why I want to find her."

Sergt. Starshak assigned Detectives Alexander Mitchell and Harr Petrie to the task. Without any clews to the whereabouts of Mrs. Mahorey, they decided to investigate relief station records. Their hunch was correct. The records showed that Mrs. Mahorey had received aid in October at 606 South May street.

The detectives went to that address. There, in a poorly furnished room, they found Mrs. Mahorey, her son and her mother. They told her of her husband's death and of the $6,000 insurance.

FIND LUSITANIA, PLAN TO SALVAGE GOLD IN SPRING

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The lure of sunken treasure has brought about a renewed attempt to salvage gold and valuables from the Lusitania.

Since a German submarine sent the giant liner to the bottom off Kinsale, Irish Free State, with a loss of 1,198 lives 17 years ago, and brought the United States into the world war, several plans to salvage her treasure have been projected.

The latest was put forward last year, but no work was done. It became known today that the sunken liner finally has been located and a decision reached to begin salvage operations early in 1933.

Charles Courtney, president of the American Association of Master Locksmiths, who directed the opening of treasure chests on the sunken liner Egypt last year, has been engaged to aid in the Lusitania venture.

The start of work will depend in part on how early in the spring favorable weather comes to the Irish coast.

The amount of gold aboard the Lusitania has been variously estimated at $10,000,000, $7,000,000 and $5,000,000. The ship's manifest, published shortly after she sank, contained no reference to gold in the cargo.

ACCEPT ISLAND FOR MEMORIAL TO ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—President Hoover today accepted in behalf of the nation a deed to Analostan island in the Potomac river, which will be transformed into a park as a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt.

The island, between Francis Scott Key bridge and the new Arlington Memorial bridge within the corporate limits of the District of Columbia, was purchased and presented to the government by the Roosevelt Memorial association. It covers 90 acres.

Presentation of the deed was made by Dr. Harry R. Garfield of Cleveland, president of the association. In his remarks at the ceremony, which took place in the East room of the White House, Dr. Garfield stressed the late President Roosevelt's interest in the development of the national capital.

President Hoover accepted the island with the statement that Analostan island shall "hereafter be known as Theodore Roosevelt island and dedicated to the nation."

Among those present at the ceremony were Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of former President Roosevelt, members of the cabinet, and Gen. John J. Pershing.

GOOD FELLOW CLUBS STARTED ALL OVER CITY

Christmas Spirit Takes Hold of Chicago.

Good Fellow clubs are springing up in all sections of Chicago. Associations in offices and in civic and social organizations are banding together to make a gala affair of the basket distribution. They are also whooping up the Christmas spirit in their preparations.

The Mid Town Kiwanis club is going to take Christmas cheer to fifty-five families. The Essaness Theater Co. is donating a performance at the American theater, Madison street and Ashland avenue. The admission at 10:45 Saturday morning will be a can of edibles or a toy or some other article that can be used in the Christmas baskets.

Women's Auxiliary Helps.

The women's auxiliary of the Midwest Athletic club is sponsoring a benefit performance on Friday at the Kedzie theater, Madison street and Kedzie avenue. The entire proceeds will be used to purchase baskets for needy families.

The Northwestern University Mothers' club has enlisted in the Good Fellow couse. The Eta chapter of the Lamba Sigma Tau sorority is also active.

The Hoover company, 8 South Michigan avenue, and some of its employés have been assigned twenty families for basket deliveries.

These are a few examples of the group activity of the Good Fellows. However, such organization is not necessary to have the fun and self satisfaction of being a Santa Claus to some destitute family worthy of kindness.

How to Join Good Fellows.

Tear the coupon from this page and address it to Good Fellows, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago, or call in person at THE TRIBUNE Public Service Office, Dearborn and Madison streets, and you'll get the name, address and brief description of a family for your Christmas basket. The telephone number is Superior 0100.

Between now and Christmas, information concerning the Good Fellow campaign will be given from W-G-N. THE TRIBUNE radio station on the Drake hotel. Tonight at 9:45 o'clock during the "Lights and Shadows" program, played by the W-G-N concert orchestra, several minutes will be devoted to telling of the Good Fellow work as also will be done tomorrow night during "The Dream Ship" period, at 10:15.

Youth Gets 60 Days for Attempted Theft

Kenneth Arno, 17 years old, 35 North Paulina street, yesterday was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell and was fined $1 by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Boys' court. Arno was caught on Sunday evening trying to take two suitcases from the automobile of Guy Gould, a Peshtigo, Wis. farmer, when Gould with his son, Everett, 19 years old, returned to their parked automobile at State and Quincy streets after seeing the city. Two of Arno's companions fled when the Goulds gave battle.

HUNGER STRIKE IN U. S. AT POLISH ANTI-SEMITISM

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Dr. Arthur Kraus, instructor in philosophy at City college, today passed what he said was the second day of a hunger strike at his home. He announced that he was determined to die "in protest against the apathy of intellectuals toward anti-Semitic excesses in Polish universities."

The immediate cause for his self-imposed fast, Dr. Kraus explained, was the abandonment of undergraduate leaders at the college of plans for a student march to the Polish consulate on Thursday. He added, however, that his action was the "logical and inevitable consequence of a life devoted to Jewish causes," and was not wholly attributable to the students' "moral cowardice."

Dr. Kraus spent all of today in bed. He complained of "intestinal dryness and pain."

Progressive Leader Named to Head Finnish Cabinet

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 12.—(AP)—At the request of President Pehr Evind Svinhufvud, Minister of Justice E. M. Kivimaki is forming a cabinet. He is one of the leaders of the Progressive party. The cabinet headed by J. E. Sunila resigned Dec. 7 when the president refused to sign a bill dealing with regulation of interest rates.

SWEATERS—lots of them! We especially admire the one shown above in tweed knit, with turtle neck and puff sleeves. Sizes 8 to 16, priced at $2.95.

SKI suits are practically indispensable to our winter wardrobe—they're grand for skating, too. This 3-piece one comes in green and black, red and black, or red and royal blue. $10.75. Others, $12.75 and $14.75.

Separate ski leggings are priced from $3.95 to $5.95.

CREPE DE CHINE slips we really need! You'll find them lace-trimmed and tailored here on the Fifth Floor, and they fit just marvelously. $1.95. Dance sets, too, are priced at $1.95.

GOWNS of crepe de Chine we simply adore. Especially the one shown here, with its cute cap sleeves. In sizes 12 to 16, $2.95. Silk pajamas are $3.95 and $2.95.

FLANNEL robes are our favorites. They look so smart and tailored. Plain color or two-tones, sizes 8 to 16, priced at $3.95.

LESLIE DENIES D. C. STEPHENSON PLEA FOR PAROLE

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Gov. Harry G. Leslie, who was speaker of the house of representatives when David C. Stephenson was Ku Klux Klan dragon and political czar of Indiana, tonight denied Stephenson's petition for a ninety day parole from state prison. Stephenson asked at least temporary liberty to aid in perfecting his petitions for writs coram nobis in the Indiana Supreme court, and "start a congressional investigation" of an alleged liquor-narcotic ring in Indiana.

"I will not refer the petition to the prison board nor give it further consideration," said Gov. Leslie, concerning the document from D. C. Jenkins, Stephenson's attorney.

"The petition presented to this office by Stephenson's attorneys distorts facts and contains untruthful statements relative to the operation of our well-conducted institution, the Indiana state prison at Michigan City.

"This petition was peddled to certain newspapers and appeared in print previously to presentation to this office. It apparently was prepared for publicity purposes. That has been accomplished."

TWO SPANIARDS JAILED FOR BEATING ROULETTE BANK IN MONTE CARLO

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

MONTE CARLO, Dec. 12.—Two Spanish visitors were in jail today accused of beating the roulette bank by one of the first successful "systems" practiced in the famous gambling casino for some time. The system, it is said, worked well and mystified the authorities, but it was proved the defect was not being based on the laws of chance, but on an illegal method of defrauding fellow gamblers.

The police state that the accused, Carlos Soler and Francesco Barbero, were surprised "lifting" gaming chips off the roulette tables by an ingenious method. This consisted of painting the palm of the hand with bird lime and while placing a small chip in the hand between the fingertips on the table, cupping the hand over higher valued chips which adhered to the palm and were deftly removed in a gasture too swift for the eye to follow.

It is believed that a gang operating with this method lately has succeeded in escaping with $1,000.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

INTO THE BREAKERS.

Arthur Sears Henning's summary of the treatment of the nation-wide demand for retrenchment by the present congress and administration presents a situation of as grave moment to the American people as a declaration of war. "Though the budget is still unbalanced," says Mr. Henning, "though three billion dollars has been added to the public debt in the last two years and the addition of another billion this year impends, though income and other tax sources are drying up, neither the administrative nor the legislative branch of the government has other notions than to go on spending as prodigally as ever and to pile on more taxes to make both ends meet."

It is difficult to believe that congress and the administration are so blind to the eventual consequence of such policy, which is nothing less than national bankruptcy, that no alternative is in the background of their intent. Is it possible that the purpose of this reckless persistence in spending is to bequeath to the new administration an empty treasury, an abolished credit, and a situation from which nothing but political discredit and public disappointment can be derived?

THE WAY TO QUIT IS TO QUIT.

The almost fatal limitation in the President's recommendation for reorganization of government is stated in his message that "statutory functions may not be abolished by executive orders." That requires, as Mr. Hoover says, the retention of many commissions and leaves it possible only to regroup the agencies or consolidate them. When the opposition asks for a suspension of federal activities and a retirement from fields either occupied or being entered, regrouping and consolidation, although effecting some economies, cannot fill the bill.

To declare the better theories of federal government and get down to real economies, the extinction of bureaus is necessary. It may well be that the administrative office should not be granted authority to do away with all these extraneous government activities, but congress cannot escape the responsibility for their continuance. Any one can run through Mr. Hoover's report of what has been done under the authority granted him and pick out at random exhibits of federal bureaucracy which would be undesirable in flush times and are preposterous in hard times. Among such specimens would be selected the bureau of public roads, the commission of fine arts, the George Rogers Clark sesquicentennial commission, the division of education, health and recreation, the federal board for vocational education, the division of land utilization, the United States Shipping Board Mercantile Fleet corporation, the Inland Waterways corporation, the department of labor as a department, the advisory council of the National Arboretum, etc. These are only illustrations taken haphazard. Some of them should sell out; some should be thrown out. Until congress authorizes a reduction by defining what are proper federal services and what are not, the next best thing is probably an economic rearrangement along the lines on which the President has acted. But the fault is a faulty principle of government. It is one which permits any gathering of enthusiasts or hobbyists to obtain an incorporation of their programs in the structure of the federal administration. Usually a presentable case can be made for the projects in some abstraction of human good and the logic then seems to be that the federal government shall assume responsibility.

The deficits and the costs of the American government are written in terms of services. The only way to save the financial structure is to reduce the number and the extent of the services undertaken by the government.

CHEMICAL WARFARE.

A committee of experts have been examining the possibilities of preventing the preparation and use of lethal gases in war. They have just reported to the disarmament conference that they are unable to suggest practical means to make a prohibition of chemical or incendiary warfare effectual. The committee point out that, while certain gases used only in war might be regulated or suppressed, any nation with a well developed chemical industry could easily improvise poison gases without special preparation in peace times.

The conclusion might have been and undoubtedly was foreseen by every one who has considered the question with respect to realities. The governments which joined in a prohibitory declaration were moved by a regard for unthinking sentiment and the professional humanitarianism which concentrates its propaganda on Geneva conferences. The trouble with prohibition in this case, as in others we can think of, is that as a practicable proposition and not merely a noble gesture it will not prohibit, though it does give advantage to the least scrupulous of combatants.

Moreover, the reaction of humanitarianism against chemical warfare is exaggerated and unbalanced. It assumes that gas warfare is more cruel and unnecessarily disastrous than other methods of combat. Expert opinion does not support this. As J. S. Haldane, leading British authority on chemistry, has testified from personal experience, wounds from gun fire may be more painful than gassing. If it is the object, as it should be, to prevent unnecessary suffering and develop means of putting soldiers out of action with the minimum of pain and permanent disablement, chemical warfare opens up possibilities which no previous form of force has ever had. It is characteristic of the emotional humanitarianism that is so busy devising patent remedies for human nature that it has given little consideration to these possibilities.

What has created an almost hysteric demand for the abolition of chemical warfare, however, is exaggerated notions of the possibilities of poison gas as a means of destruction of civilian life on an enormous scale. The favorite myth is that a new gas has been discovered which will wipe out whole cities. It is never verified, but turns up in vague report repeatedly. How this is to be accomplished in practice is given no thought. What natural conditions or defensive invention promises to diminish or defeat such a holocaust is ignored. Such myths appeal to human credulity and the liking for miracles. But they should not be taken as a basis of action or policy or hurry us into blundering legislation or commitments. Any new form of force should be given thorough study. Chemical warfare has great possibilities, but they are both good and bad, and all should be examined coolly and practically by men who have the essential knowledge and mental discipline, not by excited and gullible individuals who lack both and substitute emotion, however noble, for facts and their intelligent appraisement.

MR. STIMSON GETS BETTER AND BETTER.

Mr. Stimson, secretary of state, is being fed so many lemons by the European debtors that the increase of the acid tone in his notes may be easily explained. The secretary is developing a technique in tartness which does him no discredit with his fellow countrymen. The British announcement that the terms of the debt payment would be rewritten on the occasion of the Dec. 15 remittance provoked his latest rejoinder, and in this connection provoked is no idle word.

His majesty's government informed the American government that the installment would be regarded not as a satisfaction of the terms of the debt settlement but as a payment on capital account to be considered as such when the whole subject was reopened later with a view to a different arrangement before the due date of another bill. This bit of suppressed temper in British diplomacy was exposed to the reply which Mr. Stimson made, that the treasury of the United States has no authority to accept any money not paid in accordance with the agreement to which Great Britain has set its signature.

That the old banker of the world should have thought to change the terms of a contract by the conditions of a payment is astonishing enough by itself. That the suave British diplomacy should stick out its chin is more so. It is possible that all is not well with the British phlegm. Mr. Stimson gets better as he warms up.

GOING TO VERDUN.

At a meeting of the French National Confederation of War Veterans' Societies Edmond Bloch, secretary of the General Association of War Cripples, contributing to the general and violent protest against debt payments to the United States, cried: "Go to Verdun or any other place along the old front and listen to the voice of the dead. They did not give their lives so that France should pay in place of Germany."

The French veterans have forgotten that except for the debts, although it might now be possible for them to go to Verdun and other places along the old front, the probability is that a passport would be required of any Frenchman wishing to go, and that while he was there he would be under the police regulations of the German state. It is being forgotten that valor sometimes needs assistance of supplies.

Editorial of the Day

[Illinois State Journal.]

Recent experience has made it plain that the legislature cannot be depended on to act as a check on Chicago's waste of public funds. When a deficit occurs the spenders have only to come to Springfield with an exhibit of unpaid school teachers and firemen in order to secure authorization for additional borrowing. When the hungry teachers have been fed and the firemen have received a portion of their back salary Chicago's unemployed are brought into the picture.

Country assemblymen have no means of checking up on the real situation. They know only that teachers are living on short rations, that the city's protection against fire is menaced, and that cessation of relief station activities may result in rioting. Conditions are such that members from the rural districts are willing to vote anything which offers relief—and the only thing suggested is the borrowing of more money. Accordingly they ease their conscience by permitting new bond issues.

While the legislature is in this frame of mind Chicago's only hope of escaping bankruptcy lies in the big banking institutions of that city. They can, by refusing to finance the wasters, put a check on the outgo. If they will get together and say the spending must end—that they will advance no more money—Chicago can be pulled out of the mire.

It will be necessary, of course, for the banks to act in concert. They must have a hard and fast agreement to boycott paper of the governing bodies until measures are taken to keep expenditures within tax collections. They must turn down anticipation warrants and decline to handle bonds which put new burdens of indebtedness on Chicago's overtaxed property.

Such action on the part of the banks will be accompanied with temporary sacrifices. It will mean loss of profits to be had from handling proposed public loans. The banks, too, may make numerous powerful enemies among the officeholding class. In the end, however, they will be benefited. By saving the credit of Chicago they will perform a most important civic service and at the same time improve their own standing as substantial institutions.

LOGIC.

Uncle was laying down the law to his young nephew.

"Remember, my boy," he said heavily, "it will pay you to be diligent in your studies. Remember, too, what you have learned no one can ever take from you."

The boy nodded understandingly.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

BUT WHAT'S ALL THE shootin' fur? Postmaster General Brown fully explained the matter to the house appropriations committee. The auto that was assigned to his use by the postoffice department had too low a top to give clearance to his silk hat. So naturally he was obliged to have the government buy him a nice big car that would permit the silk hat to enter without being dented. Of course there are the rude, unthinking people who will say there are a large number of people tramping around in the snow these weeks hunting jobs who do not ask the government to give them a car with high enough clearance for their silk hats. It is shrewdly conjectured that many of the jobless, indifferent to correct social usage, haven't got a silk hat. But that of course is not the question. Postmaster General Brown has a silk hat and the government naturally should take official cognizance of the fact and provide him with an automobile of sufficient size to give the silk hat plenty of room. And, as the government did, there is really nothing more to be said about it and Postmaster General Brown is quite right to lift his eyebrows in pained surprise that anything should be said about the matter.

WILFRED J. FUNK, poet and dictionary publisher, if you can visualize those two trades mixed in one person, has compiled what he declares to be the ten most beautiful words in the English language—"beautiful in their meaning and in the arrangement of their letters." To wit and namely:

luminous	melody
dawn	golden

A very nice list, indeed, but a person who is a poet and not bothered by a dictionary complex could easily pick out ten words from the forty or fifty thousand in the English language far more beautiful. Oh, much more! Now, for instance, our list of the ten loveliest words in the English language is as follows:

rum	bourbon
rye	Scotch
sauterne	cocktail
sherry	champagne

Of course there are other beautiful words we should like to add, but the list is limited to ten and besides the other lovely words we have in mind such as gin rickey, Dublin stout, three star Hennessy, mint julep, gin rickey and Tom and Jerry might be objected to on the grounds that they are not single words.

VERSE FOR MY LITTLE DAUGHTER.

O little child with tearful eyes
What story can have given you
That old and saddened look?

The princess did not wed the prince?
Some witchcraft worked them ill?
My dearest one, believe it not!
The lovers wander still,

A happy pair, in fairyland;
Forget the story's end
For one I tell. (So short a while
Is left us to pretend.)

Forget the book and smile again!
There doom so many years
In which I cannot change the tale
Or kiss away your tears.)

DIPHTHERIA GOING DOWN.

THERE seems to be a fair chance that diphtheria can be wiped out. In communities with well developed health departments this objective is almost within sight. Day has broken, the eastern sky is red, and the sun is almost due to rise.

The rule is that we have succeeded best with those diseases about which we knew the least—that is, from the laboratory standpoint. Let us use smallpox as an example. The laboratory people can tell us nothing of practical value about this disease. We do not know what microbe causes it, nor have we a laboratory diagnostic test for it that is on a working basis. We have no antitoxin nor anti-bacterial remedy for it. The method of vaccination against it was worked out in practice without any laboratory help except as to some minor points adopted in this century.

There is consumption, which is coming under control in spite of the fact that we have no specific cure or preventive that is in general use.

Diphtheria is an exception. The bacillus is known. The disease can be proved diagnostically in the laboratory. It can be transmitted to animals and thus theories can be checked. We have specific vaccines worked out in laboratories for its cure. Fifty years ago diphtheria was regarded as one of mankind's most terrifying menaces. When the total number of deaths from a given disease among nearly six million people is less than two hundred yearly the end may be regarded as within sight. That is New York's record.

When a city of more than one hundred thousand can go for four years without a death from diphtheria not much is to be feared from the disease. This end has been achieved by making use of each discovery as it became available. In the last decade of the last century it was the use of antitoxin. Now it is the use of vaccine. Enough experience with the latter procedure has been accumulated to create a demand for a book. This demand a Frenchman, Debre, has supplied with a volume entitled "Vaccination Against Diphtheria."

The main questions have all been settled. The present day debate is over such minor questions as: Which is better, toxin antitoxin or toxoid? Shall one or three injections be given? Shall the injections be made into the skin or under? Shall it be used as an ointment; as a throat and nose spray? Shall babies be vaccinated at one year or at an earlier age? Should vaccination against diphtheria precede vaccination against smallpox? Shall diphtheria vaccination be required as a requisite for attendance on school, entrance to children's homes, and hospitals? When children have been exposed to diphtheria how shall they be immunized against the disease?

MAY NEED A CHANGE.

T. L. M. writes: My friend is planning to marry a man about 27, who suffers occasionally from severe headaches. Some time ago he suffered thus incessantly for a few months. Within the last year and a half he has had it only once for a few hours. From reading your column I think it is migraine. His profession is teaching.

1. Would it help this young man to marry if it is migraine? Would it hurt him?

2. Is there any cure for this trouble?

REPLY:

1. It should make no difference either way. If migraine was a bar to matrimony the marriage license clerk would have to get a new job.

2. Some cases are cured but the job is not an easy one. To start with, one must find the cause of the disorder in his case. After that he will probably need to make some changes in his habits. Our habits generally suit us, even though they harm us and changes are troublesome.

HOT FLASHES.

M. H. B. writes: Are hot flashes caused by kidney trouble? I am bothered especially at night. I wake up several times during the night feeling hot and perspiring and the next minute I feel cold.

2. The corners of my eyes are always filled with matter. Would this be caused by eyestrain or some other trouble?

REPLY:

1. Very much the most frequent cause is change of life. When that is the cause the symptom can be prevented. Send stamped and addressed envelope for copy of Personal Hygiene for Women.

2. Eyestrain is the probable cause.

If a petition is signed by most of the tenants requesting a reduction, would this method have a better chance of success? 4. All tenants have signed leases.

BANK STOCKHOLDER.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I became a stockholder when a bank was instituted in Illinois in 1917. Six years later I sold the stock to a friend of mine. In 1928 the bank was merged with another. The latter closed its doors in 1931. Am I in any way to be held liable for the stockholding in 1917?

W. F. T.

In Sanders vs. Merchants' Bank, decided Oct. 22, 1932, by the Illinois Supreme court, it was held that all the successive owners of the same shares of stock may be held liable to the amount of the par value of those shares for debts accruing during the respective periods of ownership of such successive owners.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE LIABILITY.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There is a mortgage on my three apartment building which is about the present day value of the property. This mortgage was on the property when I took it over. I did not sign the mortgage papers. The former owner, who did sign the mortgage papers, is deceased. 1. If a deficiency decree is rendered will my other piece of property be seized to satisfy it? 2. Is there anything I can do to save my remaining property before this mortgage matures in two weeks?

J. I.

1. Not unless you have signed some express agreement to pay the mortgage.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 13, 1916.

BERLIN.—Germany today made its first direct offer to the entente powers to end the war. The offer was announced during the most momentous session of the reichstag held since the declaration of war. The peace terms informally presented to Washington for publication provide: For the complete restoration of Belgium; for the evacuation by Germany of all territory captured in northern France during the progress of the war; for the establishment of Poland and Lithuania as independent kingdoms; for the retention of Serbia by Austria-Hungary, and the restoration to Bulgaria of all territory lost by that country in the second Balkan war; for the restoration to Austria of territory captured by Italy in the neighborhood of the Adriatic sea; for the restoration to Germany of all her colonial possessions in Africa, the far east and other parts of the globe, and for the retention of Constantinople by Turkey.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson is considering the propriety and advisability of asking the European belligerents to declare an armistice for the discussion of peace overtures made by Germany. If such a truce should be effected, the President would undertake to induce the belligerents to meet in a peace conference designed to terminate the great war. Mr. Wilson believes that if there were a truce for the consideration of peace terms hostilities would never be resumed. The President has received official assurance from Germany and her allies that they would agree to an armistice at once and would enter into the discussion of peace terms without reservation.

LONDON.—Peace is a step nearer, but is still far off. Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech before the reichstag is no surprise to British officialdom. It has met with a cold and unresponsive reception here, however, for, no matter how war weary the people are, they are in no frame of mind to accept peace now. The spirit in which it has been received is one of ridicule. Before the allies can reply they must hold a joint conference. This undoubtedly will be done immediately.

NEW YORK.—In the heaviest trading of the year, aggregating nearly 2,500,000 shares, Wall street took violent fright at the announcement that Germany seeks peace, and every active stock in the list slid abruptly downward. Recessions varied all the way from a fraction, in the case of certain railroad stocks, to twenty-seven points in the case of Bethlehem Steel. United States Steel lost more than five points, more than 700,000 shares changing hands. From the previous close to the low point of the day May wheat broke 11⅛ cents to $1.64 from $1.75⅝, the previous close. The December broke 11¼ cents, while the July at the extreme low point was 7 cents lower.

PARIS.—Gen. Nivelle, commander of the French troops at Verdun, has been appointed commander in chief of the armies of the north and northeast.

LONDON.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen says advices have been received there from Switzerland that King Constantine of Greece has ordered a general mobilization.

CHICAGO.—A drop in temperature almost to the zero mark is predicted for tomorrow by the weather forecaster.

EINSTEIN'S POLITICAL VIEWS.

Kenilworth, Ill., Dec. 9.—Whoever the members of the Woman's Patriotic society may be, their claim that Einstein should be barred as an alien communistic propagandist is based upon facts which is no way were answered by Einstein's display of temper and evasion concerning his political affiliations.

When Einstein's daughter married a Russian she went to live in Russia.

The world's congress against imperialist war [not civil war or all war] was called by communists, and 800 communist delegates took part, solely because at this time the U. S. S. R. is not industrially strong enough to wage war and wishes any possible intervention against itself sabotaged. Nonaggression pacts are being signed and Japan's aggression overlooked for the same reason. But if United States recognition is obtained with the accompanying credits for industrialization, then the U. S. S. R. expects to hasten the great day of the Red army offensive. Einstein's name, with Clara Zatkin and other notorious communist leaders, heads the list of the German members of the world committee of the world congress against imperialist war. It convened in Amsterdam in August, 1932, and advocated both communism and sabotage. [See New Masses, November, 1932.]

Einstein was also one of the leaders of the world congress of the Anti-Imperialist league—a subsidized affiliate of the Communist International—that met at Frankfort, Germany, July 20, 1929, and his picture was featured among such leaders by the Berlin communist organ, Illustrierte Arbeiter-Zeitung.

Einstein's indorsement of the Communist International's official "Workers' International Relief" was the first and principal thing mentioned in an appeal for funds issued March 14, 1931, by the Workers' International Relief, American section.

The beliefs and objectives of the War Resisters' International [see "War Resistance a Practical Policy," page 7] are officially admitted, in part, as follows: "Out of the present chaos the War Resisters' International believes a new social order can and will be established. . . . It believes these changes may be accompanied by revolutionary uprisings. . . . Every war resister desires to take part in the struggle, confident in the ultimate triumph of the forces which make for a new social order." [Page 22.] "We have made representations to the various governments. . . . These representations are not sent direct from the International, but in this we have always had the willing help of men of eminence, such as Prof. Einstein."

Einstein in his speech to the War Resisters' conference at Lyon not only urged defiance of governmental authority which requires citizens to bear arms in defense of the government, but also said: "I have authorized the establishment of the Einstein War Resisters' fund. Contributions should be sent to the treasurer of the W. R. I., 11 Abbey road, Enfield, Middlesex, England. [Signed] Albert Einstein.]" This fund is for the defense of "militant war resisters."

As a scientist, Einstein's value to America is by no means universally recognized. However that may be, it would seem, in these troubled times, that America has no need of imported scientists with alien propaganda.

BOARD OF TRADE SECURITIES.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—There have been editorials and stories in our local newspapers lately that mention, among other exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade. These articles discuss the types of audits accepted by the exchange with listing applications.

The writer speaks only of the Board of Trade, of which he is secretary to the committee on stock list, and has this to say: No security has been listed on the Chicago Board of Trade that was not accompanied by a complete audit by a nationally known firm of reputable certified public accountants. The list of such firms acceptable to the committee on stock list is limited.

Further, no security has been listed without a legal opinion having been furnished by the applicant, and such legal opinion prepared only by well known firms of reputable attorneys.

Each complete accepted security listing application is turned over to the Board of Trade's law firm, and it renders an opinion to the effect that every requirement for listing has been complied with, that every detail is in proper form, and that every reasonable precaution has been provided.

Attention is called to the fact that no security listed on the Chicago Board of Trade has ever experienced a default, receivership or embarrassment—an item deserving of favorable rather than unfavorable mention. In one year alone 176 various applications were declined.

The writer feels that the thousands of members and correspondents of the Board of Trade have made so sincere an effort to list and maintain securities under rigid requirements these past three difficult years that their work is deserving of public recognition, and I trust your office will consider these facts should the subject of audits, legal opinions and past records again be a matter of newspaper comment.

RAYMOND J. SIDNEY,

HE WANTS HIS SUIT TURNED.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—In England tailors make it a regular business to turn men's suits inside out when they show wear on the right side. Why don't enterprising Chicago tailors adopt this idea? I am wearing a still sturdy suit which would much appreciate a reprieve from the rag bag. It is a shining specimen of depression days, but there's life in the old suit yet, and all it needs is a tailor to do it a good turn. J. B. DALY.

APPLES.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—On the 7th day of July, 1932, we war veterans selling apples on loop corners were ordered off streets by the police following a ruling by the Supreme court that free permits for vets were class discrimination and therefore unconstitutional. We have tried unsuccessfully to get permits to return to our depression jobs. At the present time many chestnut and peanut stands are flourishing in the loop. Who issued these permits? Many of the vendors are not citizens. Why are we veterans denied the right to sell apples? The writers are native Chicagoans.

RELIEF STATION OPENS FOR NEEDY PUBLIC WORKERS

150 County Employes Ask Aid in First Half Hour.

The county bureau of public welfare opened a station at the foot of the stairway in the basement of the county building yesterday at which applications for relief will be received from public employes whose salaries are in arrears and who are destitute. At present applications are being received only from county employes.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau of public welfare, explained that the facilities will be extended to the employes of other local governments, including the city, school board, park boards, sanitary district, and forest preserves, when those governments take action requesting the relief for their destitute employes and assuring the county board that the funds advanced will be repaid by deductions from the employes' salaries when they are paid.

150 Apply in Half Hour.

Within thirty minutes after the new relief station was opened at noon yesterday by S. A. Cooney, supervisor in charge, about 150 county employes made applications for the maximum of relief.

This new form of relief was authorized by the county board last week, and assented to by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, through which federal and state funds for relief to the idle pass. Public employes are eligible for this relief, not exceeding $50 a month, Moss said, only when their salary is less than $200 a month, is in arrears more than two months, and their application is accompanied by a statement of the employe's department head that he is destitute.

Former employes of the county who are still owed back salary will not be eligible for such relief, Moss said, but will be entitled to apply for relief at the regular relief stations.

Propose Methodist Relief Aid.

The Methodist ministers of Chicago took under consideration a proposal that the church's social service organization assist the Illinois emergency relief commission in the administration of relief to the idle at a meeting in Chicago temple yesterday.

"I am perfectly sure that an investigation is overdue as to how the relief money is being spent," said the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist church. "The officials in charge have great skill in collecting, but no skill in distribution."

U. S. Refuses Grein Plea for Extra Hunting Day

City Sealer Grein was informed yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that his request for a one day extension of the open season on ducks cannot be granted. The sealer's proposal was to turn over to the poor all the ducks killed in Illinois on the extra hunting day. The secretary commended as "laudable" Mr. Grein's proposal to give to the poor his shoot of Dec. 15, the last day of the open season.

CHARITY COAL PROBE ORDERED BY PROSECUTOR

Names Aid to Sift Evidence of Substitutions.

State's Attorney Courtney ordered an immediate investigation of the charity coal situation yesterday. He announced that he would not wait for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to complete its investigation and make an official complaint to him. He appointed Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse to gather evidence of fraud that was disclosed in investigations last week.

Mr. Courtney acted after receiving a letter of complaint from Kenneth Barnard, manager of the Better Business bureau, which was accompanied by two affidavits covering the investigation of the bureau into coal deliveries of F. Bieschke & Sons, one of seven contractors to the relief commission. The affidavits set forth that the Bieschke company delivered a cheaper and inferior grade of Indiana coal, while their contract specified a more expensive grade of Illinois coal.

Courtney Acts at Once.

"I have received Mr. Barnard's letter of complaint and the two affidavits covering the facts," the state's attorney said. "I have not heard from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, but I do not intend to delay my investigatio. any longer.

"I may hear from the state relief commission later, when it has completed an audit of the books of F. Bieschke & Sons, but I do not intend to wait for its complaint at this time. I am turning the investigation over to Mr. Rittenhouse, one of my assistants, with instructions to go to the bottom of the substitution charges immediately.

"If the poor of the city or county are, or have been, defrauded, whoever is doing it shall be prosecuted to the fullest extent by my staff."

Expert at Investigations.

Assistant State's Attorney Rittenhouse has been in that office for nearly twenty years, through succeeding political administrations, and has taken part in a number of important investigations, in which he has proved himself very efficient, Mr. Courtney said. Testimony will not be presented to the grand jury until sufficient evidence has been gathered to obtain a conviction, nor will indictments be sought until that evidance is gathered, Mr. Courtney said. The state's attorney made a special trip to his office to open the charity coal investigation. He is suffering from a bad cold. Soon after disposing of the matter he left for the day.

Officials of the relief commission said yesterday that the audit of the books of the Bieschke company was under way, but that they did not know what evidence has been gathered up to the present by the auditors. The commission also had under consideration various plans to prevent the substitution of cheaper coal for the more expensive contract fuel in the future, it was said.

The scope of the charity coal business was revealed last night in an estimate made by the Illinois Coal bureau, which is supported by the Illinois coal mine operators, that approximately 20 per cent of the domestic coal delivered in Chicago is being paid for by relief funds.

300,000 Mexicans Worship at Shrine of Guadalupe

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—An estimated 300,000 persons went today to the Shrine of Guadalupe, three miles northeast of Mexico City, to observe the 401st anniversary of the appearance of Our Lady of Guadalupe, the patron saint of Mexico. By tradition in 1531 the Virgin Mary appeared before a neophyte and directed him to tell the bishop to build a temple where she stood.

PURDUE TEACHER TO DIRECT STUDY OF TRADE CYCLES

Robert Phillips, professor of economics at Purdue university, yesterday was appointed chairman of a national economic committee by the board of Lions Clubs International at a meeting in the Auditorium hotel. The purpose of the committee will be to make an exhaustive study of depression cycles and recommend remedies.

Prof. Phillips said every section of the country would be represented on the committee and that it would be composed chiefly of economists and engineers.

Charles H. Hatton, of Woodstock, Kas., president of Lions Clubs International, who presided at yesterday's board session, will speak today at the regular luncheon of the Central Lions club at Hotel La Salle. Presidents of other Lions clubs in Chicago have been invited to attend.

Montreal Criminal Libel Trial Adjourned One Week

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The trial of J. J. Harpell, publisher of the Journal of Commerce, on a charge of criminal libel was opened in Court of King's Bench today and adjourned for a week. The complainant is T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. Articles in the Journal of Commerce concerning the insurance company and Macaulay are the basis of the complaint.

HUNGRY PUPILS' FUND PRAISED BY SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Mrs. Hefferan Tells Need of Warm Lunches.

First hand experience with the operation of the Hungry School Children's fund has convinced Mrs. William S. Hefferan, school board member, that it is "one of the finest movements for child welfare that we have now in our school system.

"Too much cannot be said in praise of the fund," Mrs. Hefferan said yesterday. "In so many cases, that hot meal at noon is the only one those children of the underprivileged sections of the city get. Just the other day I was down in the corridor of one school when a group of boys and girls came trooping along to the lunchroom. I had an opportunity there to see portrayed the necessity that exists in some of their homes."

Gifts received yesterday for the fund were:

$5—Marshall B. Cutler, Peter Pernod, L. M., in memory of my parents, Betty Hall, M. F. H.
$2—B. Sch——, Charles W. Morris, E. M., Mrs. E. W. P. Flesch, Anonymous.
$1—Mrs. H. B. Siebecker, E. F., in memory of sister, H. Pettersen, K. W.

Total	$ 65.00
Previously acknowledged	15,327.27
Grand total	$15,392.27

Currency sent through the mail to the fund rarely goes astray, but is sent at the donor's risk. Personal checks, drafts and money orders are used for the majority of contributions. All contributions should be made out to the fund and mailed to the cashier of The Tribune at Tribune Tower.

AIR FILTRATION ONLY A RELIEF FOR HAY FEVER

Not Cure, Say Physicians Reporting on Tests.

Relief, but not a permanent cure, may be found by patients suffering from seasonal asthma or hay fever in confining themselves in filtered air, according to a conclusion reached by research workers at the University of Illinois college of medicine. The conclusion, reached after a study of data obtained in experiments with patients during the last hay fever season, were announced last night in a paper read before the Chicago Allergy society in the Medical and Dental Arts building.

The paper was read by Dr. Tell Nelson, who with Dr. B. Z. Rappaport and Dr. William Welker, conducted hay fever and asthma experimental wards in the University of Illinois Research hospital, testing the effects of filtered air.

Brings Relief from Symptoms.

The air filtration, which removed "all but traces" of pollen, relieved symptoms of hay fever and asthma, although a longer period of initial confinement was required to bring relief to asthma sufferers, they concluded.

Symptoms reappeared on exposure to pollen laden air, however, the quickness of reappearance depending on the concentration of pollen outdoors and on atmospheric conditions, it was said.

Filtered air which was cooled from 8 to 10 degrees Fathrenheit below outside temperatures, without being dehumidified, was found less desirable for hay fever and asthma victims than uncooled filtered air because in the former there was an increase of relative humidity.

Tell of Asthma Tests.

If pollen asthmatics are confined in filtered air for a sufficient length of time their subjective symptoms of asthma will be relieved, but the objective evidences of asthma disappear less readily, it was concluded by Dr. Rappaport and Dr. Nelson.

Confinement in filtered air before the onset of asthma, it was found from the experiments, did not prevent its occurrence.

Weather conditions were found to be important influences in precipitating attacks of asthma in pollen sensitive patients, humidity and changes in barometric pressure playing a large part.

EXONERATE AUTO DRIVERS IN TWO FATAL ACCIDENTS

The death of Oscar P. Chamberlain, civil engineer and colonel in the reserve corps, who was killed by an automobile at Michigan avenue and Randolph street Saturday night, was held accidental by a coroner's jury yesterday. Leon S. Glaser, 1234 Madison park, a stepson-in-law of former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson, the driver of the car, was exonerated of blame. Col. Chamberlain was 63 years old and resided at 445 Spring avenue, La Grange.

Another coroner's jury also exonerated Anthony Larson, 616 North Le Claire avenue, and Herbert Schneider, 7815 Paxton avenue, of blame in the killing of William Kopozynski of 3057 Elbridge avenue. He was struck by Larson's car and thrown into the path of Schneider's auto.

There were no automobile fatalities reported in Cook county yesterday. The death toll for the year remained at 1,050.

STUDENT SHOT BY AN INTRUDER IN DORMITORY

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—William Clark, 18 years old, son of Dr. Peter Clark, 4535 Ellis avenue, Chicago, president of the freshman class of Beloit college, was shot in the right shoulder at dawn yesterday morning when he surprised an intruder in the dormitory at the college.

The shooting aroused Clark's roommate, Walter A. Strong Jr. of Chicago. The intruder used a revolver belonging to young Strong, which he apparently had stolen before being observed by Clark. Clark said the man fired three shots at him.

Fellow students said that the shooting was a continuation of the jinx which appears to be following Clark. Two weeks after Clark enrolled at Beloit he was stabbed by a Negro robber. Not long afterward Clark tripped over a rug in his room and was knocked unconscious. Then he injured an ankle in football practice.

Mother of Ald. Simpson of Evanston Dies in East

Mrs. Janet L. Simpson, 84 years old, a former resident of Evanston and mother of Ald. Herbert Simpson of the 6th ward, Evanston, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. R. 1 JAR RESINOL HEALED SEVERE ECZEMA

"More than 35 years ago, when I was a child, I developed a severe case of eczema behind my left ear. In spite of all the remedies used the disease spread rapidly over my head. Finally our doctor, one of the best in Kansas City, told Mother to try Resinol Ointment as he knew it was good. It was wonderful and after using a full jar the affection was entirely healed. Since then I have been an ardent user of Resinol for burns, cuts, and all manner of skin affections, and have never known it to fail. There is nothing like it for the skin disorders of babies, it is so soothing and healing." (Signed) Mrs. O. S. Pratt, 807 Carrollton Ave., Shreveport, Louisiana.

Review Books on 2 Leaders in Industries

"The Life of Andrew Carnegie," by Burton J. Hendrick [Doubleday-Doran].

"God's Gold," by John T. Flynn [Harcourt-Brace].

THE two biographies reviewed today are of the greatest industrial magnates of the modern world. The careers of John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie have challenged the attention and the imagination of most nineteenth and twentieth century men. Their lives have become so well known as to be almost legendary, and a part of the business and social traditions of America.

B. J. HENDRICK.

The knowledge of their fabulous wealth and the circumstances of its winning penetrated the mind of the common man to such an extent that their careers, as much as any one's, may have been responsible for even the layman of Europe considering the United States a place of fantastic chances for "getting rich quick."

Burton J. Hendrick and John T. Flynn have studied in excellent biographies the background of these modern Croesuses, their struggles against their environment and poverty, their slow calculated rise to power, and the dramatic political, social, and economic phenomena of America during their lives, the emergence of an industrial America that was to rule the world. Out of the confusion of public opinion —some of it bitterly vituperative, some of it wildly applauding, most of it unjust and unbalanced, the authors have examined all the evidence with satisfying disinterestedness and justice.

Andrew Carnegie, the child of a long line of poor Scotch weavers, emigrated at an early age with his mother and father to America. His first job was in a cotton factory, the next as a telegraph clerk and operator. Under the shrewd guidance of T. A. Scott, whose assistant he was on the Pennsylvania railroad, he became familiar with the possibilities and fascination of the railroad industry. Among his early activities are numbered his introduction of sleeping cars on the railroad, his foresight in regard to the country's need for iron and steel and his purchase of the Storey farm on Oil creek.

In the early 1900s his various holdings in oil and iron and steel, in railroads and bridge works and steamship lines were incorporated in the United States Steel corporation. In 1919, when Andrew Carnegie died, he was comparatively a poor man, having given away $329,657,399 during his life. Andrew Carnegie considered it a disgrace for a man to die rich.

Burton J. Hendrick, who has been three times the recipient of the Pulitzer prize for biography, approaches his material with the poise of a scholar and the fascinated attention of a man sensitive to the complexities of the human animal. At his disposal were the vast array of Andrew Carnegie's private documents. The panoramic treatment of the era and the brilliant analysis of character combined with the enormous amount of new and important material makes "The Life of Andrew Carnegie" one of the notable and significant biographies of the year.

"God's Gold" receives its title from John D. Rockefeller's often quoted statement, "God gave me my money." John T. Flynn prefaces his biography with "For forty years the name of John D. Rockefeller was the most execrated name in American life. It was associated with greed, rapacity, cruelty, hypocrisy, and corruption. . . ." He then traces the change of public opinion, the gradual beatification in later years of the world's richest man.

With admirable impartiality, the author describes the building up of an immense business and an almost incredible business system. He does not gloss over the details of the process that has made John D. Rockefeller an international figure in finance. More than a portrait of a man whose particular genius—no matter what is said of his character—cannot be denied, "God's Gold" contains a bird's-eye view of an era in American history which the author sees as an era of corruption whose magnitude has rarely if ever been equaled. The industrial preëminence of America was gained by means that should be known to every American citizen, the author declares.

"God's Gold" is neither a villification nor a defense of the career of John D. Rockefeller. It is a much needed full length character study against the background, given in detail, of the times. Impartial, accurate, with a technical knowledge of industrial management that is invaluable, John T. Flynn writes a biography that should interest and command the attention of all readers.

Ivar Kreuger, once considered one of the great financial geniuses of the world, perpetrator of a stupendous fraud and now only a bitter memory, is presented as a personality and a force in financial circles in "The Life and Death of Ivar Kreuger," by William H. Stoneman [Bobbs Merrill]. There are few readers who are not interested in the sensational career of the Swedish match king.

Wall street, the setting of America's financial transactions, is analyzed with its men and practices in a frank and scholarly manner in "Ten Years of Wall Street," by B. F. Winkleman. The ten years cover the period 1919-1929. M. D.

French Costume That Is Suitable for Winter Sports

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—If you are going to the mountains this year for the winter sports you will want to take one of the brand new outfits designed by Vera Borea. It is a four in one costume that is suitable for snow-bound sports.

In the sketch today is shown this smart and practical combination. At the extreme left of the sketch is pictured the tramping ensemble, with long coat in navy blue gaberdine, its collar, pointed revers, and sleeves edged with yellow piping. This coat fastens on two buttons at the center of the waistline. It has a belt, which starts at the front sides and encircles the back, and two slit pockets edged in yellow wool.

At the right is pictured the skiing outfit, also in navy blue gaberdine, worn under this coat. The waist length jacket has a short military collar, and a shoulder yoke banded in yellow. The belt is fastened at the center front on a steel buckle at the waistline and there is a steel ring attached at the side for keys. The trousers are made like long plus fours, fastening on the left side on silver buttons. The wool hat worn with this ensemble is something like an aviation cap. Fitting the head snugly, it fastens under the chin on a buttoned band, from which is attached a tiny capelet.

In the upper corner is shown a long sleeved, collarless yellow sweater, fastened down the center front, and fitting the waist snugly by means of vertical ribs. Also a navy blue short sleeved blouse with a Peter Pan collar, to be worn under the sweater. This blouse is poined to knee length shorts, something like the old fashioned combination.

Garden Club Completes Seven Classes for Show

Plans for the annual flower show to be held at Navy pier, March 31 to April 8, were discussed at the meeting of the Garden Club of Illinois at the Palmer house yesterday. Fifty-one clubs throughout the state were represented, and according to Mrs. O. W. Dynes of Hinsdale, president, interest is so keen that entries have already been closed in seven classes.

New Handbags Come to Town for Christmas

Some Made from Silks 100 Years Old.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Absolutely astonishing arrays of superlative handbags calculated to please even the most jaded shopper are filling the best cases in all the shops in town. Well chosen collections of daytime, sports, and evening bags for good bag collectors whether they give them, or gleefully accept them from other appreciative buyers. This year you can wrap some of the most beautiful brocaded beauties for nearly every gal on your Christmas list, colorful brocades fastened exquisitely to stunning gold and silver frames are priced the lowest they have been offered in years and years.

You can find lovely pastel designs made from brocaded silks over a hundred years old . . . soft mellowed shades of old blue, rose red, citron, and sapphire blue, contrasted with gold or silver frames that are perfect foils for such glory.

These frames are designed in a leaf motif, long slender willow like leaves that are adroitly twined and interlaced one over the other. All the brocaded bags are lined with gleaming white satin, fitted with a double beveled mirror, a tiny coin purse, and an extra compartment for the lipstick, which is an invention that should have been thought of long ago.

There is, practically, no limit to the monograming urge this year, at least as far as the bag makers are concerned . . . they have designed bags with large circles, with tall narrow oblongs, with squares and odd modernistic blobs of copper, gold or silver metal, ready for the engraver. And the bags that are made without these extra metal gadgets can be plastered with initials, from good looking small squatty letters much wider than they are high, up to 3 and 3½ inch high initials that certainly proclaim to the world the owner's monogram.

The best looking black bags for smart street or daytime wear are of amazingly soft antelope, suede, and supple leathers . . . against these sooty black backgrounds, the gleam of chromium letters, the glitter of ruddy copper and gold and the soft shimmer of silver monograms are breath taking and eye filling.

Some particularly stunning grey handbags are made of fabrics, some velvets, some coarse woolens that look like homespuns and hand knitted swatches, and other of suede and felt. Pouch bags of grey are unusually good looking, with concealed frames and knockout fittings and interior decorations. Clever bow knot bags in black, brown, grey, and a few colors are effective with afternoon costumes.

Lots of tricky bags have been displayed this year, but the star performance last week was given by the newly arrived "commuter" . . . a complete knockout made of felt trimmed with leather. A most compact and clever affair that will be a perfect gift for the book reading commuter, for this handbag holds any 400 page book, has a money purse, a pad, and a pencil, and a zippered compartment for excess baggage.

The price tag is as alluringly low as the entire creation is interesting and new . . . the owners' initials can be fastened along the outside edge or planted securely in the center. A very smart chromium clasp holds all this smartness together, and if this particular creation doesn't fill you with all sorts of buying and giving zeal, then nothing ever will.

Diana Churchill Is Bride of Son of African Millionaire

LONDON, Dec. 12.—In one of the year's most brilliant weddings this afternoon, Diana Churchill, Winston Churchill's daughter, married John Milner Bailey, son of Sir Abe Bailey, South African millionaire.

As they left St. Margaret's church in Westminster to the strains of Mendelssohn, the shyly smiling bride in the traditional white satin, and her husband were mobbed by a great crowd of women who broke through the police cordons. With the greatest of difficulty mounted and footpolice cleared the way to their car and it was many minutes before they were able to drive to the reception at the duke of Marlborough's house.

The bride's father gave her away. She was attended by six bridesmaids, her sisters, Mary and Sarah, her cousins, Clarissa Churchill and Juliet Henley and Ann and Noreen Bailey, the bridgroom's half-sisters. Derek Blyth was the best man.

The fashionable church was filled with notables, among whom were Lloyd George, Dame Margaret Megan, Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain Neville Chamberlain, Lord and Lady Reading, Lord Londonderry, the duke and duchess of Marlborough, Lord Hailsham, and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin.

Roosevelt Has Sixteen Lines in 'Who's Who'

Trails Kermit, Theodore in Space.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Biographical sketches ranging from one line for the prince of Wales to 129 lines for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler are recorded in the new edition of the International "Who's Who" for 1933 published in this country today by Macmillan.

Some 25,000 of the world's notables, including many Americans, are listed in the volume, which is, however, almost as interesting for its omissions.

The opening section of the reference book, devoted to the royal family, with true British conservatism, allots a bare four lines to King George V., and a single line each to the prince of Wales and his brothers, the duke of Gloucester and Prince George. The duke of York gets five lines and the Princess Mary four, however, in order to list their issue.

The Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary of York, idolized by millions of British subjects as the "Princess Lillybet," gets a single line, also.

Heads of other states are treated somewhat more generously, however, although the book contains no mention of Josef Stalin, dictator of the Russian soviet government, or of his arch-enemy, the exiled Leon Trotsky. Mussolini, with thirty lines, has the rare privilege of having his sketch printed in Italian. President von Hindenburg of Germany is dismissed with nineteen lines. Premier Edouard Herriot is not listed. Albert Le Brun, president of the French republic, shares with Mussolini the distinction of having his biography related in his native tongue.

President Hoover gets fifty-three lines, while Franklin D. Roosevelt, was allotted only sixteen lines. He trails both Kermit and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who received twenty-three and thirty-nine lines respectively. Alfred E. Smith's story is told in fourteen lines, which include no mention of any of his activities since 1929.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has eight lines and a wrong address—Hopewell, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A. Beyond the brief, formalized "one S." there is no mention of his tragic bereavement last spring which stirred the entire civilized world.

Mahatma Gandhi's career is outlined in eleven lines, which do not include a reference to his hunger strike, while Manmohan Purushottam Gandhi, secretary of the Indian Chamber of Commerce, is granted fifty-two lines, and Nagardas P. Gandhi, head of the department of mining and metallurgy in the Hindu university, Benares, almost doubles the mahatma's space with nineteen lines.

In the world of sports Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey, who divided the heavyweight boxing scepter, are alike ignored, as is the one and only Babe Ruth. Not to play favorites, however, Don Bradman, the Babe Ruth of the cricket world, is also passed without mention.

Prof. Albert Einstein gets fifteen lines, but George Bernard Shaw is dealt with more kindly, with a full sixty lines. Mr. Shaw continues to list as his recreation "anything except sport." Ernest Hemingway, American author, lists his favorite pastimes as "skiing, fishing, shooting, and drinking." Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize winner, gets eighteen lines to Hemingway's eleven.

There are nine James Walkers listed, but the former mayor of New York is not among them.

Indian princes fill many columns. One of them notes that he has two wives and ten medals, while another lists the name, make and number of cylinders of his motor cars.

Trend to Shorter Bobs Reported at Beauticians Meeting

A trend toward shorter bobs is developing among the women of Chicago, according to members of the Institute of Certified Beauticians, who met in the Hotel La Salle last night.

"More chic effects, with greater comfort, are causing the change," said Allen Bennet Forsberg, chairman. "And, besides, short bobs are much more suitable with the small hats that are being worn just now."

Holiday Visitors

A former Chicago belle, Edith Fairbanks, who now is an Italian countess, and her husband, Count Ruggero Visconti di Modrone and a friend of theirs, Count Vittorio-Emanuele Borromeo, arrived in Chicago Saturday to spend the holidays with the countess' parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks and Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, of 1500 Lake Shore drive.

The wedding of Miss Fairbanks and the young count, descendant of an old noble family in Italy, took place in Chicago in June, 1931, and this is their first visit here since then.

Count Borromeo also belongs to an illustrious Italian family, which has its family seat on the famous Borromeo island in Lake Maggiore. He is a bachelor and already he has set the hearts of the young society girls he has met here to beating faster!

The trio are being entertained extensively, the festivities having started Saturday night with a party that Miss Fairbanks gave at the Saddle and Cycle club's regular weekly dinner dance.

Helen Johnson to Be Guest at Many Holiday Functions

Vacation Visit to Make Up for Parties Debutante Has Missed While Away at School.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT LOOKS as though Miss Helen Johnson of Evanston were going to be one of the most feted of debutantes during the Christmas holidays, so many parties are being planned for her by her mother's friends. She has not been here for all the autumn and early winter festivities for she is at Sarah Lawrence college, but the weeks she will be at home are to be crowded enough with good times to make up for those she has missed, apparently.

She arrives at home on Saturday of this week and next Monday Mrs. Charles G. Little and her daughter, Miss Myra Little, who was a bud of last season, will give a luncheon at their residence, 239 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, for her. On Thursday, Dec. 22, Mrs. Nelson L. Buck and Miss Betty Buck of 235 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, will entertain at luncheon for Miss Johnson and on Christmas day she will make her debut at a reception to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Johnson, at their residence, 202 Greenwood boulevard.

That night Mrs. John C. Slade and her "sub-deb" daughter, Carroll, will give a winter sports party at the Glen View club, so instead of dancing as most debutantes and their assistants do the nights after their formal bows to society, Miss Johnson and her assistants will change into sports clothes from their afternoon frocks and spend the evening skating, tobogganing, and skiing. On the Tuesday after Christmas Mrs. Irwin Rew and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Price, will be luncheon hostesses at the Woman's Athletic club for Miss Johnson.

Betty Gillies Here Dec. 21.

Miss Betty Gillies, the daughter of the James P. Gillies of Winnetka, is arriving from Hollins college in Virginia on the 21st to be with her parents for the holidays. Although the Gillies have no definite parties planned for Betty, and it looks as if this young debutante has every minute taken already, they are hoping to find time for one or two small affairs.

Miss Gillies made her formal bow to society on Sept. 20 of this year.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Thomas Morris of Winnetka have received word that both their son and daughter will be at home on Saturday for the holidays. Miss Mary Louise Morris, a debutante of last September, is returning from Sarah Lawrence college.

Her brother, Seymour, is returning from Princeton, where he is a senior this year. This talented young man has written two numbers for "It's the Valet," the Princeton Triangle club's show which is being given at the Auditorium Dec. 22.

And, if last year was any indication, his songs will be known on the dance floor as well as on the collegiate stage. This year his songs are two of the three chosen from the score by a New York music house for publication and public sale.

The dinner dance that Miss Frances Whedon is giving during the holidays for her niece, Frances Jeffery, will be on Christmas eve instead of on the night after Christmas, as planned earlier in the season. The party is for the school girl and boy set, for Frances is still a "sub-deb" and a student at Miss Hall's school in Pittsfield.

Son Born to J. N. Stearns.

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack is returning today from New York, where she went about a fortnight ago to be with her sister, Mrs. John Noble Stearns Jr. [Alice Cudahy McCormick], upon the arrival of the Stearns' son, who was born yesterday morning. Mrs. Niblack

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, Roberta Millbank and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed, and Peter was his trusted employe. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship nears Cape Town, where Henery promises Roberta a try at making a trade deal with a banker friend of her father's.

INSTALLMENT XX.

A NATURAL BORN TRADER.

"Well, Henery," said Roberta, "I happen to know personally the general superintendent of the Union of South Africa Development company. If you dropped New England in their territory you'd need an explorer to find it.

"Where did you know him?"

"He was once a guest in our house over a week-end. Father couldn't see his way to handle any of their paper, but he put him in touch with some people that did."

"Heh."

"What about 10 per cent on all that I get over and above your 100 per cent profit?"

"Fair enough, sailor. But if you handle the underwear you got to split your c'mission with mam'selle. She hauled it in and aboard."

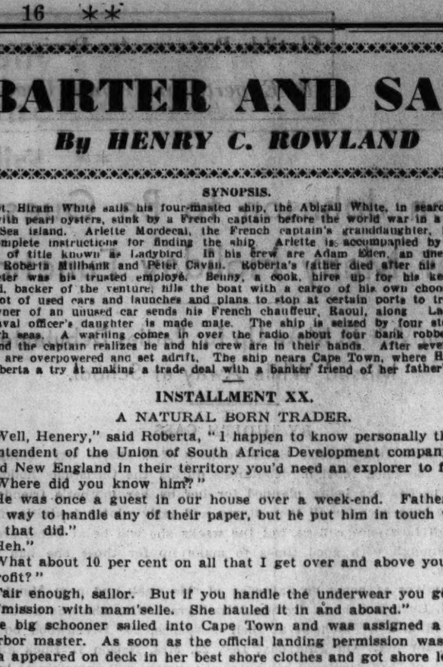
The big schooner sailed into Cape Town and was assigned a berth by the harbor master. As soon as the official landing permission was accorded Roberta appeared on deck in her best shore clothes and got shore leave from the mate.

Table Mountain was glowing softly in the twilight when she returned.

Only Henery and Benny were aboard. Roberta did not bother to inquire after the others. Henery gave her his quizzical look and shook his head.

"Well, daughter, I hope you managed to sell a flivver."

"All of 'em, Henery."



"You mean we get paid full freighting for carrying our goods to Australia?"

He leaned back in his chair. "Quit your kiddin'! . . ."

"And the boats and the grub and the clothes and the bedding and bungalows. Fact is, I've shot the works. Sold out the whole cargo."

"Hold on. You've been drinkin', sailor."

"That, too. Champagne. Mr. Peter Muller is a great big Dutch darling. . . ."

"Unless you're crazy, I'd say he was a big Dutch cheese."

"You would be wrong. His son is good, too. General merchant. What they call a comprador. Anything the Rhodesian people don't want he will take over on spec. Why not? This place is about 5,000 miles from the nearest source of supply, and they're just going into summer, which is the season for boats and beach pajamas, and the distances between towns enormous over good roads, so they want small cars that don't burn much gas and can outpace a lion or rhino or buffalo for a hundred yards flat, and building timber's scarce. . . . Henery, you brought your eggs to the right market.

"You're punch drunk," Henery said. "Planter's punch. Tell me slower.'

"It's complicated and I've made an appointment for you with Mr. Muller and his son for tomorrow morning. Better take Peter. He's an efficiency expert and this is big business. They don't want to pay in money. . . ."

"Knew there was a catch in it," Henery sighed. "Want to pay in produce. More cold storage assets. Tighter, maybe."

"No, not so tight. I explained enough of our position so that they'll pay you money enough to carry on for the next hitch. Mr. Muller says he can show you where your profit ought to be doubled by taking some of their stuff that's awaiting shipment. Copper and tin and sisal. . . ."

"They grow that last everywhere . . . and ore's a terrible cargo for a wooden vessel. . . ."

"It's not ore. The metal. They've got a flock of smelters up on their concession. . . ." She hesitated a little, then said: "Or you can take some of their paper. . . ."

"Don't want it. I'm loaded now with insecurities. . . ."

"Peter will know about that. But will they take those cars? At such a bargain . . . and the boats. Will a hitch-hiker take a ride?"

"Well," said Henery, more cheerfully, "it looks anyhow like maybe you started somethin'."

"I'll finish it, too. Listen, Henery. You can get cash if you hold out. But Mr. Muller will give you a better trade in produce. He showed me the latest quotations on their exports in Australia and a scale of freight rates. If we take his goods in trade and carry it to Brisbane or Sydney the profit will be my asked price here plus the freight charges."

"You mean we get paid full freighting for carryin' our own goods from here to Australia? About 7,000 miles?"

"That's it. In fact, it figures out considerably more, because the rates were fast steam ones."

"What if the market prices shrink before we get there?"

"Mr. Muller will give us a minimum price guarantee."

"Then why in heck's he doin' it?"

"He wants to clean out his warehouse here and show a better balance sheet. But he doesn't want to cut his prices. So he is willing to accept my estimate of the value of our stuff, which is nearly 50 per cent above the lowest price you authorized me to put on it."

"Holy mack! . . . say, what about all those dead fish?"

"Muller Jr. will handle them if they're in A-1 condition. He says Yankee slack salted mackerel will be a popular change from the table fish of Table Bay. Do you think they're all right?"

"Oughta be. The ice bunkers were insulated pretty good, and, while the ice has melted too much to keep fresh fish properly refrig'rated, it ought to be cold enough still for slack salted ones, and mack'ril at that."

"Then you better get them over into Muller's refrigerator. Of course they'll want to pass on everything, but I haven't told them any lies."

"Strikes me these Mullers are uncommon ready to do whatever you tell 'em."

"No more than the underwear man took his orders from Arlette."

"Well, he took my note."

"Mr. Muller likes this trade idea. It helps get rid of some of his surplus and doesn't bear his market. Who can say what a mixed trade ship load is worth? What would a cargo of cartridges be worth to a revolutionary army nearly out of ammunition?"

"And what would a . . . O, anything, be worth, to any crowd that wanted it bad enough? My girl, that's trade . . . and you're a natural born trader."

"It's in my blood. Hans Muller Jr. sells the gas here, too, and a hundred and odd more cars with half as many boats tearing round ought to help sales."

"Does anybody else in this port pretend to do any business?" Henery asked.

"Quite a few, but it seems to be a pleasant, easy going place with pretty homes and everybody comfortably well off. Mr. Muller says the churches are busier than the bars."

"Well, they don't have pro'bition, so nobody feels called on to miss the chance of getting drunk."

Select Meats According to These Points

BY MARY MEADE.

Recently I told my butcher I was going to talk about meat purchasing, and I asked him what I should tell folks that would make it easier for them to buy meat, and for him and his brother butchers to supply them with just what they wanted.

"Tell them what they should look for and expect to find in a piece of pork, beef, veal, lamb, and mutton. I have many women customers who complain that the lamb they are getting today isn't as red as a cut they got yesterday—which was probably mutton, or that the veal piece has a lot less fat than the cut they had last week—which likely was from a beef animal."

Unfortunately the butcher was right, for meat selection for the inexperienced marketer, and, often enough, for the more practiced cook, proves expensive and reaps sad results when the meat purchaser doesn't know the characteristics which mark good and poor cuts of meat.

So here they are:

LAMB: Lamb is brought to market most abundantly in the spring and fall, but it is still available the year round. It usually is called "spring lamb" from June to December and is the least expensive during the late summer. Yearlings, as well as the younger spring lambs give delicious, tender meat. Good lambs should have a firm, fine grain and be pinkish in color with a thin covering of hard white fat. It will have a more delicate texture and flavor than mutton. The bones, when cut or chopped through, are semiporous and tinted pink, while the bones of older animals will be hard and white. Lamb cuts from the leg, loin, and ribs are best liked, but more modestly priced dishes may be had from lamb from the shoulder, breast, neck, and flank. They will be savory and delicious if properly cooked.

If yours is a small family, a whole leg or shoulder of lamb may seem too much, but as a rule it is a saving to buy this way since cold sliced lamb is a choice delicacy and the left overs from the second day, if there be any, can always find their way into a world of casserole or croquette specials.

PORK: Thanks to modern refrigeration methods we can now be assured of good pork the year round. The flesh should be grayish white in young animals, and somewhat pinker for older ones. A mottling of smooth, firm fat should run through it and cover the outside pieces. It is better to select that which has as little visible fat as possible, since fat is well supplied in the tissues. The meat will be juicy, though not watery and is rather less firm than in other animals. Pork is more susceptible to tainting than other meats, so must be protected after purchase and this should also be considered in choosing a dependable butcher with whom to deal.

BEEF: The lean of beef should be bright red, firm, and elastic and flecked with fat. It should be glossy, not rough and stringy. The fat should be white or cream colored and firm, unless the beef has been fattened for market, in which case the outer layers of fat will be yellowish and soft. The best rule to follow in buying beef is to remember that use should determine the cut. The rib and loin steaks and roasts are the most tender cuts, but not necessarily the most flavorful. The rump, chuck, flank, brisket, and shank all supply cuts which, though they need longer cooking, are inexpensive and delectable.

MUTTON: These grown up lambs have flesh which is darker red in color than meat used from the younger animal. The fat should be hard and white.

VEAL: Here we have a meat that is almost a grayish pink in color. It should be firm, not flabby, though it will be less solidly knit than that of beef. There is little fat present so the close fibers make veal less easily digested than beef. What fat there is should be present in a narrow edge of clear, firm white.

Studio Picks Miss Hepburn for Stardom

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—That interest compelling something that Elinor Glyn described in Clara Bow's case as "It" has galvanized the whole Radio-RKO lot and several other Hollywood precincts into acting as a rooting section for Katharine Hepburn. Nobody knows what this girl with the red glints in her Garbo length hair is going to do next, but whatever it is, every one knows it won't be what they expected. She has the whole studio lined up as Hepburn fans. And returns from the audiences of her first picture hint that the film public at large is falling in behind the studio.

"There isn't enough money in Hollywood to change me from being just human, ordinary Katharine Hepburn," this girl says. While she says it she may be mending a patch in the overalls she customarily wears or sitting down in the middle of one of the studio streets fixing a shoe while the auto trucks jolt to a stop or cautiously steer around her.

"They can't make me a movie star if I don't want to be one," she says. "I've been fired from stage shows five times. Every time it was for trying to uphold one of my personal principles. I was taken back three times, so that proves I was right at least most of the time."

Miss Hepburn kidded John Barrymore while they were appearing together in "Bill of Divorcement." What's more she got away with it. Not many Hollywood players other than other members of the Barrymore family have the temerity to kid John. His wit and his tongue are too sharp.

She's peppy and she's smart—so smart that she wears funny looking hats just so that photographers will take her picture in them and cause people to say, "That girl would be a beauty if it wasn't for her funny hat." Then she enjoys a hearty laugh at her little trick because it succeeded in attracting attention to her. She knows darn well that whenever the occasion comes to doll herself in Parisian glad rags she can make them all forget the proviso about the hats.

Lupe Velez was working with Eddie Lowe and Victor McLaglen in "Hot Peppers" the week before the Notre Dame game. Every one in the cast wanted to see the game last Saturday afternoon, but none of them, not even Director John Blystone, was sure the studio would be willing to permit canceling work Saturday afternoon to go to the game. So Lupe volunteered. "Lupe will see the football game. I will feex it up for all of us."

Did she fix it? She did. She got Winfield R. Sheehan, head of the studio, to invite her to attend the game as his guest and after that Mr. Sheehan had to let everybody else go, too.

"MOIST THROAT" AIDS COUGH RELIEF

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny bottles continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these "bottles" get plugged up, phlegm accumulates, affording dangerous germs a breeding place. Your throat feels hot and dry. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

Your cough will be cured only when the flow of the natural fluid is increased, loosening the phlegm so that it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely deaden the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble.

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, which doctors have prescribed for many years, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of the throat's natural moisture and brings quick relief. It helps nature heal that awful cough from the inside out.

When you feel that warning dryness take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN. It's absolutely safe. Sold at all drug stores, 60¢.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Have Food, but No Clothing.

"You would help me so much if you could get me a winter coat, size 36. It is so cold now in my thin summer one I need dresses, too. My husband needs a suit, size 44 or 46, and the children, a girl, 2, and a boy, 4, have almost nothing to wear. My husband has been out of work for two years and we have been getting our food from the charities. MRS. L. L."

Bright Sayings of the Children

While I was in training to be a nurse I had a little boy patient who was being treated for anemia. When I went into his room to see how he was enjoying his dinner I found that he hadn't touched his spinach.

"Eat your spinach, Tom," I said. "That is good for you. It has iron in it."

Tom quickly replied, "O, was that iron? I thought it was sand."

Many Yuletide Functions for Miss Johnson

Debutante Will Enjoy Busy Vacation.

wired her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, that the mother and baby were doing splendidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Simms and Mrs. Simms' two younger children, Ruth Elizabeth and J. Medill McCormick, the latter better known as Johnny, will arrive in town today and go directly to Mrs. Simms' Rock River farm for a short stay. They are on their way from their New Mexico ranch—the children go to schools in the west, but Mr. and Mrs. Simms have been on the ranch recently—to Washington to spend Christmas there with Mrs. Simms' eldest daughter, Miss Katrina McCormick, who is living on an estate at Middleburg, Va.

Members of the Casino will find time to be there this afternoon unless they have sent in their proxies to reelect Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman honorary president and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy president of that exclusive club, which has been in existence eighteen years and of which Mrs. Coleman was president from its inception until two years ago, when ill health made it necessary for her to give up such an active job.

On the ticket to be presented by the nominating committee this afternoon are three new directors, Miss Margaret Hambleton, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., and Charles S. Dewey, but otherwise the other directors and officers are all up for reelection. They are: First vice president, Arthur Meeker; second vice president, Howard F. Gillette; secretary, Barrett Wendell; treasurer, George A. Ramney; directors, Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mrs. Waller Borden, Charles Y. Freeman, Arthur Heun, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Robert H. McCormick, Mrs. Phillp L. Reed, and Joseph T. Ryerson. After the meeting tea will be served.

Col. and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick are leaving shortly after New Year's day for a trip to Florida.

Guests Arrive for Holidays.

Christmas time is a time for guests as well as gifts, and particularly welcome guests are the out of town married sons and daughters who come for a holiday visit with their parents. The John M. Elliotts of Boston and their baby arrived yesterday morning, to be with Mrs. Elliott's parents, the Edward G. Paulings, at their Astor street home until after the New Year.

Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Frank B. Tours and their 2 year old son, Gregory, also came yesterday, to be with Mrs. Tours' mother, Mrs. Charles Howard Besly, out in Hinsdale. They recently arrived from London and have been in New York for the last ten days. The Tours will be with Mrs. Besly for two or three weeks, until the lieutenant commander receives orders from the royal British navy to start for his new post at Hongkong, China.

What a good time the boys of the upper school of Miss Harris' school are going to have today! No books nor work of any kind; just a grand outing. They—about 25 in all—will climb into motor cars this morning and drive to Wayne, reaching the Dunham Woods Riding club in time for luncheon, and then they'll go "bob sledding," and then skating, and then have a hot tea, and then home.

Some of those who will be in the party are young Wallace Wakem, Hugh Wilson, Leonard Ellis, Fred Countiss, "Bud" Dering and his brother, Philip, and Bradford Ripley. The girls of the upper school and the children of the lower school are to have a similar outing another day.

Miss Lucy McCurdy, daughter of D. G. McCurdy of Evanston, has set the date of her wedding to John Waite Cogswell of Southampton, Long Island, for the 29th of December. The ceremony will take place in the chapel of St. Luke's pro-cathedral at 8 o'clock and Bishop George Craig Stewart will officiate. There will be a small reception at the bride's home following the ceremony.

Miss McCurdy has chosen Mrs. Melvin B. Ericson of Libertyville for her matron of honor and her sister, Miss Beatrice McCurdy, and Miss Josephone Puntschart of Chicago, for her bridesmaids.

George Cogswell will be his brother's best man, and William McCurdy, George Bliss of Highland Park and Preston Farley of Kenilworth, will be the ushers.

Mr. Cogswell, who is the son of the E. R. Cogswells of Winnetka, will arrive from Southampton Dec. 24.

Luncheon for Mrs. Baxter.

Mrs. Horton Conrad is giving a luncheon today for Mrs. Harry Baxter of Utah who is here visiting her brother and sister-in-law, the John Derns. The Derns have been occupying the Bruce MacLeish home in Hubbard Woods while the MacLeishes, who are Mrs. Dern's parents, are in Arizona, and will probably stay there through the holidays although they have received word that Mr. and Mrs. MacLeish hope to be back for Christmas.

Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell, her granddaughter, Miss Edith Atwater, and Miss Aleta Freel, Henry Hull and Garvin Muir of the cast of "Springtime for Henry," are to be guests at a luncheon given by the Art and Literature department of the Chicago Woman's club at 12:30 today.

Mrs. Edward Welles, Mrs. Everett Wyman, Mrs. Howard Peabody, Mrs. Harold Bodman, Mrs. William P. Peter, Mrs. Ralph H. Poole, the Misses Colvin and Mrs. Francis Manierre will pour at a tea Lydia Lee [Mrs. John N.] is giving this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in Lake Forest to open an exhibition of sculpture and portraits of children and dogs.

We know where some of the debutante set and the young marrieds will be on Christmas eve between 4 and 7 o'clock, at least all those who are receiving in the mail today cunning invitations with a beer stein in one corner—up at the Herman F. Friestedts' hospitable residence at 6141 Sheridan road at the party the sons of the family, Fred and Luther, are giving that afternoon to open the new barroom they have made, yes, made themselves, in the basement of the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson W. Smart of 7230 Paxton avenue are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter. The little girl, born last Saturday at St. Luke's hospital, is the fourth grandchild of the Allen R. Smarts of 4610 Drexel boulevard.

Casey Woods to Far East.

Dr. and Mrs. Casey Wood closed their home in Pasadena and sailed for the far east early this month, accompanied by their niece, Miss Marjorie Fyte. They will go to Ceylon for quite some time, going on to Marano, Italy, in the summer. Next winter they probably will settle in Rome so that Dr. Wood may pursue his studies at the Vatican library.

Mrs. John A. F. Wendt of 900 North Michigan avenue has just returned from New York where she has been for the last six weeks.

Miss Jean Dunbar, daughter of the David O. Dunbars of Wheaton, and Miss Dorothy Dayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt J. Denman of Canterbury court, Wilmette, are arriving home Saturday for the Christmas holidays from the Katherine Gibbs school in Boston. Miss Dunbar and Miss Dayton are both graduates of Ferry hall.

On Tiptoe

Every chance you get, walk around the house on tiptoes, body stretched to tallest height, hands overhead or clasped at the back of the neck.

Stretch Your Way to Better Figure Lines

Keep Body Supple and Youthful, Too.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Did you do that stretching "stretch" I offered you yesterday? No? Well, do it today, then. It's not too late to get in on the benefits. Do it along with the one I'm giving you today.

Just stretch every which way! Arms stretched to finger tips; legs pulling down hard; head and torso stretching, stretching like an old dog getting ready for the day. If you don't want to do it lying down, do it standing. But stretch like everything!

I'm going easy on you girls who haven't done any exercise since you left school. You don't want to start in with bends and twists and turns that make you sore and weary. That's not good limbering, anyway. Before we go on with any movements I want you to get some of the stiffness out of your bodies. No better way to do this than by stretching. Another thing, this stretching business isn't just some freak idea. It's based on the best of scientific sense.

How do you suppose the caged tigers and lions and other circus wild beasts keep their girlish figures? By stretching and nothing but! What does your cat do for that streamline body of hers? Stretch and stretch. And your dog? Or, getting up to humans, what does that small infant of yours do? Stretches himself asleep and stretches himself awake. It's a normal, natural impulse, though some of us adults may have forgotten the fact.

But we're interested in results on adults; what it does for their silhouettes. I want you to get out your tape measures. I want you to keep a record of your bust, waist, hip, arms, legs, abdomen measurements during this series. There are any number of women whose weight is all right, but whose girth could stand reduction. For these, there is nothing better than the stretching work recommended here.

Just try an experiment today. Pin the tape measure around your waist. Now, go ahead and stretch up high as you can stretch the body. Note the way the tape measure has slipped down. The waist is smaller, the hip line leaner, isn't it? Your chest higher? Back straighter?

Keep up this stretching. Walk around the house today a half dozen times or more, up on the tiptoes, hands overhead or clasped at back of the neck and stretch from the toes up.

Library of Congress Now the Largest in World

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The library of congress was hailed today as the largest in the world in the annual report of Herbert Putnam, librarian. The book collections now number 4,477,431, exclusive of millions of maps, manuscripts, musical compositions, and engravings. Putnam also referred to his institution as one whose business has not slackened because of economic conditions. "Depression has not decreased the work of the library of congress," he said. "On the contrary, there have been decided increases in the demands upon it. And there seems to have been no appreciable slackening of the institution's growth."

Baptist Mission Groups Consider Economy Merger

Officials of the Northern Baptist Home Missionary society and the Woman's American Baptist society met yesterday at the La Salle hotel to consider the union of the two groups. The union of the societies, leaders claim, would result in considerable reduction of administrative expense. Ways and means were also discussed as to methods of curtailing general home missions' expense with least loss of efficiency. In addition to the officials of the two societies, the meeting was attended also by representatives of the Baptist Publication company and secretaries of state and city missionary societies. Mrs. Katherine S. Westfall of New York presided.

Give Santa Aid in Choosing the Children's Toys

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The telephone rings. Your hands are—perhaps—in the glamorous (?) suds of dishwater, like the lovely ladies in advertisements who use the "only thing" for dishwashing. Another member of the family says, "I'll answer it," and pretty soon a voice calls out, "It's grandma and she's been shopping and she's in a daze, and what shall she give both the children for Christmas?" And you groan.

Is that a familiar scene? You groan because your mind always gets a little wild around Christmas time and because some one is always asking you that question. And sometimes you don't know what to suggest—merely because you haven't thought about it.

But it's a good plan and an economical one to try to be a little forehanded, so that the money that loving friends and relatives spend at Christmas time shall be well spent.

The stores and the manufacturers together have made great strides in the stock they present to the big buying public at Christmas time. We don't see the trash we used to see on counters. The educators and child psychologists have been called in, and really fine playthings are to be had. Sturdy things of good material can be had at reasonable prices.

Try to be posted on what there is, so that when you get an S O S about gifts you're ready with a suggestion. You might even make a scouting visit to some of the better toy departments.

Toyland is a better country than it used to be. It was not many years ago that I tried to get great big blocks, knowing their importance for the very little child. And I had to stand over a carpenter on Christmas eve while he cut and sandpapered them for me. Only a few educational supply houses put them out then, and they were too expensive for us. Now you can buy the right blocks for children of all ages at a fair price.

The same is true of what the educator calls transportation toys. Haven't you seen the handsome jumbo size wooden locomotives, for instance, for the very little boy or girl?

The world "do move." There are fine playthings to be had. Be ready with your suggestions when some friend says, "I've racked my brains—what shall I give the children?"

Embree Will Study Dutch East Indies; Leaves City Today

Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, will make a study of schools in the Dutch East Indies, it was announced last night. W. Bryant Mumford of the Carnegie corporation will assist.

Mr. Embree and his wife will leave Chicago today. They will sail Friday on the steamer Mariposa from Los Angeles, bound for Honolulu where, on Dec. 22, they will attend the marriage of their daughter, Edwina, to Edward Mumford, a brother of W. Bryant Mumford. From Honolulu Mr. Embree will go to the Dutch East Indies.

During his absence, Dr. Franklin C. McLean will serve as acting president of the Rosenwald fund.

Rose Window Is Placed in New York Cathedral

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The rose window in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, seat of the Episcopal diocese of New York, was put into place today. In diameter, it is 40 feet—five feet more than the rose window of the Rheims cathedral; and one inch more than that in Paris' Notre Dame. Bishop William T. Manning said the rose window, revered as one of the symbols of liturgical art, is "designed to express in color and light, the spiritual beauty and power in prayer." The central and dominant figure is of Christ.

Ness Exhibit Will Delight the Modernist

Johnson Galleries Show Water Drawings.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chester H. Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building, are offering for the holiday season an exhibit of modern water drawings and colors by A. Kenneth Ness, a young Chicagoan of whom before now nothing has been heard.

To many of us this will not seem such a great loss; many of us may even question the value of his discovery; the ultra modernist on the other hand, may chortle and chuckle with glee, rubbing excited hands together as his eye leaps from point to point and absorbs the show with ecstasy.

Those who are trained to look for something better than the fumbling approach of a primitive are bound to reject the exhibit. They cannot fail to call it a waste of time and a showing of trash that would better have stayed unhung. They will look for color, line, proportion, intelligibility, beauty, whimsy, and draw blanks. Indifferent work, so those who remember Ingres will say, weak and confused, a false growth which it would be well to nip in the bud.

Not that all draughtsmen can be Ingres, but all artists can have a working knowledge of the legitimate powers of their craft. To falsify even the simplest situation or character is not art. To invoke irreverence, to belittle a drama for the sake of sensation, that is not art. The "Crucifixion" is the lodestar drawing resentment from a spark into full flame.

The Chicago Camera club has an interesting show on its walls. Dorothy Wilding of England offers a number of stunning portraits of important persons, among them George Bernard Shaw. Anne Brigman of California submits a group of delicate photographs dealing chiefly with patterns as found in the sands, the tides, trees and ferns. Her touch is quaint and old fashioned but not without charm.

The finest part of the exhibit is found in the prints by the Photographic Society of Philadelphia. Here is some magnificent work. Particularly stirring are the five horse team harrowing, the speed boat running between two churning banks of water, the terrier at the station in company with many legs, and the bridge at night with a myriad reflected lights.

The exhibitions will continue through December.

If Boys Show Conceit It's Due to Girls' Praise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Are all boys conceited as the boys? It has been my misfortune to know!" asks Marge. "And why are boys so much more conceited than girls?"

Are all boys conceited? And are they more conceited than girls? Pretty sweeping generalities, "Marge." Nevertheless, having a pretty fair opinion of himself has always been conceded stock in trade for the young man, whereas modesty [until recent times] was considered the becoming feminine asset.

Perhaps this is one reason why boys seem conceited! Again, perhaps you modern girls contribute much to the young man's good self-opinion. You certainly do all in your power to give him an inflated idea of his importance. The wonder is that more men aren't victims, the way you phone boys.

Let's offer one illustration. In some quarters it's the girls now who spend all the nickels calling up the boys. Not long ago we heard a conceited young chap boast "Why should I call her? She'll be ringing me before long."

Another thing you girls do is to stand for treatment that should be resented. No wonder the boys get the idea that you [only some of you, of course] are anxious for dates with them. You stand for talk, too, that further contributes to the youth's self-appreciation. You wouldn't call the boy down for talking fresh for fear you'll lose out with him.

Some of you even show you are so keen for a boy's company that you're willing to pay for dance or theater tickets to have him along. Or, you supply him with a car. It's no wonder the boy thinks he's Allah's gift to Eve's girl children. And another thing—

Look at the way you let boys paw you, maul you, manhandle you. Of course, the conquest being so easy, he thinks Don Juan a piker compared to him. You give those boys such a free rein in so many behavior tests they naturally do begin to think they are super-sheiks.

However, you don't find the right kind of boys with egos so highly inflated. Not the kind of boys who insist on doing their own choosing, chasing, and manner of courting a girl.

LINDSTROM GOES TO PIRATES IN 3 CLUB DEAL

THEY'RE EATING THOSE BANQUET BISCUITS NOW

Where Are the Old Roll Tossers?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Dec. 12.—The banquet season is upon us again and many indoor athletes are competing in the biscuit throw, a fine old native American event which ought to be recognized by the A. A. U. and undoubtedly will be some day.

I was a little surprised not to see the biscuit throw contested at the banquet of the Gridiron club in Washington. They served several rounds of biscuits at the Gridiron dinner, but none of the guests seemed to know what they were for. They ate them, which probably just goes to show the artificiality of life in the national capital. Eating the banquet biscuit, of course, is a serious breach of etiquette in all typically American communities.

A Novice Wins Title.

The throwing biscuit is intended by its size, weight, and shape for target work and it has been standardized in the last few years so that throws made at various banquets over the course of a season may be accurately compared at the end of the winter.

It is my recollection that the championship of the season of 1931-'32 was won by a sensational young novice at a gala testimonial dinner at $10 per plate, given for a New Jersey sheriff at a speakeasy in Trenton. The young winner was a member of the state legislature and he had a perfect score, hitting every one of the speakers of the evening square on the nose from a place six tables away, using the official target biscuit exclusively.

The throwing biscuit weighs about 3½ ounces and is about the same shape as a hand grenade, with an extremely hard but brittle shell. During the formative period of the sport of tossing the banquet roll several experiments were made by the banquet departments of some hotels and there was a spell when the game was threatened with chaos, if not worse, by the rapacity of the managers.

Comes the Lively Biscuit.

In their desire to attract more and more banquets, some of these managers introduced the jackrabbit or lively biscuit which would bounce all up and down the speakers' table and score several hits on one throw. Others favored the iron biscuit, which would not bounce around but would certainly knock the speaker for a loop if it hit him. Of course, the jackrabbit roll had to be ruled out if competition was not to be utterly demoralized by fantastic scores.

The iron biscuit had to go because some of the throws missed the speakers and were knocking innocent parties for loops. It was highly desirable that the speakers of the evening should be knocked for loops, but with the development of the sport and the refinement of trick deliveries there has also occurred a great improvement on the defensive side. There are some habitual speakers who, by long experience, have learned to duck the biscuit with uncanny skill and judgment of distance.

The Missile Is Standardized.

The gala winter of 1928-'29, when more than 150 players were knocked for one or more loops by iron biscuits, led to the adoption of the present standard safety biscuit for the preservation of the game. It was Judge K. M. Landis who called on all banquet lovers that year to curb the brutality of the sport. The judge, as a speaker of long experience, was not concerned for his own safety, for he had developed a defensive agility of high degree and it is well known that he has never been scored upon at any biscuit throw in a career covering more than 1,000 banquets.

The claim was made that most of the 150 casualties of that season were just sand-lot or cafeteria boys, improperly trained and conditioned, who could not take it, but the outcry against the iron biscuit would not down and the biscuit committee of the National Banquet, Testimonial Dinner, and Informal Get-Together association adopted the new specifications to save the game.

Lists One Casualty.

The only serious accident that I have seen this season occurred at an informal get-together given some weeks ago for the newspaper boys by a committee that was trying to raise funds to pay for the removal of the replica of Mount Vernon in one of the public parks of New York. The building was erected in honor of the George Washington bicentennial, but business had been bad and the committee wished to run a boxing show to raise the price of having it torn down.

Mr. Grover A. Whalen made a speech in behalf of this worthy cause and just as he was finishing his oration a biscuit sailed past his mustache and tagged a journalist on the chin, knocking him for a series of loops. The young man had just yelled a suggestion to Mr. Whalen. "Why don't you burn the dump down?" He never knew what hit him. The biscuit splintered on his chin and several jagged fragments of the shell inflicted slight wounds on other persons sitting nearby. The stricken journalist fell forward in his place, burying his face in a puddle of puree of tomato a la 42d street.

"Carry on," his widow said to the committee. "He was a great lover of the sport of biscuit throwing and would have willed it so."

The Gridiron club seems distinctly un-American in its ways. They get the leading politicians of the country set up all in a row and then they eat their biscuits.

Fat and Prosperity Peril Career of Jockey E. James

BY FRENCH LANE.

When Jockey Eugene James rode Burgoo King to victories in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness stakes early last May, the cheers of most of the racegoers in the country went out to him.

Even such a wise turfman as Col. Edward R. Bradley became so sold on the kid that he made him his first string rider. To do this Bradley practically had to "bench" the one time sensational Laverne Fator, who was under contract at a large figure.

Now comes a rather pathetic story about James. Sudden prosperity got the better of him. He lost his riding form. The art of keeping his weight down flitted away. It has just come to light that Col. Bradley paid him off quite a while before the season closed in Maryland and sent him on his way.

James went back to his home in Louisville where a report says "he is growing fat day by day. He appears healthy, but weighs all of 130 pounds, and isn't looking for any orders to report for winter riding." Visitors at the winter colony at Churchill Downs are afraid he will go the route of scores of other adolescent jockeys who take on weight rapidly soon after they flash into the limelight and begin to get their first taste of prosperity.

James was developed by Roscoe Goose, who since the death of Father Bill Dailey, has come to be known as the most successful educator of young jockeys in America. Aside from James he has developed numerous good riders, among them Charley Kurtsinger and Gilbert Elston. Goose, in his riding days between 1908 and 1918, never had any trouble making weight. He could ride at about 100 pounds this afternoon without doing any road work. Maybe that's the reason he forgot to stress the importance of "not growing fat" to his pupil James.

Christopher J. Fitz Gerald, the presiding steward of the Arlington Jockey club, who is at Agua Caliente this winter endeavoring to win back some public confidence in the Mexican track, has arrived on the west coast and has pitched into the job of getting things in order for the opening of the season on Christmas day.

Soon after his arrival out west Mr. Fitz Gerald was told about the "daily seven" wagering system which is to be introduced at Agua Caliente. "It fairly takes my breath away," was his comment.

How easy is it to pick seven winners in seven races? The handicapper in Chicago who has picked more winners during the last six or eight years than any of the others was asked the question yesterday.

"Well, I've done it just once in 15 years," was his reply. "Three times in a lifetime should be a good high average," he continued.

Hygro, the streak of lightning which Abraham Bartelstein of Chicago purchased at the recent dispersal sale of George Wingfield's Nevada turf holdings, is to take the "sand" treatment in the waters of the Pacific at Imperial beach in California.

He already has arrived there and under the direction of Trainer Harry Unna is wading through the magic sands which Trainer Unna claims has cured so many crippled horses in the past. He gave Golden Prince the treatment and the Prince later won the $100,000 Coffroth Handicap. He administered the treatment to Polydorus last winter and at times during the summer Polydorus was able to beat every great sprinter in America.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FOOTBALL BROADCASTS.

THE WAKE seldom hears football broadcasts because usually we are at some point of action in a reportorial capacity on Saturday afternoons. Therefore we listened in to the W-G-N broadcast of the Southern California-Notre Dame game both from interest and as an experience.

Candidly, we were surprised at the reaction. Of course, one cannot visualize the combat and form comparisons of relative strength as well as by actually seeing the players in action, yet it is remarkable how accurately one forms conclusions which are corroborated by the expert newspaper reports of the following morning.

Another point that impressed was how well we remembered the progress or position of the ball during the entire contest. At the end we felt we could draw a diagram of the play in essential details, missing possibly a few exchanges of kicks with not much action between, but remembering all the important or vital plays.

This memory picture, it seems to us, is more keen than where one actually sees the plays. On those occasions you remember the high spots, but often you seek recourse to your notes to verify in what period a certain play took place. From a broadcast you retain a better idea of the sequence. Perhaps that is because when reporting one is intent on identifying the players both in carrying and tackling. Over the air the broadcaster does that for you and you give more attention to the developing strategy. It was an interesting experience.

Incidentally, the W-G-N broadcast, which we understand was the longest ever made for such an event by one station, was commendably effective and accurate. The "dress-up" in which movie stars appeared and their introduction for a full hour before the game was entertaining without the monotony of some prelevent programs. In the quick calling of plays and identity of players participating the broadcast was notably good. The Wake congratulates W-G-N station, Quin Ryan, his staff, and the sponsors for the quality of entertainment and information placed at the disposition of several million listeners in this territory and elsewhere.

My Dream Schooner.

(Please hurry, congress, please hurry!)
Last night as I lay dreaming
In my cottage by the sea,
Without a care or trouble,
There came a dream to me.

I dreamed I saw a schooner
Approaching from afar,
With white foam gleaming brightly
As she slid across the bar.

Then as I lay there dreaming
My pent-up feelings burst;
"O boy," I said, exultant,
"Now I can quench my thirst."

But when at last I wakened
My joy was all for nought;
The schooner, foam and bar were there,
But not the ones I thought!

HAWKS RECALL MACKENZIE TO BOLSTER TEAM

Louis Holmes Is Sent to St. Paul Club.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team, yesterday took the first step in the reported revamping of the team when Pudge Mackenzie, former Chicago Shamrock center, was recalled from the St. Paul Greyhounds, and Louis Holmes, intermittently with the Hawks for two seasons and a regular this year, was sent to St. Paul.

Mackenzie, a star on the Marquette univeristy hockey team for three years before joining the Shamrocks, trained with the Hawks this fall in Duluth, but was not brought to Chicago. He was sent to St. Paul, managed by Kay Iverson, brother of Emil Iverson, coach of the Hawks. Kay Iverson was Pudge's coach at Marquette.

Teammate of McFadyen.

Mackenzie is a player of the pugnacious type and was popular with Chicago fans as a member of the Shamrocks. He has played six seasons with Donnie McFadyen, Hawk wing man. The two were classmates at Marquette and later joined the Shamrocks. The two probably will be hooked up in a new Hawk line.

Other changes are said to be imminent, though Hawks officials would not discuss deals reported to be on the fire.

The Hawks have been successful at home, but collapsed almost completely on their first road trip. At home the Hawks have won four games, tied three and lost none. On their road trip they tied one and lost three, winning none.

Bruins Here Thursday.

The present home stand ends with the Boston Bruins game Thursday night and Maj. McLaughlin is said to be anxious to send a stronger cast afield for the four games which are to be played in New York, Montreal, Toronto, and Detroit before the team returns to home ice on Dec. 27.

Johnny Gottselig, injured Hawk star, yesterday donned skates for the first time in three weeks and this morning will practice in the Stadium in a drill called for 11 o'clock. Mackenzie also will participate in the morning practice.

GREENLEAF AND CARAS TIED IN CUE TOURNAMENT

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The quadruple tie for first place in the world's pocket billiard championship was broken today as Ralph Greenleaf, the defending champion, and Jimmy Caras, youngest of the contestants, triumphed and went into a tie for the lead.

Each has scored four victories, with no losses, and their successes today enabled them to break away from Erwin Rudolph and Patsy Natalle, both of whom are also undefeated but have registered one less triumph.

Greenleaf turned back George Kelly of Philadelphia, the runner-up a year ago, 125 to 53, in twelve innings, while Caras performed brilliantly to defeat Walter Franklin by the top-heavy margin of 125 to 6 in twelve innings.

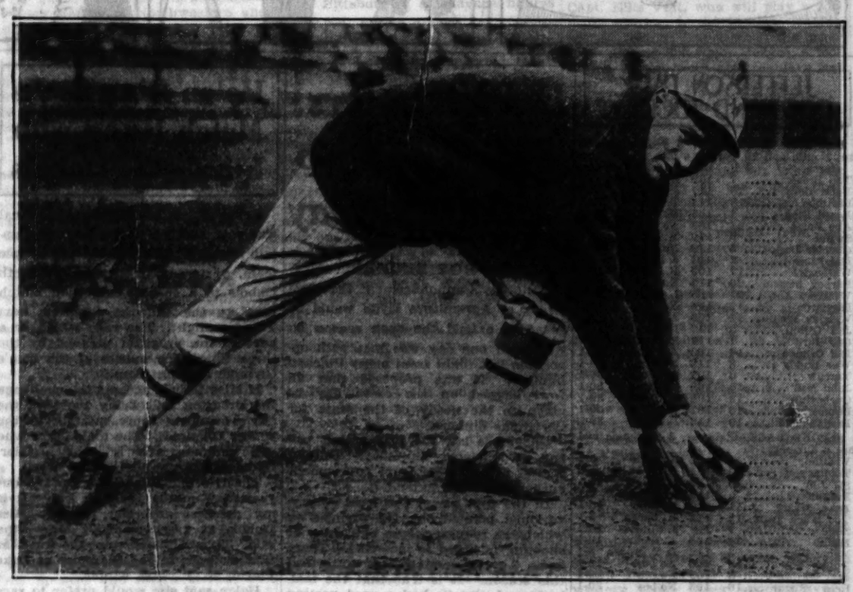
In the third game of the day Frank Taberski, former champion, conquered James Mills, 125 to 54, in ten innings. Each of the three losers has yet to win a game in the tourney.

PACKERS MEET 'ALL STAR TEAM IN COAST GAME

Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers, professional football team, has accepted an invitation to play against an all star Pacific coast football squad in the annual Knights of Columbus charity game at Kezar stadium, San Francisco, Sunday, Jan. 22, it was announced today by Coach E. L. Lambeau.

The Packers will play two games in Honolulu before the San Francisco battle, meeting the University of Hawaii eleven on Christmas day and the Honolulu Townies, a semi-professional team, on New Year's day. The players leave Green Bay tomorrow for Los Angeles and will sail Friday.

BLOWN AROUND BY THE TRADE WINDS



Freddy Lindstrom, Chicago boy, will be wearing a Pittsburgh uniform in the National league next spring. He was traded last night by the New York Giants, who received Pitcher Glenn Spencer of the Pirates and Outfielder George Davis of the Phillies in return. The three cornered deal shifted five players, the others being Chick Fullis of the Giants and Gus Dugas of the Pirates, who now become the property of the Phillies.

Glenn Spencer, right handed pitcher, who goes to the Giants.

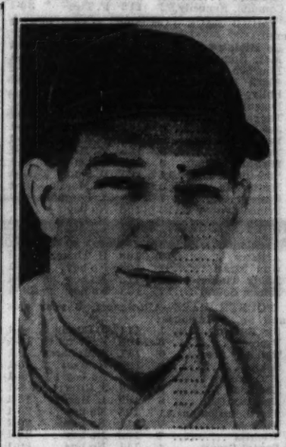
STAGG REJECTS COMMITTEE JOB WITH MAROONS

A. A. Stagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, yesterday wrote President Robert M. Hutchins that he would not accept the position of chairman of the committee on intercollegiate relations, offered him last April 4, when discussions of his impending retirement as athletic diector were in progress.

The position carried with it a salary, which, with Mr. Stagg's retiring allowance, equaled his present compensation. In his letter to President Hutchins Mr. Stagg did not state his reasons for refusing the offer, but he has frequently said that he is interested only in coaching football.

Mr. Stagg will receive from the university a retiring allowance of $3,000 annually for life.

The 70 year old coach spoke last night at Kalamazoo, Mich., at the annual dinner of the local high school football team. Tomorrow noon he will be a guest at a luncheon given by Athletic Director Bingham of Harvard. Tomorrow night he will address the Boston alumni of Phillips Exeter academy and Thursday night will be the guest of honor at the Phillips Exeter reunion in New York.



Gus Dugas, left handed outfielder, sent to the Phillies by the Pirates.

Wood Defeats Espinosa for Title, 2 and 1

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., won the annual San Francisco national match play open golf championship today by defeating Al Espinosa of Akron, O., 2 and 1, in the 36 hole final.

Wood overtook his rival in the afternoon round after being one down at the end of the first 18. They were all square at the 27th hole.

Espinosa went back into a one up lead at the 30th, but Wood dropped a 35 foot chip shot to win the 31st. The New Jersey player went into the lead for the first time by winning the 32d hole. The next two were halved and Wood clinched the match with a 15 foot putt for a birdie four on the 35th, Espinosa taking a par five.

Wood hauled down first money of approximately $500, while Espinosa got around $350.

DANA IS NAMED HEAD OF COAST'S GRID OFFICIALS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Herbert Dana, prominent Pacific coast football official and former star end of the University of Nebraska, was appointed supervisor of football officials for the Pacific Coast conference, starting in 1933, at a conference meeting here late today.

The supervisor will submit to the spring conference meeting at Spokane, June 2 and 3 his plan for selection of the officials.

It was indicated that his jurisdiction might be extended to basketball in another year.

Under the contract with the conference Dana will not be eligible to officiate at football games himself after the 1932 season ends.

PIRATES SIGN WANERS AGAIN; EACH GETS RAISE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Signing of the two Waner Brothers, Paul and Lloyd, to Pittsburgh Pirate contracts calling for increased pay became known tonight. Last year, Paul and Lloyd Waner received decreases in line with the general policy throughout the big leagues.

It is understod the 1933 contracts call for return to the 1930 figure for Paul and slightly more than the figure of that year for Lloyd. Paul is reported to have signed for slightly less than $15,088 and Lloyd for about $12,088.

Ernie Schaaf Knocks Out Winston in Sixth Round

Bears Given Rest; Workout Later in Week

As a reward for their victory over Green Bay, from which every Bear emerged with only superficial wounds, the Chicago Bear players were excused from workouts until tomorrow, when preparations will begin for the National Football league championship game with Portsmouth at Wrigley field Sunday.

Sunday's game with Portsmouth is expected to be every bit as desperate as the one with the Packers. The Bears and the Spartans played to a 13 to 13 tie at Wrigley field, and again to a 7 to 7 deadlock at Portsmouth. A week ago last Sunday the Spartans walloped the Packers, 19 to 0.

Portsmouth never has won a National league title, but came close last year. The Bears haven't finished on top of the league for years, although they have come close a couple of times.

Keith Molesworth, who was knocked out last Sunday, is wearing a cut lip as his decoration of honor, but he will be ready for the Spartans.

A crew of men went to work on the field yesterday morning and will continue their efforts to have the field in the best possible shape for the game.

CLARK WON'T PLAY.

Portsmouth, O., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Portsmouth Spartans will be without the services of their star quarter back, Earl [Dutch] Clark, when they meet the Chicago Bears Sunday to decide the national professional football championship.

In a telegram to the Portsmouth Times today, Clark said his duties as basketball coach at Colorado college would not permit him to return for the game. He left Portsmouth after the Spartans closed their regular season with a victory over the Green Bay Packers.

GIANTS GIVEN SPENCER, DAVIS; PHILS GET TWO

Magnates Assemble as Rumors Fly.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Out of a lobby full of whisperings of big deals on the eve of the annual meetings of the National and American leagues came definite news tonight of one trade. Three clubs figured in the transaction and five players were shifted.

The New York Giants parted with Freddy Lindstrom and obtained George Davis, fleet outfielder, from the Phillies, and Glenn Spencer, right handed pitcher, from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Lindstrom will go to the Pirates. Chick Fullis, utility outfielder of the Giants, becomes the property of the Phillies. The Phillies are receiving an unannounced sum of cash along with Gus Dugas, young outfielder of the Pirates.

Third Player Manipulation.

This marked the third player manipulation and the second of major proportions made since the close of the season by Manager Bill Terry in a determined effort to rehabilitate the Giants for the 1933 campaign.

The trading of Lindstrom marks the passing from New York of one more youthful star uncovered by John McGraw after the latter's last pennant winning in 1924. Lindstrom became an important cog in the Giant machine which seriously threatened to win another flag for McGraw, but never succeeded. As a youngster of 17 he was plucked out of the classrooms of Loyola academy, Chicago, in 1922, and after being farmed out for two seasons with Toledo came to the Giants in 1924 as a third baseman.

Converted into Outfielder.

In 1931, McGraw decided to convert Lindstrom into an outfielder. He was adding fresh glory to his record when his foot was broken in July. Last season, though fully recovered, he had one of his poorest years. It was no secret on the club that a rift had set in between him and Terry when the latter was named to succeed McGraw as manager last June. He finished the season with a .270 batting average, falling below .300 for the first time since coming to the majors.

In exchange the Giants are getting a promising young outfielder in Davis and a pitcher with a fast ball, though his record with the Pirates last season was not over impressive. Spencer, won only four games and lost eight, but he appeared in 39 encounters, mostly in relief roles.

Davis Bats .309.

Davis, a New York university product, received a trial with the Yankees in 1928, was farmed out to Hartford and subsequently turned over to the St. Paul club from which he was purchased by the Phillies last winter. He played in 139 games for the Phils during 1932 and turned in a batting average of .309.

Fullis, who is being given by the Giants to the Phillies, has been a utility outfielder with the New York club ever since 1928 when he came here from Toledo.

Dugas, whom the Phillies also obtain, came to the Pirates last spring from Kansas City. He is a hard hitting left handed batter.

The 1931 Giant outfield will comprise the following men: Mel Ott, .319; Joe Moore .267, and Davis, .309. The 1933 Pirate outfield will be: Lloyd Waner, .333; Paul Waner, .341, and Lindstrom, .270.

Eight Names Off Roster.

And so Terry, bent upon reconstructing the Giants if he has to dismantle the entire 1932 machine, now has stricken the names of eight players off the club's roster. Shortly after the close of the season he traded Bill Walker, star lefthander, Jim Mooney, Bob O'Farrell and Ethan Allen to the Cardinals for Catcher Gus Mancuso and Ray Starr, young right handed pitcher, and recently he gave unconditional releases to the pitchers Waite Hoyt and Clarence Mitchell.

Asked whether more trades would follow, Terry merely smiled and said, "Can't tell, but maybe we've only just started."

While Terry was getting action, other league managers and their bosses were trying, without luck, to push through numerous deals.

Cubs, Sox Eager to Trade.

Both William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, and J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, were on the ground, angling and willing, but they could not announce any glad tidings for the Chicago fans.

"We'll do business, if we can," was the gist of their separate statements, "but we want something in return for what we give up."

And there the matter rests officially. Off the official records it was said that the Cubs are trying to get Pitcher Carl Hubbell from the New York Giants, and the name of Kiki Cuyler is mentioned in connection therewith.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs was around the hotel lobbies for a while. He didn't appear deeply worried about anything except that he needed a haircut, and he departed in search of a barber.

The White Sox bosses are described as being prepared to make another deal that will shake the nation, as did the one they put through for Al Simmons, Mule Haas, and Jimmy Dykes.

Sox Want Southpaw.

The Sox want especially a left handed pitcher, but they are not so long on playing talent that they could

JEFFERSON PARK.

1—The Break, Buck Hero, Baritone.
2—Vladimir, Tombereau, St. Jim.
3—Le Ministre, Major Gomez, Bourbon Prince.
4—Sir Romeo, Precede, Thistle Ace.
5—MAKING BUBBLES, Camp Boss, Indicative.
7—Security Bond, Earl of Warwick, Singing Kid.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Jockey Hank Mills evened the score for the day with Johnny Gilbert when he won the fifth and feature race here with James Sands' Blue Law. The total stood 190 for Gilbert and 187 for Mills, up to and including the fifth race. Jeanne Wachs was second and Huraway third. The winner paid $5.60.

There were 6,000 at the course today under the free admission plan of the managers of the park.

Jockeys Fight for Place.

Mrs. A. R. Smith's Lerack, coupled in the field with Octavia and Friscoville, went to the front when Nuhat, leading by four lengths, lost her rider, A. Pascuma, and won the fourth race by three lengths. Jockeys Mills and Gilbert had a hard drive for place money, Mills getting it by a neck with Chat Eagle, the favorite, from Col. Cloister. The juveniles ran six furlongs in 1:13 4-5. Lerack paid $15.40.

Jockeys Gilbert and Mills began the day in their rivalry for riding honors with Gilbert three winners ahead, 189 being his total. He scored in the second race with I. S. Shafer's Sweet Lacruse, for 190. Sweet Lacruse was hustled from the start, winning by a head from Roycrofter and paying $10.20. Temps d'Armour was third, beaten two lengths. The second and third horses were outsiders, Roycrofter returning $21.60 for place.

Luck Piece Is Victor.

Mrs. R. T. Flippin's Luck Piece won the first race, defeating the odds-on favorite Judge Lueders, by a neck, in spite of going wide and trailing the first five furlongs. Elizabeth S. was third, a half length back. The time for a mile and seventy yards was 1:54 3-5.

"WORST SEASON" BRINGS KENTUCKY FOOTBALL PROBE

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Investigation of the athletic situation at the University of Kentucky was ordered today by President Frank L. McVey in response to student demands which followed the football team's worst season in six years. The inquiry will cover business, financial and coaching affairs of the athletic department.

Unsigned leaflets charging Coach Harry Gamage with having built up a "political machine" and saying he had engineered the election of the last three football captains, including that of Howard [Dutch] Kreuter of Newport, Ky., newly elected 1933 captain, were distributed on the campus last week.

The university football team lost five and won four games this season, winding up with a 26 to 0 drubbing by Tennessee Thanksgiving day.

In Paducah today to attend a football banquet, Coach Gamage commented that the airing of the charges had shown that "a man has more freinds than his attackers thought he had," and added, "My friends are rallying to my support." Gamage's five year contact has another year to run.

SARATOGA AND BELMONT STAKE ENTRIES FILL

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Entries for the Westchester Racing association's 1933 stakes at Belmont park, which closed Dec. 5, fell below the number for this year, but held up in a way to inspire managers' confidence in the season. The same was true of Saratoga returns.

The nominations received for Belmont park stakes totaled 2,015, against 2,757 this year, and were from 124 nominators, against 155 for 1932. Saratoga received 1,324 nominations from 97 owners for 1933 stakes, against 1,873 nominations from 123 owners for 1932.

SET DATES FOR THREE FLORIDA GOLF TOURNEYS

Dates and purses for three Florida winter tournaments were announced yesterday by the Professional Golfers' association. They are:

St. Petersburg open, Feb. 8, $1,000, over 36 holes.

Lakeland open, Feb. 14 and 15, over 36 holes, $1,000.

Duck Hunters Opposed to 'Charity' Day

BY BOB BECKER.

Yesterday's announcement that Secretary of Agriculture Hyde would be asked to extend the open season on waterfowl one day was met with opposition last night from many Chicago hunters. It was proposed that all fowl bagged on the extra day be given to the needy of the state for Christmas dinners.

Under the law the 1932 season will end at sundown Thursday. Only a special dispensation from government authorities could extend it.

In the first place, one local conservationist pointed out, the premise on which the request for an extra day of shooting is based is incorrect. There is no "overabundance" of waterfowl this season. It is true that the mallards and pintails had a good nesting season and made a big gain in population.

Mallards Show Increase.

Along the Illinois river, always a concentration point for mallards, pintails, and other puddler ducks, the flocks this fall have been materially increased over the dangerously low population figure of last season, but there is nothing like an overabundance of ducks.

In fact, Canadian and United States authorities have found it necessary to restrict the kill of ten species of ducks this year because they did not recover from the effects of the drought which prevailed for several years in their breeding grounds. Fortunately the mallards and geese were not so seriously affected by drought and loss of nesting areas.

Why Pick on the Ducks?

The duck hunter who does not belong to a club along the Illinois river can't "see" this idea of an extra day of duck hunting, judging by expressions heard yesterday. This hunter has to pay from $7.50 to $10 a day for just the use of a blind and decoys. One of these day shooters said yesterday:

"Why pick on the ducks for charity? If they would take the money that would be spent for transportation, shells, etc., in the killing of fifteen mallards and buy meat from the farmers who are getting just a few nickels for sheep, hogs, and other stock they would be able to fill baskets for the poor and help the farmer at the same time."

SCHUESSLER A. C. TO MEET K. OF C. QUINTET TONIGHT

The Schuessler Athletic club basketball team, which last year won the Central A. A. U. heavyweight title in Chicago and the consolation championship of the National A. A. U. tourney at Kansas City, Mo., will open its season tonight, when it battles the Loyola-Hyde Park five of the Knights of Columbus league at White City.

Preceding this game the Englewood Y. M. C. A. lightweights, A. A. F. champions, meet the Owl Indians.

CRANE COLLEGE QUINTET WINS 4TH IN ROW, 47-19

Crane college's basketball team scored its fourth consecutive victory by defeating the Illinois College of Chiropody, 47 to 19, last night at the Crane gymnasium. Crane led at the half, 30 to 3. The lineups:

Helen Bina Seeks Match Race with Elizabeth Dubois

Helen Bina of Chicago, national women's skating champion and captain of the 1932 United States Olympic team, yesterday challenged Elizabeth Dubois to a special exhibition match race at the Chicago Stadium next Tuesday night. The race would be a part of the program planned by the three Chicago members of the men's Olympic skating team.

If Miss Dubois accepts the challenge the program will bring together the city's complete representation in the winter Olympics. The male stars who will compete are Eddie Schroeder, Eddie Murphy, and O'Neil Farrell.

The trio and Miss Bina worked out yesterday on the Stadium ice. "It is my greatest ambition to beat Miss Dubois at 1,000 meters," Miss Bina said. Miss Dubois won the race at that distance in the Olympics at Lake Placid, N. Y., last winter.

Helen said she would prefer to race the distance in Australian pursuit style. This would have the skaters starting from opposite sides of the track. They would have individual timekeepers and the winner would be determined on a time basis.

Purple Faces Test Against Pitt Friday

Northwestern's basketball team faces a severe Friday night when it meets the University of Pittsburgh team, for years one of the leading eastern quintets, at Patten gymnasium. Pitt has invaded Evanston on three occasions in recent years, winning two games and losing one.

Coach Dutch Lonborg apparently has decided the makeup of Northwestern's first string combination. The two regulars from last year, Capt. Joe Reiff, forward, and Elmer Johnson, center, are firmly entrenched in their positions. Three subs from last year, Lon Brewer, forward, and Stan Culver and Marvin Mooshower, guards, complete the quintet.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, coach of the Pittsburgh team, has another of his typically fast breaking teams in the field this year.

Marty McManus Retains Job as Red Sox Manager

Boston, Mass., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Marty McManus will continue as manager of the Boston American league baseball club. The announcement, which denied reports that McManus would be dismissed, was made by President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox today.

"I have never had any idea other than having McManus manage the Red Sox in 1933.

"McManus took over the most thoroughly demoralized ball club that ever existed and was assured by some of the wise ones the club would not win ten games the rest of the season.

"He whipped that club into pretty fair shape and I feel if he could do as good as he did under such circumstances he can take the club we have now and have it finish somewhere other than last place," Quinn continued.

McManus succeeded John Collins as manager of the Red Sox in June, 1931.

Washer Ruins Schmeling's Auto While on Joy Ride

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(AP)—An automobile belonging to Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion of the world, was wrecked today by a car washer, who was seriously injured while taking a joy ride instead of delivering the machine to a garage.

LANGFORD FACES OSTER TONIGHT AT HOWARD GYM

Wolff Rejoins Ranks of Chicago Promoters.

The Card

Freddy Langford vs. Willie Oster [6].
Sammy Levine vs. Leo Vine [6].
Joey Benak vs. Carl Scaforo [4].
Leo Daniori vs. Bobby Nesbed [4].
Paul Dempsey vs. Freddy Dolph [4].
Sammy Morales vs. Jim Richards [4].

Sammy Wolff, veteran Chicago boxing promoter, will present his first show in two years tonight at Kid Howard's new gymnasium at 116 West Madison street. In his last previous promotion Wolff offered Fidel La Barba and Earl Mastro at the Chicago Stadium, drawing a gate of $50,000.

Six matches, two at six rounds and four at four rounds, will comprise this evening's card at the new gymnasium, the third Kid Howard has owned in 25 years in Chicago. Wolff plans to present weekly shows.

Willie Oster and Freddy Langford, Chicago middleweights, meet in the six round windup tonight. Oster met Gorilla Jones, former champion, at Davenport, Ia., recently. Langford, stablemate of Tuffy Griffith, is undefeated as a professional. Sammy Levine, former Golden Gloves star, will appear in the six round semi-windup.

Charley Belanger, Montreal, Can., heavyweight, and Harry Blitman, Philadelphia lightweight, will arrive today to finish training for their ten round bouts at the Coliseum Friday. Belanger faces Billy Jones and Blitman meets Eddie Shea. Shea will be seeking his thirteenth victory in as many starts against southpaws. He has knocked out nine of them.

Paul Dazzo, Chicago featherweight, and Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man., middleweight, arrived yesterday from New York, where Dazzo fought a draw with Sid Lampe and Battaglia whipped Chick Devlin last week. Dazzo boxes Young Geno of La Salle, Ill., in a ten round match at the Coliseum. It will be their third meeting, Dazzo winning by a knockout and then losing a ten round decision.

Young Leonard of Moline, Ill., has canceled his ten round contest with Young Terry, Trenton, N. J., Friday. He may be replaced by Jack Moran, west side middleweight. Moran defeated Ray Tramblie at the Stadium recently.

The supporting program for the Jack Roper-Buck Everett ten round match at the Rainbo Fronton Friday was completed last night. Four matches at four rounds each will bring together Elnard Hedquist and Don Matthews, Mel Mullens and Joe Sarnos, Charlie Zhanley and Freddy Miller, Lloyd Mullens and Sammy Morales. Another contest at four rounds and a wrestling exhibition are scheduled.

Pro Golfers to Aid Members' Needy Families

Destitute golf professionals and their families are going to get help from the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

In a letter sent to all members of the organization yesterday, George R. Jacobus, newly elected president of the P. G. A., announced the formation of a relief committee to aid the needy pros. The chief function of the committee will be to investigate reported cases of want within the ranks and assist.

Each sectional president will serve on an investigating committee to discover the most urgent cases.

"This relief committee will function until a complete survey has been made and we are assured that every one of our destitute members has been provided for and is protected against want," President Jacobus explained. "This move is not merely a magnanimous gesture, but is prompted by a sincere desire to help the fellow who is down and out and unable to help himself."

The statement was made public at the office of Albert R. Gates, administrator for the organization.

Reports from New York that the Madison Square Garden corporation was preparing to take control of the Chicago Stadium were denied late yesterday by Sidney Strotz, president of the Stadium. "I have not been approached on such a deal," Strotz said, "but if a sufficiently attractive proposition were made it is likely Stadium officials would agree to sell."

Men close to Stadium affairs said such a deal would have merit, especially regarding boxing bouts. In recent years managers of fighters have taken the upper hand and have dictated terms to promoters at Madison Square Garden and at the Stadium when it should be the other way round, it was pointed out. It was learned that the Stadium has been working on a chance of making only 15 per cent profit on recent bouts. The Stadium made a profit of approximately $1,400 on the Primo Carnero-King Levinsky contest last Friday.

Levinsky received 25 per cent, $4,500, and Carnera got 32½ or $5,850.

Wilbur Chevalier, Bay City, Mich., featherweight, has placed himself under the management of Dave Mearns. Chevalier will leave Cincinnati, O., where he won two matches recently, for Chicago to join Mearns. Chevalier will seek contests with Eddie Shea and Paul Dazzo. He has had 119 bouts, winning all but seven.

Henry Lenard, South Chicago boxer, and Jimmy Lambertson of South Bend, Ind., will meet in the five round windup at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight. Lambertson replaces Billy Locks. Eddie [Red] Chinski and Johnny Terry meet in the four round semi-final. Other matches are as follows:

Jackie Parker vs. Joe Wolcott, Art Mitchell vs. John Fitzpatrick, John Nadratowski vs. Jack O'Brien, and James Kaur vs. Vic Anderson. Bill Demetral and George Kogut will meet in a wrestling bout.

Hyde Park, 13; Lindblom, 11.
Lake View, 30; Loyola, 23.
De Paul, 39; St. Ignatius, 6.

Hyde Park and Parker heavyweights and Waller lightweights started their Chicago Public High School league season with victories yesterday. Hyde Park defeated Lindblom, 13 to 11, on the Hyde Park court; Parker won from Morgan Park, 40 to 25, on the latter's floor, and Waller scored a field goal in an overtime period to triumph over Schurz, 28 to 26, at the Waller gymnasium.

Ollie Oberlander, left forward, gave the Waller lightweights victory when he sank a basket in the extra period. Oberlander missed a long shot on his first attempt to score in the overtime session. The goal was Oberlander's sixth of the game. He also scored six free throws for a total of 18 points. Schurz led at the half, 17 to 16, but the score was tied at the end of the regulation game, 26 to 26.

Hyde Park Rallies.

Hyde Park, trailing, 5 to 4, at half time, went into the lead over Lindblom in the second half. Wetzel scored two baskets and one free throw.

Parker and Morgan Park opened their league season two days ahead of time. The teams were to start their south section schedules tomorrow, but decided to play yesterday. Heike was the star in Parker's victory, contributing five baskets and six free throws. He was aided by Peterson and Rumpf. The former scored 12 points, while Rumpf collected five field goals.

Continue Play Today.

Three heavyweight games are scheduled today in the west section. Crane Tech, defending champion, will make its debut against Marshall at the Crane gymnasium. Harrison Tech plays at Tuley and McKinley will play Austin at Austin.

Fenger heavyweights will meet Calumet, which lost three of its four practice games at Calumet in a south section contest and Tilden Tech, winner of three of its five pre-season games, meets Wendell Phillips in a central division game.

The unbeaten Lane Tech and Lake View lightweight teams will begin their campaign for the north section title. Lane Tech meets Roosevelt at the Roosevelt gymnasium and Lake View will play at Senn. Lane Tech and Senn each scored two victories in practice games.

Lake View Wins.

Lake View's heavyweights engaged in another practice game yesterday, defeating Loyola academy, 30 to 23. Groutwing, center, scored eight baskets and three free throws for Lake View.

St. Patrick, national Catholic champion, will meet De Paul at St. Patrick in a practice game tonight. There will be two games, the lightweight contest starting at 7:30 o'clock. Yesterday's lineups:

Giants Trade Lindstrom in 3 Club Deal

give in exchange. They have their eyes on Earl Whitehill of the Detroit Tigers, Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns, both southpaws, and Fred Marberry, Washington right hander.

It is announced that under no consideration will Comiskey part with Pitcher Ted Lyons, but some of the advance guard say that Vic Frasier might be passed along if the Sox can get the pitcher they want in exchange.

Frasier has been taxing the patience of the Sox owners for three years. Once he drove to Chicago in his car, had a chat with the officials, drove back to Texas, and that is all there was to it for that year. He did not want to play in the big city.

Frasier had a good season in 1931, but last year he arrived in camp with the flu, from which he never fully recovered. The Sox have heard nothing from Frasier this winter, but they have written to him advising him to seek medical care and report in good health in the spring.

Appling Mentioned in Deal.

Another tale floating about the lobbies is to the effect that the White Sox believe Luke Appling would fit into the Yankee picture better than he does in the Chicago ensemble, and it is understood that the infielder has been offered to Manager Joe McCarthy in a deal. Appling might be the solution to the Yankees' shortstop problem, but from what Luke has shown with Chicago, his awkwardness in the field is not compensated for by his hitting. With Chicago demanding a good pitcher for Appling, local reception to the offer is cold.

Another rumor was that Ben Chapman, Yankee base stealing outfielder, would be traded, but McCarthy said that any team would have to bid high in playing talent to get the Birmingham flash.

One possible trade every one is talking about would give the Giants Johnny Frederick, Brooklyn outfielder, for Sam Leslie, bench-warming sub first baseman. Mickey Finn also might go to the Giants in some sort of deal, too.

Cronin Looks Wise.

Joe Cronin, boy manager of Washington, made his debut by just looking wise, indicating, however, that if a proper deal could be made with Harley Boss, slugging first baseman from Chattanooga, as the bait, he might retain Joe Judge as helper to Joe Kuhel. He wants a pitcher, as who doesn't? Otherwise things are quiet in the Washington delegation.

McCarthy said he wasn't standing pat with his Yankees, as some had suggested he would. "You've got to trade in this business, or you slip back," he said, and then spent the afternoon in the company of Edward G. Barrow, Yankee business manager, talking over the situation. Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee president, talked briefly with them, but most of his time was taken up as a member of the steering committee.

Manager Max Carey of Brooklyn was buzzing around, talking in subdued tones with various persons. Sidney Weil, Cincinnati owner, was looking for trades, and he found a lot of people with whom to talk.

Iron Out Problems.

The most important of the goings on today was the steering committee meeting. All baseball's problems are being aired in order that the two leagues, meeting separately first and then jointly, may expedite their work.

Radio broadcasting is receiving serious consideration. The matter of decreasing salaries horizontally, reducing the player limit, reducing the number of coaches to 1 per club and a good many other controversial subjects were being discussed.

It seemed that a proposal to cut down on May 15 to the player limit rather than on June 15, as in the past, would be defeated, the reason being that a manager would not have sufficient time to size up the abilities of his recruits if he were forced to let them go so early in the season.

The Jersey City-Brooklyn dispute took up most of the time of the International league meeting, which adjourned without action. Sam Colacurcio, Jersey City owner, who has threatened to sue Brooklyn for $111,500 for players transferred while Brooklyn operated the club last year, told his story and the meeting was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

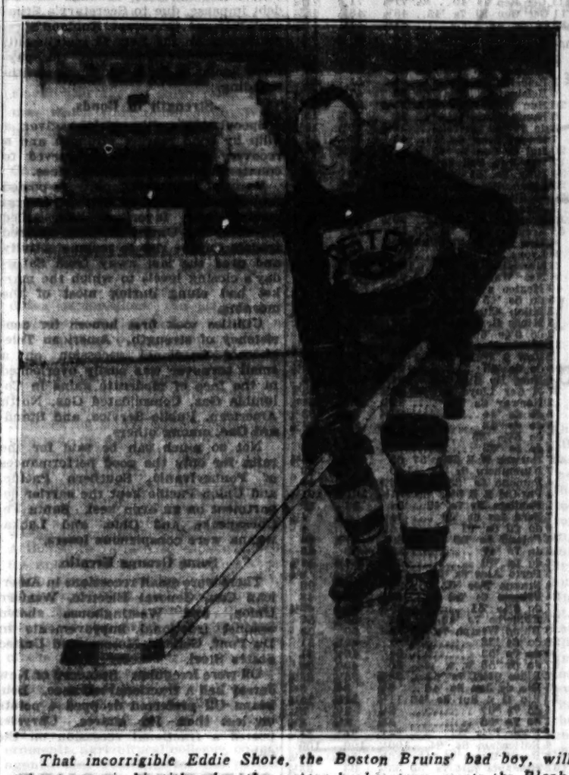
Kieckhefer, Thurnblad Split First Two Blocks

Augie Kieckhefer, world's three cushion champion, and Art Thurnblad divided the first two blocks of their 500 point match at Kieckhefer's Randolph Recreation yesterday. Thurnblad won the afternoon match, 50 to 45 in 54 innings, and Kieckhefer triumphed last night, 55 to 39 in 49 innings.

Bass K. O.'s Petrone in Third Round at New York

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Benny Bass, veteran Philadelphia lightweight, advanced another step in his New York ring comeback last night when he knocked out Dominick Petrone, Harlem's Italian veteran, in the third round of what was to have been the eight round feature bout at the St. Nicholas arena.

FOR SHAME, EDWARD!



That incorrigible Eddie Shore, the Boston Bruins' bad boy, will strive to regain his title when the eastern hockey team meets the Blackhawks at the Stadium Thursday night.

E. Shore Runs for Re-Election as the Bad Boy of Hockey

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Eddie Shore, who softened up last year and well nigh lost his title, "bad man of hockey," when he served only 80 minutes in the penalty box, will be in this town with the Boston Bruins Thursday night. It is reported he will continue his renewed campaign to regain his reputation of being the toughest of the tough guys who play hockey.

Shore as a member of the Bruins in 1928-'29 set a major league penalty record by serving 166 minutes—almost three complete games—in the box where offending hockey players are sent for terms ranging from two minutes upwards. Being hockey's highest salaried defense man and rated as the game's greatest defensive player despite his enforced absences from the ice, Eddie is said to have suffered deeply when he discovered at the close of the season that he had served less than half his record time.

It Looks Like Reëlection.

This year Shore started out to be ornerier than ever before and now is leading the league in penalties for rule infractions on the ice. He also has had two fist fights, one of them an alleged assault on Donnie McFadyen of the Blackhawks, while the two players were serving time for hockey misbehavior.

While Shore's penalties resulting from hard playing have been accepted as incidental to his excellence, Eddie's attack on Donnie is said to have evoked pointed criticism of his sportsmanship, heretofore never questioned. One Boston commentator even went so far as to state that Eddie's bullying has reached the point where a poll is being taken to decide upon the player best equipped to give the star a sound thrashing at good old fashioned fisticuffs, skate blades and hockey sticks barred.

Of course it will be necessary to do the very best matchmaking possible to make sure that Shore gets his licking. It is figured that he would be tougher than he's been any time in his 14 years of hockey playing if he proved to be the thrasher instead of the thrashee in such a combat.

The plan to get Shore a thrashing would have to be staged so as to hurt his dignity. There isn't much that an expert at fisticuffs could do to give Eddie a new experience in injuries. All his teeth are store teeth, his own having been knocked out long ere this date. He has 19 scars on his head, four on hi- feet and 12 on his body.

Otherwise a Nice Gent.

Despite his bad man tactics in hockey Shore generally is considered a personable fellow away from his work. He just goes berserk when he enters a hockey rink, a bully on and off the ice as long as he's in the hall.

Eddie was born in Qu'Appelle, Sask., Canada, in 1900. He started in hockey as a youngster, but for a time majored in firing a railroad locomotive. He gave up firing in 1924 and became a professional hockey player with the Regina Capitals. The next year he played with Edmonton and in 1926 went to Boston, where he has played ever since.

Shore is married and has a farm near Duagh, Alberta.

DE PAUL WHIPS WESTERN ONTARIO FIVE, 39 TO 24

De Paul defeated the University of Western Ontario basketball team, 39 to 24, in the first of their two game series last night at the De Paul gymnasium. The Blue Demons took a 15 to 8 lead at the half and continued to set the pace for the remainder of the game.

Pete Barskis, who replaced El Weston at center for De Paul, led the scoring with five field goals. Jim Gorsky was close behind with three shots from the floor.

The Canadian champions were obviously off their game, but are expected to give De Paul far more strenuous competition tonight when the series is concluded.

East All-Star Eleven Meets at N.U. Monday

Twenty-two football stars of the central and eastern states will assemble at Northwestern university Monday for their first workout as members of the East team which will play a West coast aggregation at San Francisco Jan. 2. Proceeds of the game will be turned over to the Shrine hospital for crippled children.

The squad will leave Monday night for Palo Alto, Cal., where headquarters will be maintained until the day of the game. The team will be coached by Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate.

Hanley expressed himself as well pleased with the makeup of the team this year, stating that he believed it would be the fastest and most versatile group ever taken west for the charity game.

"Our backfield this year may not be as powerful and as rugged as some of the backfields of former years," Coach Hanley said, "but I think we will have more speed and probably better blocking. All four of our backs were selected by their teammates as the most valuable player on the team during the last year."

The central states players on the team are: Backs—Roy Horstman, Purdue; Harry Newman, Michigan; Pug Rentner, Northwestern; Gil Berry, Illinois. End—Paul Moss, Purdue; Dick Fencl, Northwestern. Tackles—Marshall Wells, Minnesota; Bob Gonya, Northwestern; Joe Kurth, Notre Dame. Center—John Oehler, Purdue. One more player will be picked before the team leaves.

3 BIKE TEAMS TIED FOR LEAD AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Fred Spencer and Harry Horan, Edoardo Severgnini and Bill Grimm, and Gerard Debaets and Alfred Letourner were tied for first place in Philadelphia's second international six day bicycle race the end of the 22d hour tonight.

The riders had covered 380 miles and 6 laps. Thirteen laps were stolen tonight, making the total 77.

The racing was marked by four bad spills. Giovanni Manera, young Italian rider, figured in three of them. Manera went down in one crash with Ewald Wissel and twice spilled on the boards alone. The fourth spill saw George Dempsey, Paul Croley, and Edoardo Severgnini crash.

The standing of the teams at the end of the 22d hour follows:

	Miles.	Laps.	Points.
Spencer-Horan	380	6	58
Severgnini-Grimm	380	6	30
Letourner-Debaets	380	6	20

GODFREY WINS DECISION OVER WALTER COBB

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP)—George Godfrey, 258 pound Lieperville, Pa., Negro, took a 10 round decision by a narrow margin over Walter Cobb of New York tonight.

Their clash followed a peculiar mixup in a 10 round semi-windup fight in which Tony Calento, Orange, N. J., heavyweight, was disqualified for fouling Jack Gagnon, Boston battler, and both purses were held up pending a boxing commission hearing.

Cobb, weighing 225, surprised Godfrey in the windup by his willingness to punch with the Negro, but Godfrey's right hand sent the New Yorker to the canvas for a one count in the second and for the count of nine in the eighth.

Charles Retzlaff, 195, Duluth, Minn., knocked out Ed Prante, 207, Philadelphia, in the fourth round of a 10 round clash.

Joe Glick Fights 10 Round Draw with Alfred Gaono

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Joe Glick, veteran Brooklyn welterweight, fought ten rounds to a draw with Alfredo Gaono of Mexico City here tonight.

Winning Elevens Pull Fans Away from Home, Radio

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Nationwide football attendance figures gathered by the Associated Press indicate that the football fan of 1932 could either take his football game or leave it alone, staying home in his carpet slippers before the radio if the game wasn't promising.

The figures follow too closely the trails blazed by sectional and conference champion or challengers to allow of any other conclusion, with Notre Dame playing to 27,000 more than in 1931, Pittsburgh's attendance figures u 53,000, Brown almost doubling its 1931 totals and the University of California at Los Angeles playing to almost 100,000 more cash customers than in 1931.

There were a few exceptions. Michigan, despite an all victorious season, played to 5,000 less and Missouri, having one of its worst seasons in years, played before 20 per cent more customers than in 1931.

Among the big losers in attendance were New York university, playing only one less game than in 1931 but to 124,000 fewer persons; Yale off almost 100,000, Harvard some 60,000 under 1931, Stanford down 40,000, Fordham down 40,000 and Army 30,000 under 1931.

Southern California fell off $2,000 but played one less game. The Rose bowl contest with Pittsburgh Jan. 2 probably will bring their season total to approximately the same as in 1931.

Attendance generally was 15 per cent below 1931, when the attendance was off 10 per cent from the previous year.

SAVOLDI PINS CLINSTOCK ON FRONTON MAT

Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star, defeated Jim Clinstock, Oklahoma Indian, in the windup of the professional wrestling show at the Rainbo Fronton last night. Savoldi pinned Clinstock after he had thrown the Indian out of the ring twice with flying tackles. The time was 23 minutes and 15 seconds.

Hans Kampfer was named the winner in the semi-windup match when John Katan, his opponent, was disqualified. In the preliminaries Dorna Ostapavich tossed Sun Jennings in 12 minutes and 34 seconds with a body slam; Paul Jones won a 30 minute decision over Jack Smith, and Stanislaus Lurik pinned Jack Shearin in 12 minutes and six seconds.

Loyola Meets Davis-Elkins 5 Tomorrow

Loyola university opens its basketball season tomorrow night at the Loyola gym with the strong Davis-Elkins college five of Elkins, W. Va. It marks the beginning of Coach Leonard D. Sach's 10th season at the north side university.

Davis-Elkins brings a high scoring team to the Loyola court, which last year won 19 out of 21 games, totaling 943 points to its opponents' 569. Capt. Ellis Vest, who will play a forward position, is the visitors' leading scorer. Lester Heavener at the other forward, and Thurman Hodges, 6 foot 2 inch center, were also regulars last year.

Three New Men for Loyola.

Two new forwards and a center will appear in the Loyola starting lineup. Capt. Don Cavanaugh and Jim Hogan, the only regulars left from last year, will start at the guard positions. Eddie Connelly, who played in a few games last year, will team with Bob Ohlenroth, a recruit from the dental school, at forward. Harold Motz, 6 foot 3 inch sophomore, will be at center.

Loyola was undefeated on its home court last year, losing only two road games in a 17 game schedule. A win over Davis-Elkins will be the Ramblers' 12th consecutive victory at home.

Game Starts at 8.

The game will start at 8 o'clock to permit the visitors to catch a train for Manhattan, Kas., where they play the Kansas Aggies the following night.

MEETS VALPARAISO TONIGHT.

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Valparaiso university's basketball team will battle Davis-Elkins of West Virginia here tomorrow night. This game is the first of a series of games which Davis-Elkins will play on its western trip. Other opponents are: Loyola university of Chicago, Kansas State, University of Denver, Colorado college, St. Mary's of Oakland, Cal., and Nevada university.

Capt. Rucinski of Valparaiso will lead a veteran team. Barnekoff, 6 foot 4 inch center, leading scorer in Indiana last season, is expected to give the visitors considerable trouble.

Davis-Elkins comes to Valparaiso with a record of 160 victories and 20 defeats over a span of nine years. Last season Davis-Elkins won 19 games while losing 2. Lineups:

DAVIS ELKINS.		VALPARAISO.
Vest [C.]	L. F.	Bauer

TECH'S TRAIN FIGHTS SNOW AS BEARS DRILL

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A brief, snappy workout in the chill air of Memorial stadium today started the University of California eleven on a five day period of preparation for Saturday's football game here with Georgia Tech.

As the Bears were going through their session of signal practice, the train bearing the Georgia Tech's squad was more than three hours late as it plowed through snowdrifts on the western plateau. Railroad officials said it probably would arrive here about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—Rail bonds took a new lease on life today as the result of the decision of the Reconstruction corporation to advance the Nickel Plate $5,600,000.

The deposit certificates for the 6 per cent Nickel Plate notes, listed on the stock exchange, rallied more than 9 points following the announcement, while the undeposited notes, which have been stricken from the list and are traded in the over the counter market, gained a similar amount. At the same time the "when issued" notes listed on the curb exchange rallied to a level of about 19¾ bid, 21 asked.

Other Issues Gain.

With the Nickel Plate situation apparently cleaned up, the rest of the bond market, under the leadership of speculative rails, continued the vigorous recovery which set in during last week. Gains ranged from 1 to 3 points throughout the list, with utility and industrial issues sharing in the advance.

New York city traction bonds rallied from 1 to more than 3 points on reports that a fresh move will be made by bankers and other interests to place the lines on a self-sustaining basis by the imposition of a higher fare. Gains in these issues included bonds of Interborough Rapid Transit, B. M. T., Third Avenue Railway and Manhattan Railway.

Foreign Liens Active.

The foreign bond list again showed vitality, with Germans leading the list on a general upswing. Stimulus to German issues was given partly by reports indicating the extent to which German dollar bonds are being repatriated by purchases made in this market.

The United States government bond market dropped from the center of interest despite renewed reports concerning the debt payments to be made here Dec. 15.

With these payments now expected to be made in gold—thus removing the threat of disturbing influence upon sterling exchange—the pound rallied further today, adding another force to the improvement noted in the foreign list.

Diamond Match.

Kindly advise me regarding Diamond Match stock.—C. R. M.

Diamond Match company is the leading domestic match manufacturer. It also is the sole distributor for Swedish Match company in this country. The company is completely integrated. Acquisition of extensive stands of timber led it into the lumber business. It also manufactures wood and paper products and has large outside investments.

In 1930 the assets of the old Illinois company were transferred to Diamond Match of Maryland, whose stock is held by Diamond Match of Delaware. For each Illinois company share there were issued $25 cash, five $25 par preferred shares, and four no par common shares of the Delaware company. In addition 350,000 common shares were sold. These were acquired by an International Match, which used them as collateral. The collateral was repurchased by Diamond Match at $14.75 a share, against orginal sales price of $37.14.

The domestic match business has been comparatively stable. Decreased demand for matches because of electric lights, etc., has been offset by increased cigaret consumpton. Producing capacity, however, is estimated to be two and a half times demand. Domestic competition is consequently severe (in addition to that from foreign producers). Some benefit from tariff and anti-dumping measures has been felt. In June, 1932, the new federal excise tax on matches presented an added difficulty.

Net income for the first nine months of 1932 was $1,588,000, or $1.26 per share on 700,000 common shares, against net of $1,903,000, or $1.08 per share on 1,050,000 common shares, for the corresponding 1931 period. Net for 1931 was $2,358,000, against $2,427,000 for 1930 and $2,824,000 for 1929. Per share earnings adjusted to new common stock equaled $1.29 in 1931, $1.59 in 1930, and $1.85 in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $33,015,000 and current liabilities were $1,476,000. Cash assets alone were $20,364,000, or half of total assets.

There was no funded debt. There were outstanding 662,000 shares of $25 par preferred and 700,000 shares of no par common (giving effect to repurchase agreement).

The match business should provide a stable income, subject to competitive and tariff factors. Earnings from other divisions should respond to improved conditions. Excessive cash on hand makes possible entrance into new forms of business, reduction of capitalization, or distribution of special dividends.

The common currently pays 25 cents a quarter. The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The common is medium grade.

SOME CONCERNS TO LIFT RATES ON INSURANCE

Many Factors Bring Lower Earnings.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Reduced investment income, a higher mortality rate and increased taxes have cut into the earnings of insurance companies so deeply that a large number of them are announcing increases in the cost of insurance to policyholders beginning Jan. 1.

The mutual companies are doing this by reducing the dividends paid to policyholders. The non-participating companies are doing it by boosting premium rates about five per cent.

The Travelers Insurance company, the Connecticut General Life Insurance company, and the Aetna Life Insurance, three of the biggest stock concerns, have announced rate increases to be effective at the beginning of the year. Numerous smaller stock companies have done likewise.

Tells Dividend Cut.

Of the big mutual companies the Mutual Life of New York is the latest to announce a dividend cut. George K. Sargent, vice president and manager of agencies, states that dividends next year will be about 17 per cent less than this year.

"While the Mutual Life has experienced no difficulty in promptly meeting its obligations," Mr. Sargent says, "our gains from operations have been less, principally because of prevailing conditions.

"A slightly higher rate of mortality vailing conditions. A slightly higher rate of mortality has decreased gains from that source."

That is substantially the story told by each of the companies that has announced an increase in the cost of insurance for 1933.

Investment income is down because of defaults due to the depression and also because insurance companies have had to keep in an extraordinarily liquid condition to be able to meet policyholders' demands for loans.

On the other hand the mortality rate is up because of suicides of large policyholders who seek that way of providing for their heirs. The mortality rate has also been boosted by the deaths of heavily insured business men.

Deaths of several other large policyholders have been hastened by heart trouble resulting from worry over business troubles.

Annual reports showing the mortality experience of companies in 1932 will be published in March. Insurance men say that those figures will show an increase in mortality over 1931. From 1929 through 1931 there was a steady increase in the mortality of policyholders, especially in the higher brackets, in spite of the fact that the mortality of the whole population was decreasing.

Factors Affecting Earnings.

Three factors determine the earnings of life insurance companies: Investment income, expenses, and mortality.

Insurance companies use mortality tables based on computations about three generations old. In good times this affords them a convenient cushion. The cushion still is there, but it's thinner now. A few years ago actual mortality figures of leading companies were only about 50 to 60 per cent of "expected" mortality, as indicated by the antiquated tables. This year actual mortality is more closely approximating the rate in the tables.

Earnings have been helped some by reducing expenses, but company officials assert that it is impossible to make any great saving in expenses because taxes have been boosted substantially. Also, clerical staffs cannot be reduced much because of the additional clerical work resulting from policyholders' loan transactions.

The Prudential Life Insurance company, in announcing a dividend reduction for 1933 averaging "slightly more than a dollar per thousand of insurance," said:

"Because of economic and financial conditions, together with increased taxes and a continuance of relatively large payments for death claims and disability benefits, we have decided to make a further reduction in our ordinary dividends for 1933 to a more conservative scale than that of the present year."

The National Life of Vermont, boasting that in 1918-'19 it maintained its dividend rate while many others were reduced, says that in 1933 it will cut dividends 15 per cent.

Cuts Dividend Rate.

The Connecticut Mutual has announced a 19 per cent reduction in its 1933 dividend scale, subject to the approval of directors at their January meeting.

President Chandler Bullock of the State Mutual, announcing a 14 per cent dividend reduction, emphasizes the effect of higher taxes on insurance company earnings.

"For 1931," he says, "our federal taxes and the taxes and fees paid to the different states, exclusive of all real estate taxes, amounted to about 7 per cent of this year's dividend distribution. The major item of tax is the federal income tax. This tax, under the new law passed this spring, has been almost doubled."

The Phoenix Mutual Life last July cut dividends 20 per cent, the new rate to run for four years. Northwestern Mutual has made reductions averaging from 4 to 6 per cent. Dividends of Mutual of New York will be about 14 per cent lower.

Mutual Life of Canada will reduce dividends to participating policy holders about 15 per cent on first year policies and 10 per cent on second year, effective Jan. 1.

Guardian Life of New York will pay 15 per cent less next year. Effective Jan. 1 Continental American of Delaware will pay an average of 33 1-3 per cent lower dividends than the present scale.

Other companies are expected to announce reductions before the first of the year.

Russia Behind 5 Year Plan; People Suffer

BY SCRUTATOR.

What has happened in Russia under the widely heralded five year plan designed to make that communistic country economically superior to capitalistic nations? Much has been reported concerning general conditions in Russia, but it has remained for an outside organization to correlate facts and figures.

Such work has been done by the American Vigilant Intelligence federation in a brochure based on official and semi-official data. In every line of industry and in agriculture a progressive falling away from standards set up in the five year plan is shown. The conclusion is drawn that Russia now faces almost complete economic breakdown.

Plan Exhausts Resources.

"The five year plan has exhausted the resources of the country and reduced consumption to the limit," it is said in summing up. "The population is underfed. Enormous factories have been constructed but their means of communication are insufficient and they lack capable engineers and qualified workers.

"The collectivization of the land has transformed the independent peasants into agricultural proletarians, diminishing production and occasioned the slaughter of a mass of cattle. The population is extenuated by the enormous effort demanded of it and by the privations imposed upon it. The output of labor is constantly decreasing and the country is on the road to famine. Everything that has been proclaimed concerning the brilliant success of the five year plan in four years has proved false."

Industrial Output Falls.

Official figures are given to show that industrial production as a whole in July, this year, did not represent more than 71 per cent of that in December, 1931. Coal output fell from 191,700 tons a day last January to 152,200 tons a day in September, whereas the five year plan called for 227,000 tons as the daily average. Oil production, on which Russia relied largely for export trade, totaled less than 15,000,000 tons for the first eight months of this year, whereas the plan provided for 1932 output totaling 28,000,000 tons.

The soviets have attached great importance to their iron and steel industry, on which much of the success of the five year plan depends. But here, too, despite concentrated efforts, the output has been only about 81 per cent of the required quota for the first nine months of this year. Moreover, production costs have been 34 per cent higher than originally estimated.

Less Food and Clothing.

Production of foodstuffs has suffered even more seriously than industrial output, while wearing apparel fell below estimates. Output of provisions in July was less than half as large as in December, 1931, while production of cloth and shoes for the first eight months of this year ranged from 70 to 97 per cent of quotas under the five year plan.

"The collectivization of the countryside has ruined agricultural production and caused shortage or famine according to the district," the analysis says. "The lack of foodstuffs has forced the government to restore to the independent peasants the right to sell their agricultural products freely on the markets of the towns and to stimulate this new commercial activity cards for manufactured products have even been abolished. But there is still a shortage of manufactured goods.

Short Crop This Year.

"The harvest of 1932 has suffered from the late sowings of 1931. This year the sowings should have been completed by Sept. 10 in the greater part of the country, but only 53.7 per cent of the area anticipated had been sown. This is still later than the previous year. Government stocks of wheat are insufficient, the state having obtained only 87 per cent of what it expected.

"After fifteen years of soviet rule Russia is in a sad economic situation. It is suffering not only from the world crisis, but above all from communist political life. Everywhere, in short, ill prepared plans, irresponsible or careless directors, and an incredible bureaucracy characterize the directed economy of the soviets."

NEW BILLS ON FARM RELIEF AROUSE CRITICS

Meat Packers Join in the Attack.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The "domestic allotment plan," which aims at governmental control of farm production as well as at the raising of farm prices, moved to the fore in the agricultural organizations yesterday in view of the congressional hearings on farm relief measures which start tomorrow in Washington.

Among farm economics experts in Chicago an undercurrent of discontent was registered on the ground that the plan as set forth is somewhat hazy, its promoters dealing more particularly in generalities while the details remain foggy. As one expert phrased it: "After listening to half a dozen explanations the plan is just as clear to me as mud."

Several Versions Current.

At Washington several versions of the allotment plan are current in the shape of bills. First among them is the plan sponsored by Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, sometimes referred to as the "Wilson plan." This measure, which aims at elevation of farm prices through a subsidy tax shouldered upon the consumer, might be skeletonized as follows:

THE SETUP—The plan applies to wheat, cotton, pork, tobacco, and rice. Action with respect to each commodity must first be requested by a petition signed by at least 10 per cent of the producers, and then approved by a 60 per cent vote of the producers of the commodity, who must sign up to carry out the provisions of the plan.

The election machinery to handle these initial activities, which are on the order of the initiative and referendum, would be through coöperative agreements with state governments, agricultural colleges, county agents, etc. Petitions for the nationwide election would be prepared by the federal farm board.

Would Allot Crop Acreage.

THE ALLOTMENT—After 60 per cent of the producers of a commodity have signed up the federal farm board would be empowered to determine in advance the production required for domestic needs. It would make proportionate allotments to the states. In the case of wheat, for example, it would allot the acreage to be sown to wheat in the state.

Each state, through a committee, would then prorate its allotment among the counties. Each county in turn, through a committee, aided by township organizations, would make allotments to individual farmers. The farmer would be told how much wheat he could raise.

The prorata basis on which the allotment would be determined would be the average yield for the last ten years and the average acreage for the last five years. In the case of live stock it would be average production for sale in a five year period. To get the data on which allotments are based, each farmer when the referendum election was held would fill out a blank giving a full detailed description of his land as farmed by crops for five years by years.

Some of the most severe criticisms of the allotment plan have been directed against this vast bureaucracy of state, county, and township committees which would be set up to run this nation-wide referendum election among the farmers.

Called Subsidy by Critics.

THE TAX—This is called a "tariff benefit" by promoters of the plan, and is called a "bonus" or "subsidy" by critics. The bureau of internal revenue would be empowered to collect a tax from the processors—the millers. This excise tax, which like all taxes would be passed on to the consumer, is not to exceed the tariff duty on the commodity [42 cents in the case of wheat or 5 cents a pound in the case of cotton]. The tax is to be in an amount which would make the average return to the producers on the part consumed domestically "equal to the pre-war purchasing power." Refund of the tax is provided in the case of exports of the commodity from the United States. This tax or "adjustment charge" after collection by the internal revenue department is to be turned into the United States treasury, to the credit of the domestic allotment account. The tax funds would be divided among the farmers.

Would Give Tax to Producers.

THE DISTRIBUTION—This tax would be prorated among the producers who signed up for the plan and who kept the contract of restricted production of the commodity.

Farmers who do not agree to the allotment receive none of the tax. Those participating in the distribution of the tariff-tax-bonus would receive a certificate for a given amount which could be offered as collateral for loans at the banks.

By way of illustration as to how the plan would operate, two hypothetical wheat farmers are taken:

Farmer A has been raising 100 acres of wheat for five years, with an average of 20 bushels to the acre. He signs up for the allotment plan. The federal agency decides 75 per cent of the total United States crop is used domestically. His average production (five years) has been 2,000 bushels. He is told to cut this to 1,500 bushels.

After that there are two or three proposals, not all the in the Norbeck bill. Farmer A may produce his usual 2,000 bushels but get his bonus on only the 1,500, or he may stick to the allotment, not overstepping it by more than 10 per cent, or he may be called upon to stick strictly to that allotment of production. For doing this he will get the world price, say 45 cents a bushel, plus the "tariff adjustment tax," which is 42 cents on wheat, less 3 or 4 cents for admin-

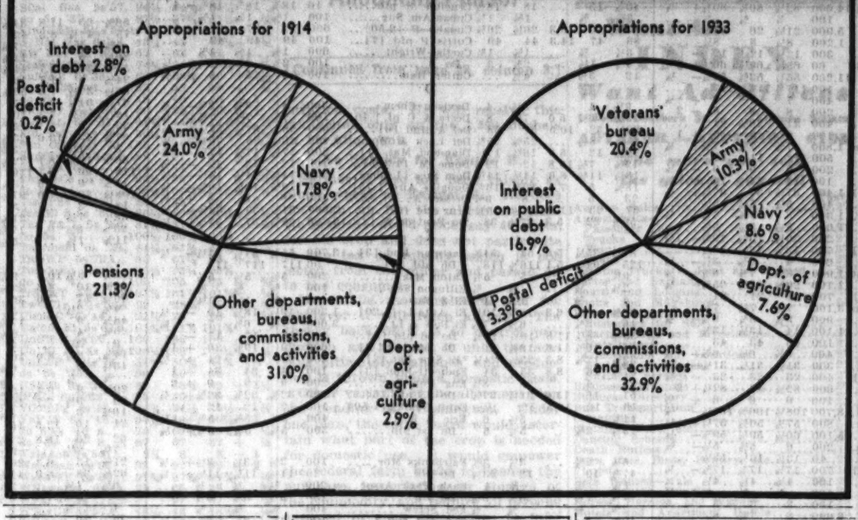
How National Defense Has Declined in Importance in Uncle Sam's Budget



Shannahan Heads Insull Indiana Group

Announcement was made last night that John N. Shannahan, Omaha utility operator, has been selected president of the Midland United company, the top holding company of the Indiana chain of utility properties formerly under Insull management.

JOHN N. SHANNAHAN.

Shannahan has never been affiliated with the Insull interests and comes to his new position from the presidency of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company. He will take office Jan. 1 and at the same time will become chief executive officer of other companies in the Midland United group. Formal election of Mr. Shannahan will be made in a few days.

While the principal operating properties of Midland United are in Indiana, it also controls properties in Ohio, Michigan and Illinois. Through its subsidiaries it has interpower connection with the metropolitan system of the Commonwealth Edison company. Control of Midland United is held by the three Chicago operating companies, Commonwealth Edison, Public Service of Northern Illinois and Peoples Gas Light and Coke company.

Chairmanship Vacant Still.

Mr. Shannahan fills the office left vacant by the death of Robert M. Feustel several months ago. The position of chairman of the board which Samuel Insull formerly held will not be filled, it was stated. Samuel Insull Jr. is expected to retire as vice chairman although it is believed that he will continue as a member of the board of directors. Samuel Insull Jr. is now vice chairman of the three Chicago operating companies. Vacancies on the board caused resignation of other Insull men will be filled by the election of Indiana men, it was stated.

Offices of the company under the reorganization will be transferred to Indianapolis from Chicago.

Mr. Shannahan is a veteran utility man. He was born in Troy, N. Y., in 1872, and was graduated from the Rensselaer Polytechnic institute in 1894. He began his business career with the New York Central and Hudson River railroad.

OFFERS NEW PLAN

Investors who contracted to purchase shares in any of the three Chicago operating utility companies under the Insull régime will be given the opportunity to cancel their contracts and receive stock or scrip for amounts paid in.

This was announced last night by Fred H. Scheel, vice president of the La Salle Quincy corporation, successor company to Utility Securities company. Insull stock distributing and underwriting concern.

"Each person," Mr. Scheel's statement said, "who purchased through the company stock of the Commonwealth Edison company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, or the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company under the Utilities Securities company partial payment plan will be given an opportunity after Jan. 1, 1933, to close his account without making further payments and receive full shares or scrip for fractional shares at his contract price for the full amount paid in."

Offer Expires in April.

Purchasers who close out their accounts will be relieved of any further obligations under their contracts, it was stated. The offer will expire April 29, 1933.

The affairs of Utilities Securities company have been under the management of bank creditors for several months. The company's affairs were in a badly tangled condition when the banks took it over. A successor firm, the La Salle Quincy corporation, was organized to take over the installment paper business of the firm. The quarters in the Federal Reserve Bank building, 230 South La Salle street, were abandoned and the new firm took offices in 100 West Monroe Street building.

Senate Quiz Prepared.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The study of the books of various Insull holding companies, begun several weeks ago in behalf of the senate committee on banking and currency, may be completed within thirty days, James E. Stewart, chief operative, said today. If it is, Stewart continued, the committee may be able to complete its hearings by the time the present session of the congress ends in March.

CENTRAL HANOVER TO DELAY AUCTION OF INSULL COLLATERAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—The Central Hanover Bank and Trust company agreed today to postpone from Friday to Dec. 22 the date for the sale of the collateral of the National Electric Power company, eastern holding company of the Middle West Utilities system.

This arrangement was concluded following a protracted conference with E. L. Williams, counsel to the Irving Trust company, receiver in bankruptcy for the National Electric Power company and two of its subsidiary holding companies. Aside from a conference between the Irving Trust company and Edward N. Hurley, one of the receivers of Middle West Utilities company, there were no new developments in the efforts to reorganize the eastern Insull properties yesterday.

Plan $400,000 Remodeling of Best Brewery

BY AL CHASE.

Filing of the certificate of incorporation of the Best Brewing company of Chicago, a step taken to perpetuate a name long identified with this city's beer business, yesterday disclosed plans for the expenditure of approximately $400,000 in rebuilding when Uncle Sam legalizes beer. Jerome Hasterlik, secretary of the new corporation and one of the incorporators, announced that elaborate plans for the rejuvenation of the old brewery plant at 1317 Fletcher street are contemplated.

CHARLES HASTERLIK.

The plant, which was founded by Charles Hasterlik, president of the new corporation, forty-two years ago, is to be completely remodeled so that when beer is legalized it will be in a position to manufacture 150,000 barrels yearly and employ in the neighborhood of 300, possibly more.

During the dry era the concern has been operating under the name of the Best Malt Products company and has been manufacturing malt extract and malt products. It now employs fifty men. Samuel Hasterlik, brother of Charles Hasterlik and father of Jerome Hasterlik, is vice president of the new Best Brewing company of Chicago. Solomon & Borden are attorneys.

Jerome Hasterlik stated that the executive and technical forces have been maintained intact since the country went dry and all of the remodeling plans will be done by the company, no outside architect being contemplated.

Nickel Plate Finance Aided by R.F.C. Loan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—An important obstacle to the successful refunding of the $20,000,000 note issue of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad [the Nickel Plate] which matured Oct. 1, was removed today when the company announced arrangements had been completed whereby the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with the approval of the interstate commerce commission, will provide $5,810,000 for meeting the maturity in line with the previously announced refunding program.

When the commission originally approved the loan to the Nickel Plate it stipulated "substantially all" of the note holders would have to accept the refunding terms if the funds for partial payment were to be forthcoming.

Will Get Cash Payment.

Under the plan the note holders will receive a cash payment of 25 per cent of the par of their holdings and the balance will be refunded for three years. The commission stipulated, however, that in the event of successful application for a receivership for the company or any of its properties all disbursements from funds made available by the Finance corporation must cease.

Under the revised plan as approved by the commission the Finance corporation will make $5,800,000 available to the Nickel Plate and the company will deposit with the Guaranty Trust company the amount necessary to cover interest on the $250 cash payment of each three year 6 per cent gold note at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from Oct. 1, 1932, to Dec. 12, 1932.

What Each Will Get.

Upon surrender of the undeposited notes or the certificates of deposit each holder will receive for each $1,000 note:

1. Two hundred and fifty dollars in cash, representing 25 per cent of the principal amount of the note which matured on Oct. 1.

2. Thirty dollars in cash in payment for the interest due on Oct. 1.

3. Three dollars in cash as interest on the $251 cash payment from Oct. 1, when the plan was to have been put into effect, until Dec. 12, the date of announcement of actual consummation of arrangements.

4. Seven hundred and fifty dollars par amount of the company's new three year 6 per cent gold notes dated Oct. 1, 1932, and due Oct. 1, 1935, being 75 per cent of the principal.

AMERICAN LINES SIGN ATLANTIC FREIGHT POOL

DUSSELDORF, Germany, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A three year North Atlantic freight pool was signed today by various members of American, German, Belgian and Dutch lines. The pool revives a system existing from 1895 to 1914.

The following individual agreements were perfected:

First, the Hamburg-American line, the North German Lloyd and the Baltimore Mail line regarding freight quotas from Hamburg and Bremen to Norfolk and Baltimore;

Second, a pool between the two German lines and the United States lines regarding service to New York;

Third, a pool of German lines and the Yankee line to Boston and Philadelphia;

Fourth, all lines servicing out of German ports and companies servicing out of Rotterdam and Antwerp to New York and other ports.

AUTO MAKERS TO PUT 100,000 BACK TO WORK

Ford, G.M.C. to Start on New Models.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—Employment for more than 100,000 persons in the automobile industry is forecast today in news that General Motors corporation, Ford, and several other companies will soon be well under way with largely increased pay rolls and dealer activity in connection with the introduction of new models.

Approximately 86,000 workers will be back on their jobs by Dec. 17 in connection with the formal announcement of the 1933 new model Chevrolet, according to W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet division of General Motors, while Oldsmobile production started today and about 4,000 are back at work again in the plant and in the adjoining Fisher body plant.

Ford Orders Steel.

The Ford organization has released some fairly good business in the steel industry which will go into the new cars put out by the company. In announcing that the new light Willys-Overland will go on the production line next Thursday, John N. Willys, chairman of the board, said the new car would sell for less than $500.

In the case of General Motors the pickup has come after several weeks of complete shutdown. Further evidence of improvement in the automobile industry was found in increased shipments of Plymouth automobiles in November. They were 397 per cent of shipments in the corresponding month a year ago, and shipments in the first eleven months of the year were 105 per cent of shipments in the like period in 1931.

Diamond T Sales Up.

E. J. Bush, president of the Diamond T Motor Car company, reported sales of trucks this year increased by more than 30 per cent over November, 1931, and were the largest recorded in any November in the twenty-five years the company has been in existence.

In connection with resumption of the Chevrolet production activities which will put the full working force back on the pay rolls, Mr. Knudsen said that while there has been no adequate checkup of retail orders in the hands of dealers, field reports indicate they are holding more advance business than the company has yet had.

Du Bois Young, president and general manager of the Hupp Motor Car company, said today that his company will resume production next Monday with 1,100 men on the pay roll. Young said the company will recall old employés gradually as production is increased.

Thompson-Starrett Co. Cuts Directorate from 36 to 22

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—At the rate at which companies are reducing the size of their boards of directors, there will be many unoccupied chairs the next year or two.

The Thompson-Starrett company today cut its board from thirty-six to twenty-two members.

COLD WEATHER CAUSES ANXIETY REGARDING CROP

Lack of Speculative Trade Sends Down Prices.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Continued low temperatures with a lack of adequate snow protection for the new winter wheat crop is increasing apprehension as to the harvest of next summer, and the greater part of the gossip on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday centered around the proposition as to whether there had been material damage or not.

Temperatures of around zero have prevailed in western Kansas for five straight days, and private reports, covering that state and also parts of Oklahoma and Texas indicated that while there was light snow at some points it was inadequate to protect the wheat plant. The latter had made poor growth over a large area before the advent of the cold wave with a three to five months' drought a factor.

Expect Heavy Winter Killing.

Crop Expert B. W. Snow of Bartlett Frazier company in commenting on the situation in the southwest said that the low temperatures taken in connection with the lack of plant vitality where wheat has sprouted in the far southwest suggests possibilities of winter killing that can hardly be ignored.

Recently private crop estimates, based on conditions and figures compiled as of Dec. 1, which was before the advent of the cold wave, suggested a possible yield of 435,000,000 bu winter wheat. C. F. L. Curtis of Clement, Curtis & Co., pointed out that probably heavy abandonment would be reported next spring, with indications of not over 400,000,000 bu. In 1931 the crop was 787,000,000 bu, the largest known, while the smallest yield in recent years was 400,000,000 bu in 1912. The 10 year average yield is 584,000,000 bu, and only three times in the 10 years have the crops been below 420,000,000 bu.

While the prospects of a big crop scare in the winter wheat belt next spring loomed as a market factor for the future there was not sufficient buying of futures yesterday to keep prices on the upgrade. Many of the buyers of late last week were over on the selling side and prices dropped around ½c from Saturday's finish. Lack of support rather than aggressive pressure was responsible for the decline, according to pit brokers.

Need Larger Speculative Trade.

Lack of a broad speculative trade in wheat was regarded as the main drawback to a higher level of prices according to views expressed by a number of traders. Net losses for the day were ¾@1½c, with December finishing at 45¾@45½c; May at 48¾@48¾c, and July, 49¾@49¼c.

The wheat market appears to have struck a dead center not only in American markets but also abroad, and there was little activity in any of the leading markets. Liverpool closed unchanged to ½c per bu higher, and reported deliveries on December contracts had passed into strong hands. Winnipeg was off ¾@1c in Canadian funds, while Buenos Aires was unchanged to ¼c higher. Export demand for Manitobas was much slower than last week and foreigners showed a disposition to hold off and wait for fresh developments, especially regarding the war debt controversy. A decrease of 2,590,000 bu in the domestic visible supply brought the total down to 165,786,000 bu against 243,509,000 bu last year.

Corn Futures Easier.

Scattered selling developed in corn at the start and the finish was within ⅛c of the bottom, with net losses of ⅛@¾c. December finished at 22¾c, May at 27¾c, and July, 29½c. The country sold only 4,500 bu to arrive, while local shipping sales were 6,000 bu. An inrease of 1,529,000 bu in the visible supply brought the total up to 27,610,000 bu against 10,024,000 bu last year.

Oats finished unchanged to ⅛c higher with December at 15½c and May at 17¾c. Local operators bought rye and sold wheat, and the former closed ¼@¾c higher, December being 32¾c, and May, 35¼c. The rye was bought on the idea that if the domestic allotment plan of farm relief is adopted it will tend to widen the difference in price between wheat and rye, and result in larger consumption of the latter grain. Barley was dull and ¼c lower, May closing at 32¼c.

SWITCH TRADES IN LARD. NEAR FUTURES WEAKER

A large part of the trading in lard was in changing from nearby to deferred positions, there being fair buying of January lard and selling of deferred futures. The market closed 2¾@7½c net lower except on May, which gained 5c. A fair trade was on with cash lard $3.95, with loose $3.35 and leaf $3.37½. Liverpool lard was 1s higher on December and 6 pence off on May. Exports of lard on Saturday were 1,407,295 lbs and bacon 57,590 lbs. Bellies were unchanged on futures, and cash lois were $3.87½. Hog supplies were liberal, but below last week and a year ago. Prices follow:

HEAVY RECEIPTS SEND PRICES OF BEEF TUMBLING

New Lows Established; Hog Market Firmer.

A deluge of beef steers brought on another crash in the cattle market yesterday and a new array of low prices were set up in almost all classes.

The run of 22,000 was largest since Oct. 31 and carried more beef tonnage than any daily supply since early in the year.

The discouraging feature of the trade was the undependable clearance and slow movement, particularly in the case of extremely heavy cattle. The latter have suffered most in the pounding of prices during the last few weeks and are selling $1.00@1.50 lower than two weeks ago.

Some show losses of $3.00@3.50, compared with the high point of the year late in September. Yesterday's rather alarming liquidation caught the trade unawares. It had been hoped that the drastic price cuts might retard the movement of supplies, but the decline has evidently had the opposite effect. Much colder weather had little influence. The beef trade was glutted.

Cheap Pork Hits Market.

Low hide and byproducts prices also contributed to the depression. Competition of relatively cheap pork and lambs was a factor on the bear side of the market. Yearling steers outsold all other cattle, but established new low tops for the last 21 years. Fancy 898 lb yearlings to Swift topped at $7.35 showing a loss of 40c, compared with last week's peak. Top for heavy steers halted on the $7.00 line, prime 1,377 lb averages going at that figure.

Only the "cream" of the run sold at $6.50 and above, with a range of $4.50@5.50 embracing many loads of steers showing evidence of a long feeding term. Some rough cattle with good flesh sold around $4.00 and plainer grades yielding a fair percentage of beef were bought as low as $3.50. The bulk of beef steers brought $4.00@6.50, making a mean price of $5.25. Cows and heifers came in for a good share of the price cut. Country buyers continued to mark time as they have been doing since top slaughter steers first dropped below the $8.00 line.

Hog Prices Hold Steady.

The hog market commenced to wabble toward slightly lower ground after the higher opening trend had been reversed with a little pressure from the buying side yesterday. As a whole, the market showed no change, both the top and average prices holding steady at $3.25 and $3.10. A small lot early sold at $3.30.

Toward the finish when chances of a rally were slight, buying increased and only scattered lots of picked over stock remained. Larger houses indicated in midsession they were satisfied to work in lightweights at current quotations, but there was a marked tendency to discriminate against weight.

Traders anticipate the seasonal widening of the price range which ordinarily comes soon after the middle of December, but are wondering if the spread will be in both directions as it was a year ago, because of the low level of prices. As a rule the wider range is brought about through a price depreciation in the weighty class.

Lambs Move Up.

Unmindful of conditions existing in cattle and hogs, lambs continued to push forward. Soon after a steady opening, prices scored gains of 15@25c. Available supplies were larger, but the effect of the increase was cushioned by favorable reports from the wholesale lamb trade where cold weather stimulated activity. All interests were in the market at the close, paying $6.40, the top, for fed westerns.

Hand picked natives to city butchers sold up to $6.25. Country buyers are eager for lambs suitable for a short term in the feed lots and are paying some of the highest prices of the season in the feeder division. Some medium grades sold yesterday at $5.40.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep, against 6,456 cattle, 34,211 hogs and 7,845 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 8,347 cattle, 41,063 hogs and 14,350 sheep a year ago.

Loan Broker Fails.

TO THE EDITOR: The latter part of June I went to room 1349 at —— La Salle street regarding an advertisement in an evening paper to secure a first mortgage on my home. I was informed at that time by Mr. K—— that they had plenty of money on hand and that he was pretty sure they were able to give me a straight mortgage for five years. I was then requested to fill out an application and also sign an agreement that I would pay all expenses if I received the loan.

After signing these two papers he said he would have to have $25 for an appraisal fee and $25 for having a picture of the house taken. I already had told him that I had no money and he would have to arrange the mortgage to cover expenses. He requested me to try and get some money within the next week or so. This I was unable to do.

Shortly thereafter I received a letter from him asking why I did not come in. A short time after he called at my home and asked if I wanted to lose my house. He told me to come down to the office the next day, which I did, only to tell him I did not have any money.

Some time later I received a letter telling me to come down and present my tax bill. This I did and they then told me that he had offered the Craigen bank, which holds the mortgage and which is in the hands of the receivers, $1,000, which they did not accept. He then made them another offer which was refused and finally said he would give me a $4,000 mortgage with $60 monthly payments, including interest.

I told him that it would be impossible for me under the present conditions. I wrote him requesting the tax bill, but to date have not received it. I would appreciate your assistance on what to do to get my tax bill and also the agreement which I signed. I am afraid that it is worded so that they can hold me to pay for something I did not receive. I have no money to retain the services of a lawyer

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

THE COMMONWEALTH LOAN PLAN makes it easy for employed persons who keep house to obtain ready cash.

YOU MAY OBTAIN UP TO $300. The rate on amounts above $100 is LOWER than the lawful rate. No lower rate in Chicago. Take 25 months to repay. If you pay in less time you are charged only for the time you keep the money. The faster you pay the less it costs.

PROMPT CONFIDENTIAL SERVICE. Full details without obligation.
